SESSION OF THE CITY COUNCIL

Watermain Extension and Sidewalk Improvements Principal Matters Considered.

OGDEN REPUBLICAN LEAGUE.

Branch of National Organization Completed With Sixty Members—Woodmen Parade.

OGDEN, May 4.—The question of water main extensions and sidewalk improvements comprised the great part of the business transacted by the city council at last evening's session.

The street committee recommended that the bridges over the Ogden and Weber rivers be painted. The recommendation was adopted.

The sidewalk committee recommended the publishing of the notices of intention of the creation of sidewalk districts as recently petitioned for.

The large number of petitions received for extensions of water mains in various parts of the city were filed with the special water committee, as the city has authorized all the extensions that it can afford at the present time.

Payrolls amounting to $2,896.44 for various departments, and $513.80 for the waterworks department, were allowed. A. C. Campbell, assistant engineer of the Harriman lines, in a communication invited the mayor and city council to be at the viaduct Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and inspect it prior to the city's acceptance of it. The invitation was accepted.

The Utah Light & Railway company submitted the forms of two bonds for $10,000 each before the beginning of the work on the extensions and improvements of their gas mains. The bonds are to insure the keeping of all trenches resurfaced and in good condition for ten years. The form of the bonds were accepted.

After some discussion a resolution authorizing the appointment by the mayor of a supervisor of sprinkling was passed. It will be the new official's duty to see that competent help is employed upon the sprinklers and satisfactory service is given.

Plumber licenses were ordered issued to James McBeth, Halverson Brothers, W. J. Dollimore and John Smith.

NAT'L REPUBLICAN LEAGUE.

Ogden, May 4.—With a membership of 60 an Ogden club of National Republican league was organized last evening by J. F. Turner, assistant national organizer, and state officials who accompanied him, which included Gov. Spry and United States Dist. Atty. Booth. The meeting was largely attended and much enthusiasm was displayed.

George H. Davis acted as chairman and S. G. Dye as secretary. Chairman Davis introduced as the first speaker, Gov. Spry, who spoke of the object of the organization. He said it was an order for no faction and no man. It was a business and it is the duty of all voters to stand by their interests. It is time to cease bickering and strife, and all should get together and boost for Utah. Utah declared the governor, had been in line ever since statehood, and this had been the secret of success at Washington.

Col. Booth said that it was time to unite Republicans and to spread the gospel of Republicanism throughout the state. He referred to the influence of Utah at Washington, of Senator Smoot as second on the finance committee and Senator Sutherland on the judiciary committee—both had been appointed over heads of older senators. In closing, Col. Booth said "The Republican party is the only party fit to govern. It is just as important to teach its principles as it is to teach honesty."

After a short address by Organizer J. F. Turner, telling of the history of the organization, the local organization was effected. A nominating committee consisting of Oscar Madison, Fred Naisbitt, Thomas B. Farr, George Halverson, Moroni Skeen, W. C. Howell and John E. Bagley was named and subsequently rendered a report recommending the election of the following officers: George H. Davis, president; James B. McCracken, vice president; W. N. Peterson, secretary; Thomas B. Farr, treasurer; John E. Bagley, W. C.

The members of the night shift went on when the day shift came off, and the day shift relieved them this morning. This method is being pursued in the effort to have the building completed in 60 days. Manager Clark says that he hopes the company will be able to give performances in that time.
