LOCAL BRIEFS.

Charles Andrews, the stockman, is recovering encouragingly from the effects of the operation which he underwent at the Holy Cross hospital yesterday

The funeral of the late Evan G. Bunting, who died suddenly of heart failure on Wednesday evening, was held this afternoon from the family home, 773 east, Seventh South. The remains will be shipped to Ogden tomorrow morning to be interred in the famlly plot in that city.

The City Council committees attempted to meet last night, but very few of them could get a majority together, so nothing but unimportant routine business was transacted. It is presumed that the meeting of the Re-publican city committee at the Knutsford attracted quite a number of the councilmen. What few did come left early and probably wended their way to that hostelry to listen to the deliberations of the committee.

A meeting of the Utah Democratic club was held last evening in room 204 McCornick building, at which it was decided to give a ball and social at Christensen's on the 27th of this month. It was also decided to hold the regular meeting of the club on the first Monday evening of each month. A commit tee to prepare programs at these meet-ings was appointed, consisting of James Leary, J. B. King and C. B. Overfield. A revised code of by-laws was presented by Mr. Letcher and was unanimously accepted by the club.

Mr. Lincoln once remarked to a fel low-passenger on the old-time mudcoach on the corduroy road which antedated railroads that all men were prompted by selfishness in doing good or evil. His fellow-passenger was antagonizing his position when they were passing over a corduroy bridge that spanned a slough. As they crossed this bridge and the mud-wagon was shaking like a Sucker with chills, they espied an old razor-back sow on the bank of the slough making a terrible noise because her pigs had got into the slough and were unable to get out, and were in danger of drowning.

As the old coach began to climb the hillside Mr. Lincoln called out, "Driver, can't you stop just a moment?"

personage than at that time Baker, the gallant general who gave his life in defense of Old Glory at all's Buff-did not "object," when Mr Lincoln jumped off, ran back to the slough and began to lift the little pigs out of the mud and water, and place them on the bank.

When he returned Col. Baker re marked, "Now, Abe, where does selfish ss come in on this little episode?"
"Why, bless your soul, Ed, that was the very essence of selfishness, would have had no peace of mind al day had I gone on and left that suffer ing old sow worrying over those pigs. I did it to get peace of mind, don't you see?"—Springfield (Ill.), Monitor.

REPUBLICAN CONFERENCES

Differences of Opinion Between Mayor, Council and Police Not Yet Settled-Whole Situation Discussed.

The efforts of the Republican city committee to restore harmony in the council on the police squabble, will not meet with much success if the meeting held last night at the Knutsford is any criterion. Every member of the committee was present, and, after considerable discussion, it was decided to hold another meeting tonight, at 7:30 o'clock, in the mayor's office in the city and county building, at which the six members of the council who have stood by the mayor will be present to state their side of the case. Then another meeting will be held to give the four Republican members, opposing the mayor, an opportunity to tell them their troubles. The committee decided that the trouble was in the council alone, so the mayor will not be invited to attend either one of the proposed meetings.

At the meeting at the Knutsford last At the meeting at the Knutsford last night, those present were Chairman Eichnor and Secretary Meeks; A. F. Lawson and George Wilson, representing the First precinct; J. H. Preece and J. J. Meyers, from the Second; T. A. Callister and T. L. frvine, the Third; Arthur Pratt and M. L. Ritchie, the Fourth; and Alma D. Katz and J. Fred Wey, from the Fifth.

None of the members wanted to shoulder the responsibility of having called the meeting, even Chairman Eichnor and Secretary Meeks, who signed the call, denied their responsi-bility, saying that it was signed at the

They all agreed that the mayor had the right to remove Chief Hilton and appoint his successor. The discussion of the religious question was avoided and neither side of the contending Republican factions of the council received any encouragement.

Committeeman Arthur Pratt contends

Committeeman Arthur Pratt contend-ed that as he was mentioned in con-nection with the appointment of chief of police to succeed Hilton, he should not take any part in the discussions at all, so he remained out of it altogether not even voting on the questions before the committee.

The mode of proceeding to bring about a reconciliation in the council was discussed quite freely, but it remained for J. Fred Wey to suggest the most advisable scheme. He moved that a committee of three be appointed to notify the six members of the council to meet with the committee at one sitting and the other four members at sitting; and the other four members at another meeting. This motion was car-ried and J. Fred Wey, Alma D. Katz and J. H. Preece were named as the The meeting of the above-named com

SHOCK PROVES FATAL. Wayne Brown Dies of Injuries Received While Coasting.

Wayne Brown, the little son of Hal Brown, died last night at the Holy Cross hospital at 10:45 o'clock after suffering terribly for nearly twentyfour hours. The fears of the doctors that the shock would be too much for him were well grounded, for it was the awful shock from which he was unable to recover. Little Wayne was hurt on Wednesday evening while coasting down the D street hill. The nature of the accident was a collision with a First street car in which Wayne was thrown beneath the front guards and dragged a considerable distance. No external injury was inflicted, that would be regarded as fatal, but there were internal hurts of a very serious nature, aside from the shock. All day yesterday his anxious parents sat at his bedside with sorrow in their hearts and little Wayne, divining their fears, bravely tried to reassure them with a smile, while all the time his little body was racked with pain. Love and skill tenderly watched around the sick bed, but the grim reaper had already thrust in his inexorable scythe and there was nothing for the watchers at the bedside to do but silently await the final snapping of the vital chord. At 6 o'clock in the evening Wayne sank into a state of unconsciousness and remained so until the end. The body was taken to Evans' undertaking pariors, where they have been prepared for burial.

Wayne was born in this city on August 28, 1890, and for several years he has been one of the brightest as fel as one of the most popular pupils at the Lowell school. It is needless to say that both the teachers-and pupils of that school are plunged in grief over his violent and untimely death. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed as yet.

COOKS AND WAITERS. They Believe That Their Efforts Will Be Victorious.

The cooks and waiters are confident now that their prolonged efforts for the proper observance of the Sabbath day, particularly as a day of rest for tired and worn-out members of the fraternity will be successful. At last night's meeting of the union it was announced that the proprietors of the Vienna Cafe, Oyster Bay, Sperry & Macy, Columbia, Gibson, National and Free Coinage restaurants had signed the agreement, and that the Chesapeake and Success restaurants would sign the paper today. But, it was agreed not to establish a union schedule for eight months in order to meet the objection that the agreement would only be the entering wedge for a new

of wages. While this love feast was in progress the Restaurant Keepers' association was enjoying a small tempest in Knights of Pythias hall, where several of the members wanted to rescind the esolution of the association relative to the agreement, and refuse to yield to the demands of the union. Jack Shafer, of the Chesapeake, and others of the association saw nothing unreasonable in the demands of the union for a rest of iod;

one day in seven, and he thought the arbitration committee should be conferred with in a spirit of fairness. On the other hand H. G. Sheridan and George Mueller strongly opposed any concession to the union. They claimed the proper course was to ignore its de-mands and presently these demands would no longer be made. They urged the bosses to stick together and taunted the secessionists with being "weak-

PAUL THE VICTOR.

Won Signal Corps Gold Medal for Third Time.

The competitive drill last night for the officers' gold medal by the signal corps of the National Guard was an interesting function, and might well have been witnessed by a larger number of spectators. Sixteen men and two officers, Captain Greenewald and First Lieutenant Skidmore, turned out, and the inspecting officer who turned the boys down in seriatim was Captain Alford of C company, First Intantry.

The contest lasted over 40 minutes and was almost entirely confined to the manual of arms, and in the first 20 minutes foirteen men had been given "the marble heart and the mackerel eye," as Capt. Alford found this, that eye," as Capt. Alford found this, that and the other man gulity of this, that and the other deficiency, and one after another fell away from the line like "lean and withered branches." The disappointed ones lined up ornamental wall flowers against the north wall, and tried to look pleasant and resigned to their fate: but it was a mortuary smile suggestive of the surroundings of a morgue. However, the boys did their level best, and will do better next time. The tug of war was finally between Jesse Paul and Claude Evans. The first named had won the gold medal twice within the last ten months, and he was there to win it again, and he did. A curious feature of the dual contest was that the good made nivotal mistakes that the men made pivotal mistakes thrice at the same time, but as the medal had to be given to somebody, and there were only the two men, neither was thrown out. The situation got to be exciting after a while, and finally Evans got left on a catch command and Paul was left alone in his glory The command was lined up again, and the victor called in front for decoration. being his third victory the medal is his "for keeps."

Utah Gave Life and Health Instead of Death and Sorrow-Wonderful Climate of "Mormon Dixie" Land and How It Cures Consumption.

Salt Lake medical men will remem- ! ber Dr. William Winthrop Betts who was a practitioner in this city two years ago. The doctor was sent out here to die as he had a complication of pulmonary and kidney troubles and a few other trifling allments. He had his will made out, and set his house in order with a view to early retirement to the abodes of the blessed. But Dr. Betts postponed, and kept postponing his trip to elyslum as the atmosphere of this intermountain region proved a panacea for all of the ills he was the unfortunate heir to, and now he is practicing medicine in southern California as far as can be seen, and as far as he can feel, a well man. Dr. Betts has published in Los An geles a pamphlet entitled "A Comparative Climatic Study of the Arid and Semi-Tropic Southwest and its Relation to Tuberculosis," which is of special interest in this state because of the doctor's extended references to Utah climate. Among other things he

"At best tables of temperature are apt to be misleading, unless studied in connection with other meteoroligacal features of the locality in mind. At Santa Fe, latitude 35 N., 7,000 feet elevation, the average range of temperature for five years was 86 degrees. The city is protected from the north and east by a spur of the Rockies, giving a very mild climate for so high an al-The temperature seldom goes below zero, or above ninety.

Denver, four degrees further north 5,290 feet elevation, has an average yearly range for the same period, of 113 grees. Here we find a temparture below zero to 98 above. Salt Lake. 400 miles west of Denver and about one degree further north, gives an average yearly range of 100 degrees, showing 10 below zero in February, 1899, and 101 above in June, 1900. St. George lat. 37 degrees, N., 2,500 feet elevation St. George 300 miles south from Salt Lake City gives an average yearly range of 107, from 0 to 115 above. "In the arid country of moderate al-titude, represented by Phoenix and St George, the temperature reaches 115. Such a temperature in the moist and humid atmosphere of the coast, eastern and middle states, would be insufferable; but when we consider the difference between the sensible and actual temperature demonstrated by the wet and dry bulb thermometer, th sensible temperature will be found to 30 degrees lower in the arid and mountainous country, owing to the lower percentage of humidity, corresponding to 80 or 95 degrees in the hu That this is true is shown from the fact that sunstroke rarely if ever In this dry air which admits of an uninterrupted sun's ray and so high a temperature the perspiration is more rapidly evaporated and the surface of the body is cooled, though the air is hot -as surely as evaporating ammo freezes water,-and maintained at the normal temperature with less discom fort than in the humid atmosphere of 85 or 95 degrees. Thus another great factor in estimating climate is its hu midity. The comparative tables of relative humidity show the monthly and yearly average. It is to be regretted that there are no humidity recognitions of the state of the sta ords for St. George. However, previous to July, 1889, I took numerous observations and am prepared to state that the relative humidity is approximately that of Phoenix.

"It will be noticed by referring the table, that the average humidity is from 30 to 35 per cent less inland than on the coast of southern California, From personal experience, the most important factor in estimating climate is its percentage of sunshine, for upon it depend so largely pure air, tempera-ture and humidity. Nothing is more ture and humidity. depressing to an invalid than gloomy, cloudy weather; nothing cheers the drooping spirits like the radiant luster
