Plasterers wanted. Apply at the Deseret News Office.

We are still having the most beautiful and pleasant weather.

Typhoid fever still exists to a considerable extent in this city.

The malady from which Miss Julia Budge is prostrated is typhoid fever.

There is a message at the Western Union Telegraph office for A. Sussan.

The High Council will meet in the Council House at 7 o'clock this evening.

The plasterers are at work on the interior of the 18th Ward Meeting house.

Dr. Seales has a card in our paper. He has had ample experience in his specialty and comes well recommended.

The Priesthood meeting of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion, will be held at 11 a. m. to-morrow, in the Assembly Hall.

Elder L. R. Martineau, son of J. H. Martineau, of Logan, is in charge of the company of immigrants now on the way from New York.

The Union Pacific rolling mills, though now doing more work by half than ever before, are unable to meet the demands of the road; now building so many branches.

The Board of Directors of the D. A. and M. Society, will meet at room No. 7, City Hall, on Saturday, at 7 p. m., to receive the report of the committee on the Meers' prize essay.

Considerable snow has fallen lately on the plains between here and Omaha, and the weather is quite cold. At noon on Wednesday the thermometer stood at 24° at Laramie.

The many friends of Brother James Needham will be pleased to learn that he has recovered from his late illness, and his pleasant face has once more to be seen in the establishment of S. P. Teeddel.

A company with $5,000 capital has been organized at Trinidad, Colorado, to bore for oil. It is thought by experts that the oil basin of the Rockies can be struck at El More at a depth of 1,000 feet.

Leading stock raisers of the great plains are being crowded out by farms and sheep ranches. Some of them are leaving for the great unpopulated north, near the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad.

Great excitement prevails over rich discoveries of gold in the vicinity of Fort Maginnis, Montana, and hundreds are wending their way to that point. The nearest road is by way of Glendive, a station on the Northern Pacific.

A gentleman residing in the 11th Ward informs us that some person is in the habit of carrying off his cows, and unless he happens to hear the currier when he leaves the paper and gets it immediately, he invariably loses it. Contemptible.

A Boise City, Idaho, exchange blows in this way about that place: Boise City has every conceivable advantage over all other points between Salt Lake City and Portland; besides which she is already a substantial little metropolis, and is going ahead with gigantic strides. "Gigantic strides" is good.

A notorious desperado, known as Perimmons Bill, was executed some time since, in the south. Before leaving the sphere of his depredations, he gave a reporter a sketch of his life, from which the following is an extract:

"When the Union Pacific was being built through Nebraska, Bill followed the line of road and became one of a notorious gang of cut-throats and desperados. When the vigilantes hung up so many of the gang in Laramie City, in 1863, Bill was sentenced to death and led to a telegraph pole to be hung. His extreme youth and good looks saved his life, and he was given fifteen minutes to leave town. He stole a horse from a lively stable and rode away."

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Gone to Cache.—Counselor D. H. Wells and Elder C. W. Penrose, the latter accompanied by Mrs. Penrose, left for Logan to-day, to attend the Quarterly Conference of the Cache Stake of Zion.

Off the Track.—The special freight train from the south, 7-day met with a mishap near the "doble" yard, in the 6th Ward. By some mistake on the part of the section hands the switch was not in place, and the engine, tender and one car ran off the track and took the street for it. A number of railroad hands were soon on the spot to put matters in shape again.

Coming Home.—The following, in addition to those already published, are among the released missionaries with the company of immigrants now on the way to Utah: Joseph Orton, late traveling Elder in the Birmingham Conference; Alexander Burt, traveling Elder in the Glasgow Conference; and Edward Stevens, traveling Elder in the London Conference.

Meers and the authors of the seven essays presented for competition are also respectfully invited to be present at the opening of the report.

JOHN R. WINDER, President.

A Fleet Thief.—On Saturday night, Selgel Brothers, had a coat stolen from their establishment. About half past ten this morning Mr. Henry Selgel saw a fellow with the identical article on his back. He approached the thief and told him about it. The guilty party immediately made a dash to escape, passing through the White House to the rear, and across lots, probably in a southerly direction. The last seen of police officers Andrew Smith and W. Salmon, they were heading off for the same point of the compass, with their coat tails floating horizontally behind them. As they had not reported at headquarters up to 2 o'clock, it was intimated that they were still in pursuit of the fugitive.

PRESIDENT TAYLOR AND PARTY.

President Taylor and party arrived at Beaver on Tuesday evening.

On Sunday morning, at Fillmore, the meeting house was filled to overflowing. After singing by the choir, Elder Richards offered prayer, and Presidents Woodruff and Cannon addressed the assemblage. Benediction was pronounced by Elder Nuttall.

Presidents Partridge and Robinson and Bishop Smith met the party at Scipio and traveled in company to Beaver, attending all the meetings.

On Tuesday, November 1st, a slight snow fell during the night; cool this morning. This being President John Taylor's birthday, he received the hearty congratulations of the members of the party and good wishes for his continued health and long life upon the earth, to enjoy his labors and bless and comfort Israel.

The party started from Kanosh at 7:30, and arrived at Cove Creek Fort at 11:15. Here they found Sister Hinckley and family in great affliction in consequence of the death of her eldest son, who was murdered a few days ago at Franklin, Idaho. Brother Arza Hinckley, the father of the young man, having gone north after the remains of their son. Such consolation as could be given to the sorrowing family, after partaking of lunch, the party moved out at 1 o'clock, and after a pleasant, cool drive, part of the time in a light flurry of snow, arrived at Beaver at 5 p. m., where all were comfortably provided for by President John R. Mordock and others of the brethren.

The party started for Parowan at 8 a. m., yesterday.

The Pianist at the Theatre.

Joseph need not hang his harp on the willows, nor weep when he remembers "Zion." His playing last evening was unsurpassed and he had an appreciative audience. It is a credit to Salt Lake City that such a large and evidently cultured assembly of the lovers of sweet sounds can be gathered here to listen, with rapt attention, to exclusively classical music, from a single instrument during a whole evening. Ordinarily, people soon tire of the piano, but the performance of last evening was extraordinary. The capacity of the Steinway Grand, furnished by Calder, was tested to its utmost, from the faintest and most delicate trill of the softest pianissimo to the grandest reverberations of which the magnificent instrument is capable. Sometimes strains bewilderingly beautiful came floating out from the piano, and ran rippling and trickling along, clear and bright as the note of a canary; then the tones were muffled as in Trameres, and the sounds subdued until the auditor seemed indeed borne to the enchanted land of dreams, and of dreams that were entrancingly beautiful. Again would follow two distinct strains of melody, one solemn and pronounced and the other a species of fairylike music, which ran rippling through it, around it and over it with all the abandon of the tendrils of the fragile vine caressing the massive limbs of the gigantic monarch of the forest. In exceptional instances the melody was interspersed with wild and bizarre passages which completely chained the attention of the large and appreciative audience, while occasionally the powerful instrument and the whole auditorium, seemed to fairly throb and quiver beneath the thunders of the forte passages. The English language is copious and expressive, but there is one thing that it cannot do and that is describe, perfectly, the Joseph performance. He is indeed the hand of a master.

Liquor Question.—The firm of Cleary and Hogle, saloon keepers, was before Judge Hunter to-day, on a writ of habeas corpus. The arguments were made by Judge Z. Snow, and Mr. Rawlins for the County, and Mr. Arthur Brown for the defendants. A decision had not been given, up to this afternoon.

Prostrated.—Brother W. F. Cochran, of the 12th Ward, an old member of the Church and one of Utah's earliest citizens, is ill of typhoid fever.

THE MURDERERS COMMITTED.

By courtesy of officer W. Calder, who was present at the examination, at Oxford, on Wednesday night, of Fred. Barnes and Mike Mooney, the alleged murderers of Joel Hinckley, we are enabled to give authenticated details of their fair.

By the indefatigable energy of Supt. Geo. Thatcher, every pass and trail in the north was guarded with watchful vigilance.

Wm. Hopkins met a man named West, in the northern part of Cache, to whom he communicated the news, and asked him to tell his neighbors to be on the lookout for the desperados. He took the information to Portneuf.

On Wednesday morning one of the murderers (Barnes), appeared at the house of Mr. Sagers, at that place, and asked for something to eat. He refused to eat at the table, saying he had a partner, and he wanted to share with him. Young Sagers asked him where he was going. He replied, "Cariboo." "I am going that way myself," said Sagers, "and if you will wait till I hitch up my team, I will carry you along." This was agreed to.

Sagers then went to Mr. West's and acquainted him with the fact that the murderers were close by. The two then proceeded to a neighbor's to get arms to secure the fugitives, and there they found W. Hopkins and the three desperadoes already named. West exclaimed to Hopkins, "You are the man we want, we have got the murderers."

The party then found the prisoners and secured them. Each was placed in a separate wagon and taken to Oxford. They asked what they were arrested for, but the officers were silent on the subject, Sheriff Brown merely remarking to Barnes, "You ought to know." Barnes, who is the smaller of the two men, then said he might as well tell it all, as he couldn't get away, "and then," said he, "you may hang me." His version of the shooting was substantially the same as already published. He was to watch the mail carrier while Mooney made Hinckley give up his money. The pistol was a hair-trigger, and he says it discharged prematurely.

Mooney, who is of Irish parentage, but born in Australia, is sullen and uncommunicative, refusing to tell anything. He is the older, larger and more hardened of the two criminals.

Brother Arza Hinckley, father to the young man who was murdered, was present during the examination, which took place before Judge Brewster, the prosecution being conducted by the District Attorney Mr. Willard Crawford.

Barnes reiterated his statement at the examination in the presence of Mooney, the latter still holding, however, to his denial.

The prisoners were committed to answer to the grand jury, at Malad City, which will be in session one week from Monday.

The energy which has been displayed by Supt. Geo. Thatcher in taking every possible means within reach to secure the capture of the prisoners is a matter of general comment.

The Captured Murderers.—Yesterday we published the news of the arrest of the murderers of Joel Hinckley. The Ogden Herald contains the following, which gives a few additional details.

The assassins, it appears, being hungry, went to a ranch situated on the old Fort Hall road, near Soda Springs, where they asked for something to eat. The ranchman fed them, but at the same time suspecting who they were inquired about their destination.

They answered they were going to Cariboo. The ranchman said he was also going there and volunteered to take them in his wagon. The offer was readily accepted, and all got into the vehicle and started; but, instead of taking them to Cariboo, their host delivered them into the hands of the officers, Sheriff Wm. Brown, of Ogden, Carl Loveland of Brigham, Wm. Hopkins of Logan, and Sheriff Homer, of Oneida, who were at no great distance from the ranch. The prisoners were taken to Oxford for preliminary examination, to which place Supt. G. W. Thatcher, District Attorney Crawford and Mr. D. G. Swan repaired on receipt of the news of the arrest.

Prospective Improvements.—The Tabernacle Choir have some commendable improvements in prospect. Before leaving England Brother Thomas C. Griggs received a cash draft with which to purchase new music. Accordingly he procured a set of books containing twenty anthems, which will be a most valuable addition to the musical stock of the organization. Besides these a hundred copies each of several new pieces, were procured. The new music is expected to arrive with the coming company of immigrants.

It is probable also that the choir will be considerably enlarged beyond its present dimensions next summer, when its strength will probably reach from 150 to 200 choristers.

It is not unlikely that Zion's Musical Society will unite with the organization.
