An Afflictive Occurrence.—About noon, on Thursday week, a boy between five and six years old, a son of Mr. B. C. Ashworth, whose residence is near the mouth of Mill Creek canyon, in this county, was sent by his mother to drive some cows that were about the premises, out on the common, a short distance off. As he did not return in the course of 15 or 20 minutes, as expected, search was instituted for without finding him, which caused much alarm on the part of his parents for his safety.

From the circumstance of his having been sent to drive away the cows, it was supposed that the little fellow had followed them so far that he had got lost on the range, and the neighbors were called and a general hunt instituted for the lost boy, which was continued several days, during which every foot of ground on the prairie, in the adjoining hills, the creek and the ravines and every nook and corner for miles around was searched over and over, and every expedient devisable was resorted to for the recovery of the boy, but to no purpose, and no trace of him whatever could be found.

The anguish of the fond parents under such circumstances can be better imagined than described, and although the general search for the lost boy was discontinued as useless after four or five days, the anxiety of the relatives induced them to keep hunting and on Friday last they were successful in finding the body of the child under some driftwood in Mill Creek, about a quarter of a mile below his father's residence, much bruised evidently from coming in contact with the rocks as it passed down the rapid current to the place of its lodgement. The creek had been searched for miles in the first instance, and the drift in which the body lodged and was found had been examined several times by different parties, each leaving, satisfied that the body could not be there. Although the bereavement was a source of much grief to the parents and relatives, their sorrow was much assuaged by the finding of the body of their loved boy, and by the privilege of extending to his remains the rites of sepulchre.

This is the second child that Mr. Ashworth has lost by drowning, since he has resided in Great Salt Lake county.

Another Death By Drowning.—On Tuesday, the 28th inst., a young man named John Brazier, son of William Brazier, carpenter of the Fourth ward in this city, was on his way to Provo City from Birch and Stubb's ranch in Provo valley, in company with Jesse and Joseph McCarroll and John Gray. They were informed by some Indians that a cow was on the east side of the river near the north fork of the canyon with its leg broke. When arriving at the place opposite to where the cow was, the deceased and Joseph McCarroll took off their clothes to swim across the river—McCarroll first and the deceased immediately following. The former got across, but the deceased, after getting a little over half way, undertook to return, and came within a few rods of the shore when he commenced floating down the stream on his back. After floating in that position about a quarter of a mile, he came to a whirl in the water, where in turning round he struck a stump with his side, and shortly after sank, and was not seen again. The bystanders called to McCarroll and told him that Brazier was drowning. He jumped into the river and followed down half a mile, but did not see anything of him, in doing which he exerted himself until he was well nigh exhausted.

The body was found the next day and taken to Provo for interment.

PIRATING FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR.

Foley & Co., Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a throat and lung remedy, and on account of the great merit and popularity of Foley's Honey and Tar many imitations are offered for the genuine. Ask for FOLEY'S Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered as no other preparation will give the same satisfaction. It is mildly laxative. It contains no opiates and is safest for children and delicate persons. Sold by F. J. Hill Drug Co.

It is ten times easier to cure coughs, croup, whooping-cough and all lung and bronchial affections when the bowels are open. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar is the original Laxative Cough Syrup. Gently moves the bowels and expels all cold from the system. Cuts the phlegm, cures all coughs and strengthens weak lungs.

Your weather beaten front doors with the Oak, Walnut, or Mahogany. Same effect as polish on a pair of old shoes. Makes a wonderful improvement.
