BREVITIES.

Oil has been struck in Ireland.
Wood-soled boots are the latest Boston novelty.
The Appropriation Claws—A pick-pocket's fingers.
Large gold and silver mines have been found in China.
Twelve hundred and sixty-four dram shops in St. Louis.
There is a firm in Syracuse by the name of Settle & Barst.
Love receives its death-wound from disgust, and is buried by oblivion.
Counterfeit virtues are often a more popular currency than the genuine.
Gas has been introduced in the cars of the New York and New Haven Railroad.
The father of the late Miles O'Reilly is now President of the Dublin University.
Three American citizens have been appointed harbor masters in Chinese ports.
There are now ninety-nine planetary bodies on the roll call of the solar system.
Seven thousand five hundred new houses are building in Baltimore this season.
A mass of rock weighing 67 tons was moved fifty feet by the late Baltimore flood.
"I'll take the responsibility," as Jenks said when he stretched out his arms for the baby.
The Belgian Government has prohibited the manufacture, storage, or use of nitro-glycerine.
The aim of an honest man's life is not the happiness which serves only himself, but the virtue which is useful to others.
The Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows numbered at their last meeting no less than 400,000 members, with a capital of 3,000,000 sterling.
A negro, after gazing at the Chinese, exclaimed, "If de white folks are as dark as dat out here, I wonder what's de color ob de niggers?"
Fifteen young Japanese of high rank are now being educated in Massachusetts; five at the Monson Academy, and ten at Amherst, under the patronage of Alpheus Hardy, of Boston.
There is this difference between happiness and wisdom: he that thinks himself the happiest man, really is so; but he who thinks himself the wisest man is generally the greatest fool.
A little girl was playing with a very small dog, and called the attention of one of her playmates to the diminutive size of the animal. The reply from the four-year-old was: "My sister's got a good deal little 'dogger' than that."
The missionaries of London often scatter the "good seed" in a queer way. A tradesman's card, printed under the supervision of the tract distributors, reads: "For Jesus only. P. Green, Oil and Italian Warehouseman, No 99, Old Road, Notting Hall. Sauces, jams, pickles, &c."
"What, Mr. Speaker—what shall I say to my constituents?" exclaimed a wrathful member of Congress, on the passage of a bill to which he was much opposed. "What shall I say?" he repeated, but found it impossible to get beyond the interrogatory. "Tell them," replied the waggish Speaker, "that you tried to make a speech, but couldn't."
Captain Parker Snow, in a letter to the London Star says it is a mistake to suppose that mosquitoes belong to hot climates alone; they abound also in the Arctic regions, even among the icebergs and glaciers, where their sting is "truly fearful." He thinks them to be propagated equally by gloom or by heat and moisture.
A clergyman lately addressed his female auditory as follows: "Be not proud that the blessed Lord paid your sex the distinguished compliment of appearing first to a female after the resurrection, for it was only done that the glad tidings might spread all the sooner."
The ruling passion strong in death was characteristically illustrated on the occasion of a clergyman praying for a dying toll keeper. The poor man had not many hours to live, and the clergyman was in the middle of the prayer, "Wist a wee," said the toll man, "I think I hear a cart."
Eleanor Fitch, of Lebanon, Connecticut, attempted to chastise Mrs. Fitch the other day, but she rebelled, mastered him, stripped him of his clothes, drove him to bed, and then packed up her things and the family funds, and departed for Hartford. The heart-broken Eleanor thereupon took strychnine, but the doctors pumped it out of him.
We may judge a man's character by what he loves—what pleases him. If a man manifests delight in low sordid objects, the vulgar song and debasing language, in the misfortunes of his fellows or animals, we may at once determine the complexion of his character. On the contrary, if he loves purity, modesty, truth—if virtuous pursuits engage his heart, and draw out his affections—we are satisfied that he is an upright man. When we see a young man fond of fine clothes, and making a god of himself, it is a sure sign that he thinks the world consists of outside show and ostentation, and he is certain to make an unstable man, without true affection or friendship, fond of change and excitement, and soon wearying of those objects and pursuits, which for a time give him pleasure.
