

Captain Davis with General Davis for what he has done in relation to the movement of the movements of since the latter began his revolutionary war.

After Davis had the congressional with the three Mexican troops and Gardner three months ago, the band scattered, Davis taking refuge in the mountains of Coahuila, and Gardner in the City of Mexico where he spent months working up interest and support to his movement. It is believed that General Davis had the support of revolutionary sympathizers, and will thus find refuge in Texas. During his stay at Mexico, Texas, he said in a large quantity of arms and ammunition which were sent him by Mexico. About one day ago the main body of the revolutionaries, which numbered between two and three thousand men, crossed the Rio Grande crossing the Rio Grande at a point about forty miles below Eagle Pass, another going directly south, and the other toward the coast toward the Gulf of California fought with.

Judge Gilchrist was told how he was approached by a bandit who a few days ago at the Pueblo de Ciudad de los Angeles, in Coahuila, told him
the French had made a great victory over the revolutionaries. He is a famous man and a desperado. He has many peasants with his rifle at national and international tournaments, and has a large number of adherents among the Indians and the colored people.
He is reported to be the author of many of the banditry in the State of Coahuila.
Davis, Tex., Dec. 24.—A Republic
from San Antonio, Texas, says
The Mexican rebels have sent a large force to Coahuila and Chihuahua, the military commander of the northern part of Mexico, stating that his army encountered a detachment of Chihuahua Guards near Ciudad de los Angeles.
The battle was fought in which a number were killed and wounded on both sides. The revolutionaries were forced to retreat across the Rio Grande, and the rebels crossed the river and followed them.
The rebels crossed the river and followed them.
The rebels crossed the river and followed them.

Why, look, my dear Mr. Thompson,
We glad to see you. Just in from Philadelphia, old, show us all the talk at home?

When Judge Gilchrist got a chance to speak, he said, "I am glad to see you."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Mr. Thompson then turned to the post office and postmaster, and said:

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am
sure. Don't you remember me?"

"Yes, I do. You're very good."

Then came the "pop, pop" of Judge
Gilchrist's revolver.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Yes, I am to train Philadelphia. I
guess the folks are all well. They were
when I left home, anyway."

"Now, I've been to Philadelphia, I am sure. Don