

Jan. 3, 1892, when the high school build-ing on the present site became the home of the school. From this point the pro-cession countermarched to the new university, which they had left as the Brigham Young academy, and re-enter-ed as the Brigham Young university. The marching students attracted great attention from the citizens, and pupils of the public schools were mass-ed at several points to view the march. Many of the business houses were de-corated with the university colors, white and blue.

IN COLLEGE HALL.

In college hall where the exercises were held, the speaker's stand was dec-orated with the Stars and Stripes, the university colors, white and blue, class banners, potted plants and autumn leaves. On it were seated President Joseph F. Smith, Hon. John Henry Smith, Senator Reed Smoot, President David John and members of the board of trustees and faculty. The hall was packed with students and visitors. It was neariby 12 o'clock before the

It was nearly 12 o'clock before the large audience was called to order by President Cluff The audience was called to order by rendered the anthem, "God of Israel," and prayer was offered by Elder J. E. Booth. Miss Florence Jepperson sang. "Hear Ye, O Israel," in her usual excellent impressivé manner.

For blue is in her eyes,... For blue is in her bonnie eyes, And of white her thoughtful brow.

The balance of the afternoon was devoted to athletic sports by the stu-dents on the university campus.

HON. JOHN HENRY SMITH.

Hon. John Henry Smith of the quorum of Apostles, spoke of the inspira-tion that should be felt by the Latter-day Saints from the promise of the revelation that the knowledge gained revelation that the knowledge gained in this world will arise with us in the world to come. He urged the students to develop a character of strict integri-iy, honor and truth, and an ernest devotion, based upon the love of God and the world, thus bringing honor to the institution and to the men who had founded it and labored therein for the good of the stu-dents. He inpressed earnestly upon the students the necessity for honor and honesty in private and public life, and the duty of love of country and devothe duty of love of country and devo needed, as He had done in the past. Af-ter referring to the large donations for buildings in an appreciative manner, he expressed the thought that the students would not forget the labors and efforts of Dr. Maeser and the early teachers, who worked devotedly and for very scant compensation in the early days of the institution. The Presidents of the Church had al-so been generous and loyal to the school, and the Church had asisted it to the greatest possible extent. Presi-dent Smith had always been a great friend and supporter of the school, and was doing all in his power for its ad-vancement. The speaker closed by ad-monishing the students to be true to their colors, the white and blue, and the principles they represent, purity and truth. Prof. Reinherd Maser of the Beauer
