SOAP.

Among the almost forgotten things once to be found in every dooryard of this region, was the great ugly lye-leach, the receptacle for the wood ashes, ere coal and railroads came to our doors and merchants were to be found on nearly every street.

That was the good housewife then, who with forethought and economy prepared for the inevitable wash, and knew how to manipulate every scrap of fat and make it into candles or soap, or both.

What a marvelous experience this appeared to be to our European wives and housekeepers, and how anxiously they would watch the dripping lye for fear any of its precious drops should fall and waste; then as to the blending of materials, how inexperience trembled lest the soap should not come, and how the spirits and wifely reputation would both swell when "soft soap" and hard would repay the far from pleasant job.

There were earnest workers then in the indispensable duties of home manufacture, and individual after individual, with more or less chemical understanding, would essay to enter extensively into the production of improved and improving soap.

The old Englishman, Mr. Wm. Foster, and the better educated Dr. France, were among the pioneers of this important business, and memory can look back upon their crude but patient labors with much interest and not a little mirth. Oh how those baby bars of soap would turn and twist and shrivel and dry if left awhile upon the shelf, the poet no doubt had some such thing in his mind when he coined the phraseology of "Smaller by Degress and Beautifully less." Yet progress was wonderfully slow, fat was very scarce, some firewoods made but little lye, and if the stores imported soap or saponifier, the former was some sixty cents a bar, and the latter only a dollar a box. It was surely a fearful struggle then to advance from godliness to cleanliness, if the proverb is true that the one is next in value to the other.

Who of the then citizens forgets the rapture of the Englishwoman and the amazement of the Western one, when the army imported or brought with them those magnificent bars of savon that seemed worth their weight in gold, and how if one by good chance reached a household it was kept for the "better things," stored most likely where no curious or sacrilegious hand could find or use it.

The railroad alone began to half satisfy the demand, and then for some time at the rate of one and finally two bars for a quarter. And so the old famine and scarcity bides only in the memory, for every village store now carries its quota of soap, and the larger establishments bring by car loads from afar at bed rock prices, this cleansing benefactor of the great unwashed.

In the interval of years, population has been multiplied, wealth has accumulated, cattle from "a thousand hills," are annually slain for food, fatty material accumulates, and the oft repeated admonition of self sustenance, finds more enterprising and intelligent response, (not more devoted or persistent probably) but the times have changed, and the Nineteenth Ward Soap Factory of this city, in its organization only voiced official and private desire when they attempted to —at all events—utilize the local material. Our irrespressible citizen Henry Snell, made a trip to Germany and other nations in search of such information as might conduce to success in an individual enterprise, and finally succeeded in placing upon the market desirable goods, and in such an attractive style too, that home made soap became important and more fully competitive than at any previous time. Eastern manufacturers become bent apparently on crushing out this struggling industry, and the market was glutted with stock, which was for a time sold away below cost, involving for a time, the suspension of the home supply.

Consolidation of the two factories gave new life to the business, what little rivalry existed was extinguished, professional ability and experience was consolidated, difficulties seem to have been surmounted, and permanency may now surely be predicted for this branch of desirable manufacture.

Our merchants carry these goods, they claim for the same the patronage of the people, which, if generously given will help to enlarge the supply; and if in the demand some material should be imported, the full exclusion from our Territory of an article manufactured elsewhere, will surely add to the general wealth, by finding labor for our own people, and a market for our own productions.—H. W. Naisbitt, in Z. C. M. I. Advocate.

BOX ELDER STAKE CONFERENCE.

This conference was held in the Tabernacle at Brigham City, July 25th and 26th, 1885.

President Snow presided, and leading Elders from most all parts of the Stake were in attendance.

The meetings on Saturday were chiefly occupied by Bishops in giving their usual reports of the wards over which they preside, and adding short addresses, full of good counsel and exhortation.

Sunday afternoon the Sacrament was administered.

President O. G. Snow read the address of Presidents John Taylor and G. Q. Cannon, as published in the DESERET NEWS, which was highly enjoyed by the Saints, for its rich treasures of wise and fatherly counsel and promises of brightness, victory and glory of the near future.

A quiet and peaceful spirit prevailed during conference, and a good deal of very timely counsel was given, suited to the people in these perilous times. Our religion is first with us, every other thing, even life itself, being secondary, for the heavens do rule, and all the living shall yet know, that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever He will. JAMES BYWATER, Stake Clerk.

ONEIDA STAKE CONFERENCE.

OXFORD, July 27th, 1885.

Editor Deseret News:

At 10 o'clock a.m. on Saturday, July 25th, our quarterly conference convened. The forenoon was taken up by short addresses by Brother David Garner, of North Ogden; Wm. L. Webster, of Franklin, and Nathan Porter, of Preston, all of whom spoke well, bearing a faithful testimony to this great work.

The afternoon was very profitably spent in listening to the reports of the various wards by their Bishops or representatives, all of which were favorable; showing that the people are improving both spiritually and temporally.

On Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the house was filled to overflowing; many people were obliged to stand up both inside and outside, around the door and windows, in order to hear. After the opening exercises the statistical report was read by the clerk, which shows quite an increase in so short a time; after which Elder M. F. Cowley, President of the Y. M. M. I. A. of this Stake, delivered a very interesting and instructive discourse. His remarks were more particularly directed to the young, showing plainly to the understanding of all the fulfilment of some of the prophecies made by the Prophet Joseph Smith. He also gave the young people some good council pertaining to mutual improvement.

He was followed by Brother Samuel C. Parkinson, of Franklin, who also gave good advice to the young. In the afternoon the sacrament was administered, after which the names of the authorities were presented to the people for their sustenance and all were unanimously sustained. President C. O. Card then delivered a very able discourse, his remarks being principally on the persecution of the Latter-day Saints, showing that it had existed from the very beginning to the present time. He said he felt pleased to see the improvement in Oxford since he last visited it. President W. D. Hendricks and his counselors also made a few remarks, instructing the Bishops in their duties and giving good counsel to all. Yours very respectfully, A. H. HALE, Clerk.

CONFERENCE AT TOOELE.

TOOELE, July 27, 1885.

Editor Deseret News:

I submit you a brief synopsis of a quarterly Conference of the Tooele Stake, held in Grantsville City, July 25th and 26th.

At 10 a.m. on Saturday morning the stand was occupied by President Gowans and council and a number of Bishops and leading men of the Stake, and during the day Elder J. Taylor and Prest. Seymour B. Young of Salt Lake City.

Reports were made by the Bishops, Presidents of Quorums, Superintendents of Sabbath Schools, and the Presidency of the Stake, showing the status and feeling prevailing among the Saints of this locality, all being united in declaring that a spirit of peace and prosperity was enjoyed, with an increased determination expressed to conform their lives in accord with the revealed will of the Lord, acknowledging the hand of the Lord in the present vicissitudes through which we as a people are called to pass.

Good and seasonable instructions were given by the brethren visiting with us, President Gowans and others. The Spirit of the Lord was enjoyed richly by the speakers, as also the vast assemblage. The Grantsville choir under the leadership of Prof. Millward, added much to the comfort and interest of our conference.

Respectfully, G. ATKIN, Clerk.

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.

SEVERAL SCHOOLS OF THE VALLEY MEET AT MALAD.

Editor Deseret News:

At 10 a. m. July 5th, the Sunday schools of Malad, Samaria, St. John and Cherry Creek met at the Malad City meeting house. The house was overcrowded, and about one-half of the people were obliged to remain on the outside.

There were present on the stand, W. L. Webster and I. B. Nash, of Franklin, and Daniel Evans, of Malad, Superintendency of Sunday Schools of the Oneida Stake of Zion; also the Superintendents and Assistants of different wards and a great many of the brethren.

The opening song was sung by the Samaria Sunday school, and prayer was offered by Brother J. J. Williams. After singing again, by the Samaria Sunday school, exercises followed consisting of songs, recitations, dialogues, instrumental music, select reading, speeches, etc., which were rendered to the credit of those that took part in them, and will be remembered by those that were present.

The speakers during this meeting were Superintendent W. L. Webster and his two assistants I. B. Nash and Daniel Evans. The meeting closed with singing by the Samaria Sunday school, and benediction by Brother Joseph Dudley.

On the reassembling of the meeting at 2 p. m., an anthem was sung by the St. John Sunday school, prayer was offered by Brother H. Peck and singing again by the St. John Sunday school. An oddress by H. Peck, followed and then varied exercised consisting of songs, duets, recitations, dialogues, select readings etc., all creditable rendered.

Brother J. J. Williams expressed his feelings in a few remarks, Assistant Superintendent I. B. Nash addressed the meeting briefly and sang an original song of his own composition, and Supt. W. L. Webster gave som excellent instructions, after which the meeting closed with an anthem by the St. John Sunday School, and benediction by Assistant Superintendent Daniel Evans.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE SNAKE RIVER COUNTRY.

EGIN, Bingham Co., Idaho., July 27th, 1885.

Editor Deseret News:

Thinking you and your numerous readers and the Latter-day Saints in general, would like to hear from this part of the country, I pen you a short account of the country and people here in Egin.

We have a good country here, situated on the north side of the north fork of Snake River, about eight miles from Rexburg and 24 miles from Market Lake, on the line of the Utah Northern railway. The soil is a sandy loam, and we can raise almost everything that can be raised in Salt Lake Valley. We have a good meeting house 30 x 18 feet, in which Sunday and day schools are held, with a good average attendance.

We have also a Young Men's and Young Ladies' Improvement Association organized, and also Primary and Relief Societies, and I must say the inhabitants of this vicinity are pretty good people, although not as united as they might be; but I believe they have a desire to do better and keep the laws of God let come what may.

There is plenty of good land here for parties contemplating making homes for themselves, and plenty of water for work, and I should advise all parties who want a home to come and see us and judge for themselves. We want plenty of good Latter-day Saints here.

A saw mill is in contemplation, also a boom; but a provision and dry goods store is sorely needed.

Respectfully, JAS. G. WOOD.
