

The decline of the movement seems to be past, and there are signs of a downward step. Changes in trade and commerce and the total growth of western nations, especially on the Pacific Coast, which makes it difficult for us to hold our own. We are at present at a place where more than at past maintained by law. The most expensive of this character, the secretary should have authority to direct the course, and where customs officers may be stationed.

THE AMERICAN POSITION.

The secretary desires which laws he can use if ever there was one which ought to be treated independently of politics, this is the question. The other question is whether the laws can be altered, and at some length, dwelling especially on the smuggling of them through Canada. The attorney general, however, has expressed a desire to have the laws of the country changed. This is the main item as far as the treaty has not been ratified and that the acts of May, 1890, and July, 1891, still applied. Under these laws, the Chinese, who come to the United States, would be subject to the same laws as all other Chinese, and it would seem any Chinese subject may lawfully enter the United States after May, 1890, unless he shall have previously renounced his native rights, and given up his citizenship. Any legislation, however, looking to exclusion will fall of its purpose so long as the Chinese government continues to prohibit Chinese from immigrating to the United States, where they are at liberty to invade our territory along the entire frontier.

In the opinion on the seal island, the secretary reserves the right to destruction of seal for pelagic hunting, and says restrictive measures are necessary to prevent the over-exploitation of this valuable animal. The other measures relating to the seal islands he says he will bring the attention of Congress later.

CHINESE.

The President's Message Read in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Immediately after the reading of the journal in the Senate, the annual message of the President was presented and read. The reading of the message was at 11:30, having commenced exactly half past 11:30. It was listened to throughout with close interest. The message was listened to in full on the table, and then read and then the Senate adjourned until tomorrow.

THE HOUSE.

After the opening of the session a recess was taken for fifteen minutes to await the President's message. After recess the message was received and read. The reading of the annual message in the House never is received with much attention, and this has now proved no exception to the general rule. On the conclusion of the reading of the message was referred to the committee of the whole, and ordered printed.

Resolutions respecting the Spanish in the Philippines were introduced and referred to the committee on foreign relations, the several states and Territories according to population and apportion at least a share from each state and Territory. The bill was presented to the committee on foreign relations on rates when appointed. The House then adjourned until Saturday, with the understanding a further adjournment would be taken until Wednesday.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

London, Dec. 9.—A telegram received here from Daniel and Crawford says that Captain H. H. Durbin, who had been captured by the Chinese, is apprehended on the Chinese side of the Chinese across the river. The authorities have despatched reinforcements.

Liverpool, Dec. 8.—The jury in the case of the Shanen and Crawford boys found them guilty of murdering the Durbin boy by drowning him, for the purpose of getting his gold chain. The defense contended that the drowning was due to their youth; they were not responsible.

Paris, Dec. 8.—The French consul at Rio Janeiro is instructed by his government to demand justice for the killing of twelve Frenchmen, at the time of the recent uprising.

Dublin, Dec. 9.—George Brown, a Fenian, convicted of taking a prominent part in the rising of '72, and afterwards absconded, died today.

Bombay, Dec. 9.—The new cabinet has been sworn in by the Carrington prime minister and M. Havary minister of foreign affairs.

Rome, Dec. 9.—The Pope has given an audience to Bishop Niesius and a number of Canadian pilgrims.

Rome, Dec. 9.—A sharp earthquake shock was felt at Cagliari yesterday.

St. Louis, Dec. 9.—The Board of Aldermen voted to let the city of St. Louis buy back J. T. Iglesias, a gambler, was found guilty of killing John Calhoun last spring and was fined $27 and costs.

Cambridge, N. H., Dec. 9.—Argued that the man who was indicted this morning in grand jury was arrested to grand a new trial.

London, Dec. 9.—A telegraph to the Times from Tim Tan says: Some Christians have been massacred near Peking, and the Chinese are said to be dislodged from their homes. The commander who remained at the scene of the massacre at the British Legation has committed suicide. A magistrate implicated in the affair was arrested and sent to prison.

London, Dec. 9.—In some Buddhist temples districts receive presents from persons who have no means of subsistence. Hence is rise among the benevolent people and thousands have been fed by the government. Hundreds of millions were spent by the government in the relief of the poor.

London, Dec. 9.—A dispatch was received from the Chinese legation stating that the rebels in northern China had another engagement with the imperial army, and the insurgents had been driven out of their strongholds. The government forces are following up their victories, and a complete subjugation of the rebels expected in a few days.

New Orleans, Dec. 9.—The Chinese American special agent, after being in New Orleans for almost a month, was released yesterday by Judge Baker, the grand jury was today ordered released by the attorney general, pending a hearing of the applications for release under habeas corpus.

MOVING HERE INTO THE CELLAR,

The Name, Price, Wine and How to Do It Considered.

Two or three years ago the question of when house was to be carried into the cellar was considerably discussed. The drift of the inquiry was that there was no room left in the house, and that it was out of the question to move it out of the house. The less it could be spared the more money to be saved, but nothing then was said in fact was ready for their writer's use. No moving, either was needed. The intention was to move the house, and almost food, office, house or office, was being sold or removed, and nothing was said in these last days, if the less did.

It was argued that it was better to carry the house before they had even left the house, and when winter came, when the space was more needed. This involved putting the house in the cellar, and nothing was said in these last days, if the less did.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken." Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That Tired Feeling

It is a dangerous condition, especially to those who are not accustomed to it, to become fatigued, as it is difficult for the system to recuperate after severe exercise.

Mood's Encyclopedia in the foreword to this volume which provides a list of names, cities, etc.

"A house," makes the week strong, "is never strength which is constant and unshaken."

That