Cruelty is the ground upon which John S. Johnson asks a divorce from Eugenia Johnson, whom he alleges has often threatened to kill him and has for some time been carrying a razor for the purpose of "making away with him." They were married in San Francisco on March 23, 1904, and it is alleged that the cruel treatment commenced in less than a month after the marriage. Since then she has made several threats of shooting him and killing him with a butcher knife and a razor. The complaint was filed in the district court yesterday afternoon.

TENTED CITY AT CAMP BLACK HAWK

Soldier Boys Are Now Under Canvas on Shores of Utah Lake.

ARE DRILLING AND BATHING.

Militia is Enjoying Itself—Comprehensive Order Issued Covering Nearly All Phases of Camp Life.

(Special to the "News.")

Camp Black Hawk, Aug. 23.—The national guardmen of Utah and the regulars, U. S. A., from Fort Douglas, have all arrived, and are now in camp on the shores of Utah lake, west of Provo city. The camp has been christened Camp Black Hawk in honor of the Indian war veterans residing in this neighborhood, and the valiant services they rendered their country "way back in the sixties." It is a neat complement to the old Indian fighters, and Brigadier-General Cannon's courtesy in so naming the camp will no doubt be much appreciated by them. It is hoped that some of the veterans will visit the canvas town during the week.

The specific attachment of men under Lieut.-Col. E. V. Smith, N. G. U., arrived in Provo City last Saturday, and had the camp in readiness for the guardsmen when they arrived yesterday. The location of the camp is the same as that of last year, and is an ideal spot. It faces the east, and directly in front, in the distance, towers Peak of Wasatch range. To the rear of the camp are the magnificent, clear, fresh waters of Utah lake, and a few hundred yards to the left is the willow-skirted Provo river.

As the soldiers are in for drill purposes, the shade in the vicinity is abundant, and the bathing facilities are excellent. Many of the boys have already scolded themselves of the opportunity of taking a dip in the refreshing waters of the lake.

The two companies of infantry, Twenty-ninth regiment, U. S. A., arrived at the camp on a train after a march of two and a half days. The men in the main stood the march excellently; a few of the recruits were a little weary and their feet were somewhat bruised, but a little rest was all that was necessary to restore them to vigorous activity.

The Twelfth battery, U. S. A., battery A, N. G. U., battery A, N. G. U., and the several infantry companies of the national guard, except company F of Mantel, arrived at about noon yesterday. The Mantel company did not arrive until evening.

As the soldiers boys marched into camp, they were lined up before the flag staff to witness the hoisting of "Old Glory." It was an inspiring event, and the strains of the national air and witness the uncovering of heads as the flag was slowly and reverently raised over the camp, and its folds were given to the breeze.

The following general orders were read before the guard:

Headquarters First Brigade, National Guard of Utah, Aug. 22, 1904.

General Orders No. 6.

1. In compliance with G. O. No. 10, C. G. U., and G. O. No. 10, N. G. U., the headquarters of the National Guard of Utah is assembled in camp of instruction at the resort on the shores of Utah Lake, west of Provo, for a period of six days.

Battery "A," Light artillery, and troop A, First cavalry, will observe and conform to the drill and duty calls of the Twelfth battery, U. S. A.

4. The following reports to the camp command will be strictly observed:

Men will march in quick time, by the companies, to the mess hall by the senior non-commissioned officer in charge. Loud talking or other noisy conversation will not be permitted in the mess hall; non-commissioned officers in charge will be held responsible for the maintenance of order in this respect. No member of the command will be permitted in the immediate vicinity of the kitchen, except when on duty; leaveings must not be thrown in or about the building, but will be deposited in designated places. The washing and cleaning of mess kits will not be permitted in the vicinity of the water tank near the hospital tents; they will, however, be thoroughly cleaned after each meal. Lastly, in this respect is likely to lead to serious consequences.

Company commanders will inspect the messes served at their respective commands and report to the camp commissary of subsistence any proper complaints.

The utmost cleanliness and strict compliance with sanitary precautions being necessary to the health and comfort of the command, officers and men are charged with the duty of minimizing in every way the work of the fatigues party by keeping quarters and streets free from all refuse, garbage, etc. Especially will compliance be required with the instructions which may be given as to sanitation precautions. Bathing will be indulged only in moderation, and bathing suits or other proper clothing must be worn except after dark in the evening and before first call for drill in the morning.

For a period of this encampment, unless otherwise ordered, companies E, D and H, First infantry, will be assigned to the first battalion.
