

now warrant the belief that the demands will be as large as they were in 1879 and 1880, but an allowance of 10,000,000 bushels for the difference or 60,000,000 bushels for England and the Continent seems to be as much as is warranted thus far in the light of latest advices. It is only to say that one or two days of bad weather may increase the demand very much while it does not now seem probable that it can fall below that of last year by more than 60,000,000 bushels.

A special from Paris to the Telegram says: Paris was shocked this morning by the announcement of the suicide of an American lady, well known here and in London circles. Mrs. Annie Wetmore, of New York, took her own life by poisoning herself at the house of Lady Albert Pelham Clinton, on Rue Billault. The deceased was a very handsome woman, about 35 years of age. Up to a very short time since she was said to have been affianced to the Marquis of Anglesey, to whom she became engaged soon after her divorce from her husband. In June last Anglesey met and married Mrs. Wedehouse, nee Miss Minnie King, of Georgia. Mrs. Wetmore was dreadfully depressed over hearing of the marriage, and at last in despair put an end to her life. The sad occurrence has created a great sensation in the American colony.

PITTSBURG, 22.—The proprietors and all attaches of Boyd & Peters Circus were arrested, charged with the horrible crime of abducting and outraging Miss Salone Burdett, fourteen years old. Her testimony shows she was forcibly dragged to the tents and under savage threats compelled to submit to treatment too outrageous to chronicle. The men repeatedly outraged her in turns until she was rendered insensible. Her story, as told in court, was straightforward and convincing. She recognized three of the men in court. All the prisoners were bound over to July 30th. The excitement at Somerset, Miss Burdett's home, is intense, and the friends of her father have raised funds to prosecute the fiends. The girl was found partially demented on her way to Somerset, last Monday.

NEW YORK, 23.—The Herald's Paris special has the following: The suicide of Mrs. Annie Wetmore which took place at the residence of Lady Albert Clinton, at No. 12 Rue Chateaubriand at three o'clock to-day has created a painful sensation among the English and American residents here. It is the old story of misplaced affection, abandonment and despair. Some two or three years ago the deceased lady met the Marquis of Anglesey, then Lord Henry Paget. She was a handsome attractive woman, and it is said that she abandoned her husband and only child under the impression that if she could get a divorce Lord Henry Paget would marry her. However this may be, it is certain that the relations of the parties were of the most intimate character, and the friends of Mrs. Wetmore were led to believe that a promise of marriage actually existed and that the divorce having been obtained she would soon become Lady Anglesey. Lord Henry Paget having succeeded to the title, the unfortunate lady's hopes were suddenly blasted, however, by the publication of the marriage of the new Marquis to the Hon. Mrs. Waterhouse widow of Lord Kimberly's second son, and the daughter of Mr. Preston King, of Georgia. The shock to Mrs. Waterhouse was terrible, and her friends thought she would lose her reason. After she became more composed the idea occurred to her of suing the Marquis in the English law courts for breach of promise, as she had upward of two hundred of his letters, which, she considered, would establish her case. Whether she shrank from the scandal of such a proceeding, or whether she was deterred from putting it into execution by insufficiency of means is not known, but she settled down into a state of deep melancholy, from which nothing could arouse her, and finally she procured the fatal drug which put an end to her existence, give you the facts as I have gleaned them without vouching for their perfect accuracy, as efforts are being made to keep the matter as quiet as possible.

I know not how far Lord Anglesey may be to blame in the matter, but it is quite possible that the unfortunate lady's hopes may have led her to indulge in illusions in regard to a marriage with him, for which there was no serious foundation. The police authorities held an enquiry into the affair to-day, and after inspecting the body, gave M. Weeks, of the Chapel in the Rue Bayard, permission to make all the necessary arrangements for the funeral. The last services will be conducted by Dr. Morgan, at his chapel on next Saturday Morning.

SARATOGA, 23.—The Tammany democratic State committee met to-day. Several members sent substitutes. The secretary said he had the resignation from all the candidates for presidential electors nominated at the Shakespeare Hall convention. Page, of Oswego, moved to accept at once. Cowen, of Saratoga, thought it better to appoint a committee to confer with the other organizations, before accepting the resignations. No action was taken. On motion of John Kelly the chairman appointed five members to act with the chairman and secretary to prepare an address.

The following resolution was adopted by Tammany to-day:

Resolved, That while our constituents had no part in nominating the electoral ticket, headed by Hon. Abraham S. Hewitt, we recognize that in voting for that ticket they will vote for our national candidates whose success would be jeopardized by retaining two electoral tickets in the State, and we therefore accept the resignation of the gentlemen nominated as electors by the Shakespeare Hall convention, and determine that the union and harmony of the party will be best served by omitting to fill their vacancies.

A committee consisting of Hon. John Kelley, Wm. Wright, E. S. Jenny, A. S. Page, Fred. L. Westbrook, John H. Colby and R. M. Sheets, presented an address to the democracy of the State which was adopted. It says among other things, That the nomination of Hancock, the soldier statesman of Pennsylvania, has lifted the whole party above embarrassing local and State distractions to a broad national ground, and has blotted out the past alienation and raised a grand hope. Now there is but one party, one cause and one work in which all democrats should heartily unite, and to which they should devote their utmost zeal. Let past alienations be forgotten. The following was adopted.

Whereas, The wise and patriotic action of the Democratic National Convention, recently assembled in Cincinnati, in placing before the people of the Union as candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, Gen. Winfield S. Hancock and Hon. Wm. H. English, has settled differences which have divided the democratic party upon national issues in this State; therefore,

Resolved, That with the view of having a Convention in this State wherein all members of the democracy may be fairly and properly represented, a sub-committee of five be appointed by the chair to confer with the democratic State committee to which Hon. Lester B. Faulkner is chairman, and that such sub-committee be clothed with full power in the premises. The chairman appointed as such committee Patrick H. Cowen, Saratoga; Robt. W. Edmunds, Westchester; Anthony Barratt, of Kings; L. Gardiner-Pope, of Warren, and Edward J. Megan, of Albany.

NEW LONDON, 23.—In the Narragansett investigation to-day Captain Samphire, of the steamer City of New York, testified that his boat arrived at his pier in New York about 10 a.m. He had an interview with Captain Babcock, manager of the Stonington line, but the latter said nothing about assisting the rescued passengers in any way, and, so far as he knows, nothing was done by the officers of the Stonington line to relieve the passengers while they remained on board the City of New York. He was examined at length as to his interpretation of the rules on the subject of whistles. His ideas seemed to be clearer than those of the captains of the Stonington lines.

He gave it as his opinion that it was more difficult to hear the whistles on the Stonington line than on any other in the Sound. He had experienced more difficulty in passing the Stonington boats in a fog, because they did not blow their whistles as often as other boats. He knows of one instance in which the Narragansett and Stonington had mistaken each other's signals. He was in the employ of the Stonington line as a pilot for two years, and during that time was the only pilot on board. He did not believe that the Stonington and Narragansett could have got within two minutes of each other on the night of the collision without hearing each other's whistles, provided the whistles were properly blown. They ought to have heard the whistles from five to six minutes off.

Daniel B. Rodman, a passenger on the Stonington, testified that he saw one of the boats launched and noticed her pulling around the stern of the Stonington and asked those on board why they did not rescue the passengers from the Narragansett, who could then be seen in the water. The reply was made that the plug was out of the boat and she would founder before she could reach the Narragansett. Adjourned until Tuesday.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, 21.—The Times, in an editorial on the failure of the Porte to make the concessions agreed upon to Montenegro, says: "We have reason to believe that the Austrian ambassador at Constantinople has been instructed to inform the Porte that Austria is determined that the decisions of the Conference in respect to the Greek frontier and the stipulations of the treaty of Berlin with respect to Montenegro, be executed in their entirety. At the same time the ambassador will intimate that Austria considers it indispensable that the provisions of the treaty be filled on both sides, and that his government will urge upon those concerned the obligation of keeping promises exacted for the security of Turkish interests. In this policy, Germany is in close accord with Austria, but their accord is to strengthen, not to weaken, European concert. Austria and Germany are convinced that the time has now come when in view of the disturbances in the East, it becomes their duty as signatories of the treaty of Berlin, to demand that all engagements of that instrument shall be carried into effect."
