WEATHER ITEM. - The highest point reached by the thermometer to-day was 88.

"HELP."-Mr. J. Murphy, the celebrated Irisb, Dutch and pigger character delineator will, on Monday night, commence a short engagement at the Theatre, in the sensation drams of "Help," written ex- -Mr. William C. Staines, Box 3957, New York. pressly for him by T. G. Maeder. The play with Mr. Murphy in it is pronounced by Usny to be even a greater attraction than J. K. Emmet and "Frita." If this is the be way Emmet drew while here.

HOLDER -J. T. Moore, for stealing harmay, was tined $30.

Myers, alias the "Champion sneezer, was, for being drunk and striking a boy on the face with a rock, fined $10. Not being alle to donate those amounts to the city treasury, both parties will be engaged for s low days improving the public works.

NEW SECTIONAL MAP OF UTAH. - The -ubscribers to Colonel Froiseth's new intional Map of Utah, and the general public will be glad to learn that it will be ready for them in a short time.

The proof-sheet of the last half has been received from the engravers, and has been preceded and sent back for printing.

Although the Colonel has been somewhat layed beyond the time he expected to ive it out, owing to the great amount of work on the same, we think that his submen to give every feature accurately, and Comprising tandard Works in furnish at a glance the full geography and to sanhy of the Territory.

A FIENDISH TRICK .- Brother William IL Solomon, whose place is in the Fifth Ward, at a point on the Southern outskirts of the city, where the U.S. R. R. line leaves the town, related the following circumstance to a friend of ours yesterday: He stated that on the night of Wednesday last, had lot being quite close to the line, some maliciously disposed person took a large ole fastened one end of it in the fence, alwing the other end to project a consider at a distance over the track at a sufficient argut to sweep over the top of any construcnon car that might come along. Brother solomon happened to be about in his lot setween five and six b'clock on Thursday norning and at once removed the pole. ile is of opinion that had it not been oberved by him the consequences might ave proved fatal to some of the men on the instruction train which passed down the ne a short time afterwards; or, at least, ave done them very serious injury, for, in all probability the pole would not have een observed until the train got close up

The placing of the pole, from the manner which it was fixed, could not have been herefore there is not the least shalow of 1 use to mitigate the extreme baseness of he act. We think we do not put it too arragly when we say the perpetrator can e considered but little less than a murderer in intent, and should he be discovered the severity of his punishment should be as great as the law will admit. Such persons reapublic nulsance and, when known should not be permitted to be at large. To the such people would, be far too light a way in which to administer the law, however heavy the fine might be, public senti-ment would not be satisfied with less than

It may be a difficult matter for the police officers to track the guilty party in this instance, yet their usual efficiency gives us the hope that they may prove successful, and it is to be desired they will, for the making of an example may prove salutary others, who may be as evilly disposed as as miscreant who placed over the track he obstruction above alluded to.

IN LONDON.-Elder B. W. Driggs; of tattle Creek, U. T., now on a mission in England, sends us a letter, dated London, July 31st, which is chiefly devoted to a visit paid by him and a number of other Amecan gentleman to St. James's Hall, Recent St, where were on exhibition, Captain Sates, the Kentucky giant, and his recently married wife, the Nova Scotia giantess, formerly Miss Anna Swann who, it will be "membered, was on exhibition in this city

i filer Driggs introduced himself to the unt as a "Buckeye," and they had a very leasant that together. He was then informed by the giant to the giantess, as a genteuran from Utah, when her visit to til Lake became the topic of an agreeable inversation. Brother Driggs says he sa-. and there were hundreds in the Hall or grantude for the many favors she was recipient of while there. She was happily which she was received. She was happily appointed in everything she saw there. She was particularly fond of Ogden and that cities; did not like Corinne as , and attributed that to the fact that it and she had understood that all the inhabiwere Mormons, but she found a great many gentlemen from New York and other tiles doing business there. She knew we had been badly treated and misrepresented, and President Young and the first settlers everyed great credit for their untiring energies to build up that desert waste. aid sympathize with as in the difficulties we had endured with the red men, and the many incidents common to all new coun-

This invariably brought a imile on her countenance, she had always mentioned our people as she found them; and on her return around the globe, would oring her dear "Hub" and introduce him TEASDEL&CO. her friends there. Elder Driggs says: They both expressed wish to meet me in Utah. I thanked them for their fairness, and the good report them for their fairness, and the good report of our people and Territory, and wishing them a prosperous trip and all the happiness they could desire, all of which was resprocated by them. I bade them good-bye, and thus ended a very agreeable conversation. I was thankful to have the opportunity of conversing with such prominent persons, also to hear our people spoken so fairly about where so many had the chance to hear; and I can assure you they all knew I was a "Mormon," being squalized out of the dense crowd—the awa soon passed around the hall, and no doubt I was envied by the jealous sudience, who were all anxious to speak to this august person.
