

REALITY AND DREAMS.

I may work all day at my easel,
With patience and skill, as you see,
But my picture is always imperfect,
It is not what I wished it to be—
I close my eyes on my pillow,
Such visions! how lovely they seem!
What fame would be mine if but able
To paint the pictures I dream!

The muse I may ardently worship,
And woo wherever I go,
But my notes are weak and discordant,
My thoughts are rough, as you know.
I sleep, and my verses are perfect,
Delightful and proper their theme;
What joy I would know if but able
To pen the poems I dream!

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 13.—The fever panic continues. The people are leaving the city by every known means of exodus. The outlying cities and towns, both near and distant, are continually establishing quarantine against us. The police force has been increased and mounted police now patrol the streets by night and day. No case of yellow fever has yet occurred among the negro population. Business is completely paralyzed and the negroes out of work gather in knots in the streets, and it is feared will soon begin to plunder and pillage the hundreds of unoccupied houses in the city. Rumors of martial law are afloat. The situation does not yet demand it, but may at most any hour if the thousands of blacks remain out of work. By reason of the exodus from the city the banks have been largely drawn upon for funds. No deposits are coming in, as the merchants find it impossible to collect accounts. The Florida savings Bank and Real Estate Exchange this morning posted a notice on the door to the effect that the pressure upon it had forced it to take advantage of the sixty-day rule with reference to the withdrawal of deposits. No funds will be paid out at present. This has not caused a panic as yet, but will when it becomes more generally known. Lime, sulphur and tar have been ordered in large quantities, and tonight several hundred fires will be kindled all over the city, two or three in every block in order to kill the fever germs if possible. Tomorrow the "concussion" theory of killing germs will be given a practical test. Wilson's battery with five pieces of artillery will begin firing continuously from 7 o'clock for several hours. Nearly every hotel, boarding house and restaurant in the city has been closed and the proprietors have fled. Only two new cases of yellow fever are reported in the city as occurring in the last twenty-four hours.

ROME, Aug. 13.—The following details have been received of the massacre at Saganeti: The Abyssinian Chief Debeb had assembled a force of 470 men, with the intention of raiding the Arkiko district. The Italian commander at Massowah, hearing of the intention, sent 600 Basha Bazouks, under command of an Italian officer, to try to surprise Debeb's force on the road. The officers enlisted the services of 200 members of the Assaortin tribe. Saganeti was reached on Wednesday last, and it was found that Debeb had been warned of their approach, and intrenched his position. An attack was made by the Italian force, and they succeeded in carrying the village, but during the assault the Assaortins proved treacherous and made an attack on the Italian rear. The Basha Bazouks became panic stricken and were massacred while endeavoring to fly. Forty Assaortins have been arrested and are held as hostages.

It is semi-officially stated that Russia, Germany, England, Austria and Spain will support Italy in declaring that capitulations do not apply to Massowah.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 13.—The Commercial Gazette's Somerset, Kentucky special says: Yesterday Constable Doc Vestal with constables Henry Warmans and Sam Warmans, went from Greenwood Station, Kentucky, to Cedar Creek church, near Cumberland Falls, twelve miles east of Greenwood, to arrest Handy Hamlin for seducing a sister of the Warmans. They chose the church because they believed Hamlin would be unarmed. After waiting through the services Constable Vestal read the warrant to Handy Hamlin and he consented to go to Greenwood. When the officers had gone a mile with their prisoner they were overtaken by a gang in command of Alexander Hamlin. The latter demanded the release of Andy. The officers refused. Alexander then began firing. The officers returned the fire and a general fusillade then took place. Both the Warmans were killed and Vestal was mortally wounded. The county sheriff is after the Hamlins.

Robertson, accompanied by a young lady, was walking to church Sunday evening when they encountered six negroes on the sidewalk who, instead of yielding the sidewalk to the lady, pushed her in a very rude manner. Robertson remonstrated and was cursed by the negroes, who said they would "get him." On his return from church Robertson was joined by three or four of his friends and was telling them of the conduct of the negroes when his party was rushed upon by the six negroes who began firing at the whites the latter being unarmed. Dr. L. W. Holliday was shot through the head and he will die. Armand White received a serious wound through the thigh and Frank Wallace was shot in the arm. All the negroes escaped except Bob Broom, the ring leader, who it is known shot Holliday. He was taken from the calaboose yesterday by a mob and strung up to a tree near the cemetery. ## WHOLESALE LETTER ROBBERY.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—A system of wholesale letter robbery, extending over a period of two years, and involving the theft of thousands of letters, including enclosures of drafts, checks and post-office orders, aggregating unknown amounts, though known to exceed $100,000, has been brought to light. Complaints were made against the Chicago postal service, and the robbery was discovered by the police. United States Post-office inspectors Frederick Von Oberkamp and Thomas J. Mack are in custody. More arrests are likely to follow. Von Oberkamp claims he is a member of a noble family, while Mack is a carpenter and citizen of the United States. The discovery of the gigantic pilferings of boxes came about in an unexpected way. Oberkamp was indebted to his landlady and in payment, tendered a check which she accepted and returned to him the difference in cash. The check proved a forgery and she placed the matter in the hands of the police, who locked the man in his room on North Market Street. In searching this room the officers were astonished to find a trunk filled with letters. They had all been opened, had no postmark and the stamps were removed. It was then ascertained that Von Oberkamp occupied another room and when this was searched another trunk full of letters, all in the condition described above, were found. At another room in the hotel was found a valise packed with broken mail matter and a bunch of keys. One of the keys was for railroad mail pouches and the other would fit any letter box in the city. The captured mail matter was taken to the postoffice inspector. The envelopes contained all sorts of queer things usually sent through the mails from dry good samples and bits of jewelry to writing pads and photographs. But that which showed the magnitude of the depredations was the presence of piles of insurance policies and trust deeds, drafts, checks, money orders and promissory notes. These represent in the aggregate nearly $100,000. The largest check was one for $10,000, drawn by a wholesale grocery house of Chicago on the Continental National Bank. Numerous other drafts ranging from $7,000 to $10,000 and scores drawn for $5,000 each were found. Von Oberkamp was arrested Saturday and confessed his guilt on Monday. The postoffice authorities are now investigating how the postal keys came into his possession, and it is claimed further arrests will follow. It is supposed some letter carrier, anticipating the loss of his position, had a duplicate of his key made and gave it to Von Oberkamp, sharing with him the proceeds. Today both the men were before Commissioner Hoynes. Mack, who was arrested on suspicion because he had vouched for the genuineness of the check furnished Von Oberkamp's landlady, waived a preliminary examination and was held to the federal grand jury under $5,000 bail. Von Oberkamp's case was continued until Tuesday in bonds of the same amount. Both men are now in jail.

NEW MEXICO TRAIN DISASTER.

DENVER, Aug. 14.—A dispatch from Albuquerque, New Mexico, says: The east bound Atlantic & Pacific train, due at Albuquerque at 1:30 yesterday morning, came in ten hours behind time, the delay being caused by a wreck which occurred on the desert in California, at a point known as Horseshoe Curve. The train was running very slowly, but the trucks of the express car it is claimed were not in good working order and refused to adjust themselves to the curve. In consequence the car was pulled off and breaking away from the engine, which it left on the track, went tumbling down a thirty foot embankment, pulling after it the baggage, mail, three emigrant coaches and two sleepers well filled with passengers, all of whom suffered injuries more or less severe. It is asserted the mail clerk who was badly bruised tried to telegraph to Albuquerque for assistance, some wounded passengers tried to send dispatches to friends, but the railway controlled the only wire, and positively forbid the operator to send messages. Twelve hours after the accident the passengers were picked up by a special train. The passengers were very indignant at their treatment, particularly in the matter of the telegrams, and adopted resolutions condemning the company's actions.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—The particulars of the murder at Coteau Landing, 40 miles from here, have come to hand. Some weeks ago, a cattle driver, from St. Anicet, named Jale x. H. Caza, told Elle, the son of Pilon, a hotel keeper at Coteau, he was going to Montreal and would return shortly for the purpose of getting married. Last evening young Pilon went to the 10 o'clock train from Montreal. There he met Caza, who being considerably under the influence of liquor wanted to be driven with his trunk and valise to the St. Anicet boat. They started for the landing, but when they came near the hotel Pilon refused to go any further as it was too dark. This angered Caza and hot words passed, during which Caza pushed Pilon off the wagon and kicked him. The noise brought down Pilon senior, who tried to interfere. Caza, without the least warning, drew a revolver and fired, the ball striking Pilon in the heart, after which Caza walked quietly back to Coteau station, and meeting two of the hands asked them to have a drink. They assented and after drinking he discharged a revolver at them twice. After that he remained lounging about the station till about 12 o'clock, when he was lost sight of. His trunk and valise were filled with fine wearing apparel and a number of papers, showing that he had at one time been in Butte City, Montana, and Murray, Idaho. The murderer was seen at St. Poly Carpe this morning. Caza returned last winter from the gold fields of California, where he had amassed a fortune of $100,000. He married one of his cousins a few weeks ago. A life of inactivity was more than he could stand and he became engaged in the cattle trade. He was about 35 years old.

EUROPEAN NOTES.

Bismarck's Antipathy.—William's Thorny Path.—Celebration of the Defeat of the Armada.—Girls' Strike in London.—Pope's Epistle.—Italian Reforms.—Proposal for Disarmament.—French Affairs.—Eastern Alarms.

The person who above all others commands the attention of Germany—nay, more, of the whole reading public of Europe, at the present moment—is the youthful Emperor William II. And the question which has been asked by so many thousands during the past week—some with fear and some with hope—is simply this, "Has Bismarck made a mistake?" There are thousands who declare he has, and even many of his friends shake their heads dubiously.

An impression universally prevails that William II. has made undue haste in visiting the Czar, and by that undue haste increased rather than lessened the difficulties which surround the Bulgarian question.

It is generally well known that there are two political parties in Germany. The one finds its best embodiment in Bismarck, the other found a good representative in the late Emperor Frederick and the Ex-Empress Victoria. But it is not generally known that a personal dislike has existed between the Ex-Empress and Bismarck for more than thirty years. To begin with Bismarck was opposed to the English alliance, and when the present Emperor was born and it was found that his left arm was somewhat crippled, Bismarck said, "This * * * English woman has 'blotched' our noble race of Hohenzollerns." This bitter feeling has continued to increase with the years, and so much the more as the Ex-Empress Victoria has followed the example of her noble father, Prince Albert of England, and made herself the patron of art, culture and all truly liberal movements. The London Truth says, "When the Prince of Wales was over to the funeral of the late Emperor he tried to arrange matters but failed, and the will of the late Emperor is to be contested. One thing is certain, there is a bitter feud between the Empress and her son, and as a consequence, the Queen of England is in a high state of indignation." Though the German Chancellor inspires the people and even the German nobility and aristocracy with a great deal of respect for the valuable services he has rendered his country, yet among the learned, professions, the students of the universities and the cultured classes throughout the empire there is a feeling that the Ex-Empress is more than half right. The German people now begin to realize the loss they have sustained in the death of Emperor Frederick. Unser Fritz (our Fred) is a name almost as sacred to the German as Washington's is to the American. Respect to parents is one of the cardinal virtues of German character. The quarrel of the young Emperor William II with his mother, the Ex-Empress, has by no means endeared him to the hearts of the German people. Der Bund, Der Volksblatt, and many other journals bitterly denounce him. His path is already strewn with thorns.

As an evidence that the St. Petersburg meeting has been to some extent a failure Bismarck now proposes to summon a European congress, with the view of inducing the Great Powers to limit their armaments to those already voted by their respective Parliaments, inasmuch as any further bur-
