the best powdered gum tragacanth, 25 grains; water, 4 1/2 ounces; glycerine, 1 ounce; alcohol, 1/2 ounce; boric acid, 30 grains. Mix the tragacanth in the water until perfectly soft. Press through muslin. Dissolve the acid in the glycerine with the aid of heat. Add the mucilage, then the alcohol, and then water enough to make eight ounces. Perfume may be added also if desired.

This compound has been found very beneficial for the first stages of eczema.

A good many American girls are beginning somewhat to follow the French fashion of using face powder as a protection from wind and dust. To get the full benefit of powder in this way without any injury to the complexion, the skin must be kept perfectly clean. A small amount of cold cream should be used just before the powder is dusted on, as the cream fills the pores and holds the powder. Cream should also be used at night to cleanse the skin thoroughly before the wash with soft water. It is safe to use only the very best powder in this extremely intimate way, and, of course, it is wise for a woman to make her own face powder. Pure rice powder, one ounce; powder, best quality, two ounces; powdered carbonate of magnesia, one ounce; oil of roses, two drops. Press each ingredient through particles. Combine and sift repeatedly, adding the oil of rose before the last sifting.

When powder is used in this fashion the face must be thoroughly cleansed before going to bed, either with soft water or cold water. It is essential to a fine complexion that the pores should be open to breathe freely all night.

And to return through various process of good grooming to the fish-ion for tan, we can easily see that to tan well is a bit of an art and that a pretty brown skin means a sweet, wholesome skin as well.

Ask your grocer to send you Royal Braid. It is made in a clean bakery and the crown label is on every loaf.

Keith-O'Brien's Stock Reducing Sale of Boys' Light and Medium Weight Suits

Every suit in the house included, except serges and wash suits—20 per cent discount—a saving of 20 cents on the dollar

The manufacturer thinks Keith-O'Brien Co. very exacting. Still he acknowledges the things insisted upon must bring results, for we are a heavy buyer, with volume increasing.

We insist upon these points: Fabric qualities must be up to the standard. Materials must be good. The workmanship must be excellent. There must be extra reinforcements. The buttons must be strongly sewed on. The suits must be in style. They must be tailored.

Now then—the manufacturer quotes Keith-O'Brien Company a price based on these emphatic points. We say to him: "We accept your prices. Just go ahead and make these suits a little better—a little different—take a little more pains with them and Keith-O'Brien Company will pay so-much-a-suit extra."

Our selling prices are not raised. There is a little less margin of profit—but a world of appreciation on the parts of mothers—and mothers are among our best customers.

Volume enters into the transaction. The purchases are heavy—must be, for we figure close, notwithstanding the things we insist upon, and the "extra" which we pay.

Heavy weights have been worn longer this season. So our stock of medium and light weights if heavy.

A SPECIAL DISCOUNT OF 20 PER CENT FROM PRICES WHICH HAVE HELPED TO MAKE THIS STORE SO POPULAR. AN UNUSUAL INDUCEMENT—FOR IT IS A RARITY THAT WE HAVE BIG SALES IN BOYS' CLOTHING.

Every garment is not only standard—but a little more than standard. Every suit and coat is made especially for Keith-O'Brien and are of a character that has made our boys' clothing widely famous. Beautiful mixtures—every conceivable pattern—the kind that doesn't show dirt—the kind that wears and always looks well—the dressy mixture. Shown in pleated knickerbocker suits and plain box coat and straight trousers; 6 to 16 years.
