

FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

The first "mad" of the season appeared this morning.

The High Council will meet in the Social Hall this evening.

Secure seats for the "Red Pocket-Book" to-morrow morning.

Considerable dissatisfaction, about the quality of the goods, is being expressed in the train going north by a new returning Ogdenites.

On Washington Square yesterday afternoon the Salt Lake boys did some of the funniest playing in the history of the city.

Brother Jos. A. West was to deliver an address to the young people, in the Second Ward Meeting house, giving a narrative account of his late mission.

The directory of Ogden City and Weber County, compiled and edited and printed by Leo H. Haffell and F. J. Cannon, will be ready within a couple of weeks.

A little less profanity from the "swagmen" and drivers of motor vehicles would wait for the waiting train would be much appreciated by the parents of the children who congregate there, and cause a stir.

Among the first inquiries made by Mrs. Bates on deciding to play the "Red Pocket-Book" here was whether there was a good dancing outfit available to take the set of the dancing outfit.

Of late Mr. Henry Malen was at the seat for a while, and we notice his name on the bill as the "Wild Man of the Desert."

A REMARKABLE CASE.

A LIVING CREATURE IN THE STOMACH OF A LADY FOR 15 YEARS.

One of the rarest cases ever brought to the notice of the medical faculty, has transpired in this city. About fifteen years ago, Mrs. Jane Carrington Young, wife of Apostle Brigham Young, was suddenly awakened from sleep by a feeling caused by some living creature running into her mouth and down her throat. She was naturally alarmed at the incident and swallowed different things to cause vomiting.

No great subsequent inconvenience ensued until four years ago, when the lady was greatly alarmed by sensation of a living thing moving about in her stomach. The feeling increased and accompanied by a pain of something gnawing or biting at the left side, especially at times when there was not much food in the stomach. In addition to this sensation was the fact that she could plainly hear the sound caused by the creature when it was in the act of drinking.

Leading physicians in this city were consulted, but all, or nearly all, attributed the symptoms described by Sister Young to imagination, some going so far as to claim that no living creature could exist in the human stomach. The patient read medical works for reliable information and swallowed any amount of medicine, but all to no avail until recently she took some preparations given by a couple of gentlemen of this city. The desired result was attained, as the creature ceased to live and was vomited by Mrs. Young on Monday last. Although somewhat disfigured and broken up by the action of the medicine its form is still traceable, being evidently of the lizard species. It was emitted in fragments, the main portion being several inches long, and preserved in two bottles of alcohol, and a large number of people have called and examined it.

The many friends of the esteemed lady will congratulate her on getting rid of such an unwelcome intruder. We are pleased to state that she feels remarkably well considering her terrible experience.

What Alice Burt Says About Her Father.—Alice Burt is a pretty and intelligent daughter of the late Bishop Andrew Burt, about eleven years old. She had been up at Ogden for two weeks and had not seen her father, who was exceedingly fond of her, during that time. She came to the city on the evening of the day of the tragedy, and about half past eight o'clock she stated that she saw her father in the yard of the City Hall. She immediately entered the house and told her mother she had seen papa. After retiring to rest she refused to be comforted, and wept for several hours, when she states that she suddenly observed her father standing near her. He looked at her and uttered a few kindly words, in his characteristic way when in life, and told her to go to sleep. She immediately became quiet and went to sleep. She states that her father was dressed in white, and had no covering upon his head, that his face was as clearly visible as she had ever seen it, and that his voice seemed perfectly natural. She also says she is perfectly sure she was not asleep on the second appearance of her father. We have talked with the girl on the subject, and she tells the details with remarkable clearness.

The New Drop.—The new drop curtain for the Salt Lake Theatre, painted by Mr. Henry C. Tryon, is receiving the finishing touches from his artistic brush. The subject "Ancient Greece," is by no means as easy one, but every artist has had to deal with the skill of the artist, who has produced a picture of remarkable interest. On account of the thought embodied in it, the taste of the spectator does not fall in view of it frequently, as repeated inspections reveal new and hitherto hidden beauties. It incorporates a finely manipulated sky, a grandly massed variety of ancient Grecian buildings, the main foreground consisting of a sheet of water, in which floats a fleet of gaily ornamented gondolas. In the distant perspective is a range of mountains, dimly visible through the haze of the atmosphere.

The Grand Organ.—We learn from Brother M. Johnson that he has already begun the work of overhauling, and making the proposed additions to the grand organ of the Tabernacle. The tracheal action which has heretofore governed it is to be removed and its place supplied with a pneumatic action. The whole chest and apparatus in its reconditioned form, will be in good shape by Conference, and he says when it is fully finished it will not be excelled by any organ in the country.

Fine Prospect.—Yesterday we had some conversation with Brother Richard S. Robertson, who has returned from a visit to the mines of the Iron Manufacturing Company of Utah. He says he never saw such iron deposits in his life. There is in one place an entire mountain of iron, nearly eighty per cent. of pure iron. The other facilities are also of the same extraordinarily favorable character. Brother Robertson, who understands the whole process, from the making of the brick, building and arranging of the furnaces to the making of the pig-iron, considers the prospects of the company excellent. All that is requisite is the means to set it going. In his view, which is a correct one, it is bound to be an industry of remarkable profit.

Thirty-fifth Quorum (take notice). Our next meeting will be held in the 13th Ward Assembly Rooms, at 3:30 p. m., Sunday, Sept. 24. A general attendance is requested. D. DANIEL GREENE, In behalf of the Council.

Back From Wisconsin.

This morning Elder Andrew Hendrickson, of Levan, Jumb Co., arrived from Wisconsin, where he had been laboring as a missionary since last May.

In consequence of being severely afflicted with the rheumatism he was released to return home. He is still suffering from that complaint. He baptized three persons into the church and found a number of others who were greatly interested in the Gospel message. While his health was good he enjoyed his labors, and regrets much his inability to continue them longer.

Joined.—Yesterday, August 30th, the marriage of Brother Louis C. Shaw, of the Seventeenth Ward, and Miss Sarah Lambert, was consummated. Last night there was a gathering of the friends of both parties at the residence of the bride's parents, Brother and Sister Charles Lambert, of the Seventh Ward, when the usual warm and hearty congratulations were tendered, and a few happy, sociable hours spent in honor of the occasion. The groom and bride are highly esteemed and intelligent, and we join with their numerous friends in best wishes for their welfare.

Finally Recovered.—Last Saturday we noted the fact that a young man dropped $1,500 on the way from the Denver National Bank to the Landon Bank of Utah. A package of $1,000 was shortly afterwards found and restored to the owners, but the $500 package was still missing until last evening. It had been found by a young man who, without thinking he was guilty of any criminality in the matter, held it for a liberal reward. The police, after two day's search, located the missing money and the finder gave it up at once, the package being unbroken. The police restored it to the owners to-day.
