

EVENING NEWS. Thursday, July 29, 1894

The Colorado delegation of the G. A. R. will arrive in this city this evening.

In the Third District Court to-day Samuel S. Newton was admitted to citizenship.

Major James Wren, of the 48th Pennsylvania Volunteers, is among the visitors to the city.

General John A. Logan, who was expected to reach this city to-day, will arrive to-morrow evening.

Quite a number of distinguished gentlemen came over the Utah Central with the excursionists to-day.

General S. S. Burdette, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., will reach this city to-morrow evening's train.

The Sixth Ward Silver Band will take an excursion to Grand and Lake Point on Wednesday, August 4th, to which they invite the residents of the Sixth and adjoining wards.

In the cases of the United States vs. M. M. Bane et al., and the United States vs. O. J. Salisbury et al., to-day before Judge Zane, the defendants were given to August 25th to plead.

In the Third District Court to-day, the motion made by plaintiff in the suit of Thomas Fenton vs. Salt Lake County, to return costs, was overruled. The taxation was sustained and the order staying execution vacated.

The regular monthly meeting of the officers of the Y. L. M. I. A. will be held next Saturday, July 31st, at 11 a. m., at the residence of Mrs. S. T. Taylor, one block and a half west of Cliff House. A punctual attendance is requested.

In the case of the Western Union Telegraph Company vs. the Salt Lake Power, Light and Heating Company, for an injunction preventing the defendant from putting up wires for electric lamps in certain places, the bond of the defendant was increased to $5,000, and the hearing adjourned until Saturday next.

Mr. C. B. Thersdell, of Cranston, Rhode Island, arrived in the city yesterday evening and has been viewing the sights to-day. He has a number of liberal views, and is highly pleased with the apparent thrift and industry manifested by the people. Like his fellow-members of the G. A. R., he is on his way to the national encampment at San Francisco.

One of the visiting members of the G. A. R. who came in on last evening's Utah Central train, was accosted by one of those engaged in vilifying the "Mormons," who began to pour forth his spiteful tale of "Mormon" wrongdoing. The visitor, who was a man of intelligence and culture, listened for a few moments while he took the measure of the grumbler, and then broke in with, "My dear sir, your story is indeed sad, but please let me off to-night, and I'll set to work for my cousin the morning." The visitor's reply was allowed to enjoy his ride in peace.

E. G. Spier, a bicyclist of New York, arrived in Denver yesterday afternoon at 8 o'clock, on his way to San Francisco, on his wheel. Mr. Spier left New York city, June 1, and expects to reach the Pacific coast in about eighty days from that date, counting twelve hours a day, the time in which he does his wheeling. He is going by the way of Leadville and Salt Lake and expects to finish his trip in safety. Mr. Spier is a compact, muscular built man; has a picture of ruddy health, and says he never felt better in his life. On his trip from New York to Denver he has been forced to lay over eight days, but doesn't think he will meet with any impossible roads from here to San Francisco.—Denver News, 29th.

LOCAL NEWS.

Post Office.—A post office has been established at (formerly Kay's Creek), Davis County, Wm. A. Hyde is postmaster.

At Liberty.—We were pleased this morning to meet Brother Charles H. Greenwell, who has just been released from the penitentiary. He has served a six months' term, less the time for good behavior, for living with and acknowledging his wives. The fine and costs assessed against him, which he paid, amounted to $36.75. He is in good health and spirits, and appreciates his liberty.

Bound Over.—The preliminary examination in the case of Walter Sims, for an attempt to commit rape, was held at Tooele yesterday, before Justice Harrow. The girl told a straightforward story, which was corroborated by other witnesses, and the defendant was held to await the action of the grand jury. His bail was fixed at $1,000, and being unable to furnish it he was sent to jail.

Another Victim.—Some months since, in the First District Court at Ogden, C. W. Hemmenway, editor of the Ogden Herald, was found guilty of a libel of General Nathan Kimball; also of the same offense against Chief Justice C. Zane. Hemmenway had been indicted was suspended during good behavior. We learn by telephone this afternoon that, to-day, in the Kimball case, a fine of $500 was imposed, and in the Zane case Mr. Hemmenway was sentenced to imprisonment for one year in the Weber County Jail. We understand that Judge O. W. Powers was to step down and out of office to-day. If so these were among the last of his official acts. The occasion gave him an opportunity to show the amount of magnanimity there is in his puckered soul.

Habeas Corpus Denied.—On Tuesday Hoge & Burmaster and O. B. Fletcher, the attorneys for E. D. Sprague, who was sentenced to the penitentiary for 90 days and fined $50, for rearing to a house of ill fame, sued out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Boreman. Sprague was unable to get bonds on his appeal, and was taken out of jail yesterday. The matter came up before Judge Boreman yesterday afternoon, at five o'clock, the attorneys for Sprague claiming that the justice of the peace had no jurisdiction of the case. They charged that the trial was a Sunday school examination, a Bishop's court farce, etc., and said the justice knew nothing of law. The city was represented by Assistant Attorney Moyle, who presented the question in a clear, forcible manner. Judge Boreman, in referring to the Supreme Court decision in the Yearlan case, said the question there was only the issue of a six months' imprisonment and $500 fine, and that the ruling did not deprive justice of the peace of jurisdiction of cases where the penalty did not exceed 100 days imprisonment or $100 fine as in the present case. The application for a writ of habeas corpus was denied, and Sprague was returned to jail.

THE G. A. R. CAMP-FIRE.

Rev. T. C. Hill's Address—Spicy Speeches by the Wisconsin Men.

Judge McBride's Falsehoods Fall Flat.

Last evening about 2000 people were present at the G. A. R. Camp-fire in the skating rink. The Wisconsin and Philadelphia delegations, 22 in all, arrived on the Utah Central train, and were in attendance. Col. Sells presided, and introduced Rev. T. C. Hill, of the Methodist Church, as the first speaker. Mr. Hill gave the visitors a hearty welcome to the Territory. He did this in the name of all organizations, as an old soldier. He also welcomed them in the name of all churches and mentioned each with the exception of the "Mormons." He would not discuss his idea of the solution of the problem here, but would say that no star in the galaxy of states, whether it be Utah or any other place, should be disgraced by the stay of a banner. He would like to give the hand of love to Governor West, who had fought on the other side, but who had founded his arms, and now stood under the old flag. The speaker said he was a loyal American, and declared, "I am a church not loyal to the flag, I should turn my back upon my church forever."

Governor Fairchild, commander of the Local Legion of Wisconsin, was the next introduced, and said that after such a hearty greeting it was easy to say, "We thank you." They had counted on a visit to Salt Lake, but had not expected such a grand welcome. The G. A. R. as an organization was well known. Its 600,000 members made themselves felt now as they did a quarter of a century ago. It was not organized for selfish purposes, or to advance the interests of any man or set of men, in politics, religion or business. They were members of the G. A. R. because they loved each other, and they gathered in national encampments because they loved their order and wished to keep it in good standing. He did not know the members in this city, but thought they would compare in decency and respectability with any thirty or forty men elsewhere. The visitors had been pleased with the grand accommodations and their wealth, and with the popular districts they saw. Thirty-seven years ago the speaker had passed just north of Salt Lake on his way to California, in an ox team, and had not seen a sign of a white man's habitation. He thought that if any man had a doubt about the country being good enough to fight for, he should travel over it. There were none who had such good will toward the south as the G. A. R. They were only one point they insisted on—loyalty to the flag now. "And we not only insist on it in one place, but in every place. Not in the South alone, but in the North too. We are law-abiding men, and so help me God, the laws of this land must be obeyed. Wherever the law is disregarded, wherever treason shows itself, the government has only to call on the G. A. R. to put it down. It may be in a State, or possibly in the Territory of Utah, and the loyal men will stamp it out there. We thank you, and bid you Godspeed, and when you want help, call on us."

Rev. Father Ladden, of the Catholic Church, of Wisconsin, followed. To say he felt highly honored was putting it mildly. He had been agreeably disappointed with the beauty of the continent and the splendid welcome given the G. A. R. by the people. To mind the time when they followed the flag in the darkness of war, they must feel happy to-night. When the life of the nation hung in the balance, they went forth, not for glory or wealth, but in that spirit of patriotism that would inscribe their names on the pages of history. There were some who thought this nation could be disintegrated, but the boys in blue had shown that the nation was one and indissoluble. In order for Utah to get into the Union it must be cared for as a tender plant, and taught, as a young child, that this country was the grandest on earth, and all would work right.

General Cheek, of Wisconsin, came next and said he had obtained his title without being entitled to it. He was the last remaining private of the late war. He was picked out because he was small, but when at the second battle of Bull Run he felt mighty giant that in war soldiers without officers were not much, nor were the officers without soldiers any better off without the loyal women the others amounted to but little. It took a whole people to make a country. He paid a high tribute to the women of the Union. His speech throughout was full of humor, and called forth tremendous applause. To solve the "Mormon" problem he suggested that the women make their husbands bald-headed by pulling their hair out, and then the women of the most curious of all were the people. Among the strange things here was to see a man swear to uphold the Constitution, and then plot to overthrow the country. Another way to see religious men committing the blackest crimes in the name of religion. He had passed through this valley before it was settled. Twenty-five years ago he came here to reside. He went to the Tabernacle to hear a sermon, and found instead a tirade against the government. He had no religion in him, but studied the "Mormon" question, and found that the Church ruled the whole place. He objected, and was told that if he didn't like it he could get out. He didn't go, however, but stayed and spent three months in moving Geo. Q. Cannon from Congress. The children here were taught to hate the United States government, and to avoid it the wrong they were taught. The skeleton of a government of Federal officers here was but a farce. Unless the government enforced its laws it was not worthy of respect. Its enemies here do not take the field. They say to the Gentiles, "It is none of your business what we do with the taxes." They refused to enforce laws because they think them unconstitutional. They shield the criminal, and with their money they buy and bring has risen to the sublimity of a fine art. The Gentiles have been fighting the "Mormons" a long time and had lost many men, among them, Robertson, Hemptstead and McKean. (Here he charged the "Mormons" with Dr. J. King Robinson on the "Mormons.") The Gentiles have called the flag to the mast and do not mean to yield. They wanted aid. The "overriding" influence of religion was a thing that the grinding power of the Church, which is slavery to us and them. Congress had promised relief and had passed laws, but the question was no nearer solution than it was when the "Mormons" had only been settled.

The Provo Suicide.—Our correspondent writes:

"Provo was startled last evening by hearing that John M. Howe, a resident of the Third Ward in this city, had grown tired of this life and taken morphine to end his career.

I have related the facts which are as follows: For a year back he has had more or less trouble in his family. He was advised about eight months ago to go away for a short time, which he did. He went to work on the railroad at a section hand, between Salt Lake City and Ogden, returning home yesterday morning. In going home he did not find the welcome he wished, so about 8 o'clock, after applying to his wife for a drug store for morphine, and being refused, he went to several others, getting a few doses at each. He commenced taking the drug, after which he went home, and meeting a neighbor's child, sent word to his wife that she should come to his house, and that he would be with her. He was told to go to bed, and he did so. He was found by his wife at 10 o'clock, and he was dead. He had taken a large dose of morphine and died a little before sunset.

I enclose a copy of the verdict rendered at the inquest, held over the body at about 9 o'clock last evening. It was "Drunkenness, and the use of steady habits, was likely by his associates, having been by Saml. Liddard until last December. The funeral will be held to-morrow (July 29th), in the 3d Ward.

INQUEST.

TERRITORY OF UTAH.

Provo Precinct.

An inquest held at the residence of R. J. Dugdale, Provo Precinct, Utah Co., on July 27th, 1894.

Deceased, John M. Howe, Coroner of said County, upon the body of John M. Howe, there lying dead, by the jurors whose names are hereto subscribed, the said jurors upon their oath do say, that the said John M. Howe came to his death by taking morphine, administered by his own hands, and the intent of committing suicide. Domestic trouble was the probable cause.

J. A. F. DUNN, Jurors.

A. G. COWNOVER, Jurors.

Attest: JOHN R. TWELVES, Coroner.

Arrested and Discharged.—On Monday, Deputy Marshal J. X. Ferguson went to Fairview, Sanpete County, and arrested Parley Osterson, Oscar Christopherson and Mr. Lundquist, on a charge of grand larceny. The accused were brought to this city last evening, and had a preliminary examination before Commissioner Critchlow to-day. The evidence showed that the "lumber," which the defendants were accused of stealing, was seized from the mill owner, M. Edwards, some time ago, by timber agent Evans. Mr. Lundquist was to pay him in lumber, and he sent Messrs. Osterson and Christopherson to bring it from the mill. That they did the marriage laws in this Territory it was referred to the Committee on Territories.

Files cannot exist without moisture. If a room can be kept free from even a drop of liquid for forty-eight hours the files will disappear. But the solution is absolute. A drop of dew on a rose leaf, still more the congealed breath on a window pane, gives quite as much fluid as the thirty little fly will ask for. But a good housekeeper will remove this ruin as soon as it leaves a pitcher of water uncovered in a room which she wishes to enjoy a nap in or in which she means to place a guest. And she will carefully cover any cup, mug, glass, or other vessel which contains liquids.

After a long spell of monotonous and lonesome quiet Louisiana has aroused herself and gone out to have a little fun with one Mills, a desperado, whom the officers of the law are trying to capture. Mills has surrounded himself with a dozen or so of half-breed Indians, and the sheriffs are sending colored possees to fight them. At last accounts the half-breeds had killed five or six of the negroes and nipped three squads of them. The whites of the State are standing off and looking on, entertained and not much interested in the outcome.

Last year M. Strout, a Belgian astronomer, made numerous observations of the relative brightness of the stars. Knowing that special attention had been paid to similar work at the Harvard college observatory he offered to send a copy of his observations to Cambridge for discussion and publication. This offer was accepted and the manuscript was sent, but unfortunately it was carried by the Oregon, and was supposed to have been lost by the sinking of that vessel. After remaining adrift for seven weeks it was recovered and forwarded to the observatory. Although somewhat stained it is perfectly legible and a comparison of the results to be derived from it has already been begun.
