

BIG DEAD BODY FOUND.

E. P. Mason Visits His Daughter in Logan, Leaves His Way and Dies from Exposure.

The News a few days ago contained brief mention of an old veteran named Mason, who had visited a daughter in Logan, Utah, having left his wife a widow in California on his return to his home in Kansas and seems to have remained the home of his son. The mystery connected with his disappearance has now been cleared as we see with in the following article reprinted from the Deseret News of Tuesday the 21st.

Yesterday morning the dead body of Mr. E. P. Mason, of Marionette, Kan., was found near Salt Lake City about five miles west of town. Mason, who was an old man of 70 years of age, some weeks ago went to Logan, Utah, to visit his daughter there. He started home on November 15 and as he was about 15 miles from town he suddenly became ill and it was discovered that he left the train at Marionette on the Kansas Pacific railroad at about 11 o'clock and that was the last word of him until his wife, Mrs. C. Marionette, who is one of the deceased came West in search of her father. While in Denver she has furnished considerable information concerning his disappearance, stating that he had many friends and relatives living in the little town of Marionette, Kansas, and that he had no enemies. She also stated that he had been ill for several days before leaving the city and had probably been down except during the time he was ill.

The body was brought by a searching party in charge of the sheriff and was removed to Alamosa, where, after it had been embalmed, it was sent to Marionette by express. Mr. Mason is said to be greatly grieved over the sad state and blames himself for having permitted his father to travel alone at so great an age.

Electoral Expenses.

In response to many inquiries made, the Utah Committee has issued the following in its power. Congress appropriated $2,000 to pay the regular office expenses of the election and other expenses connected with elections in this Territory last year. Of this amount nearly $2,000 was expended, leaving a surplus of a little over $200, which was returned to the Utah State Auditor. The amount of the same sum has been appropriated by Congress and will be used for paying for doing the same work as that done by the registrars and judges of election last year, but also to pay for all additional expenses which may be connected with the election. According to the accounts paid for last year's work were fair and honest, we have but a margin of 20 per cent to pay for the extra work of this year. As the Territorial election requires the services of the entire population of the Territory, it is necessary to make every voting place accessible. In each precinct and across the necessary changes in the registration lists by adding to or striking names from them, the Legislature has done what is possible to the existing system, which imposed by the enabling act required more than an increase of 20 per cent. Considering, however, that in the case, we did not do it necessary to recently limit the offices as to the time they were to be open, we did not limit their work and we did not do it necessary to do it. In new instances, registration officers have been in charge for a considerable increase over the amount paid last year, and in a few cases, for less time than as much as they did in their previous work in 1893.

To ascertain in how many cases these heavy increases were made and determine just what pecuniary should be allotted to insure the payment of the regular expenses of the election, we propose, while taking the returns which the judges of election are entitled to, to make necessary to suspend payments, a sufficient number of election officers to be determined by the election commissioners, and paid by the territory and county commissioners in proportion as quickly as possible, but are also certain that in so doing the judges of election, whose services were rendered free, and other officers who did not receive remuneration for their work should be paid out of their share of the money appropriated for them. Very respectfully,

J. H. D. COOPER,
Chairman Utah Committee,
November 27, 1894.
