

SOME PLAIN TALK ON CONSERVATION

Asst. Secy. of Commerce McHarg Says Theories Have Replaced Common Sense.

FACTS NOT GIVEN TO PUBLIC.

Men Doing Practical Development Work in West Are Hindered And Threatened.

Washington, August 28.—Common sense has been displayed by visionary theories, already proved unsuccessful in the problems of the west development, according to Ormsby McHarg, assistant secretary of the department of commerce and labor, who is outspoken in the declaration that too much "dreaming" has been indulged in in dealing with the government irrigation projects and forest conservation policies in the west.

Mr. McHarg handled vigorously the subject of the uplift movement, declaring that to have directed a government movement of "uplift" among the farmers was an insult to the finest element in the country's body politic, and the "absurdity of absurd dreams."

Mr. McHarg in an interview flatly contradicted the assertion of the forest service that the lumber supply of the country will virtually be exhausted in another generation if the present rate of cutting is not curtailed. "There is enough timber standing in the state of Washington alone to supply this country for 60 years," he said.

Vast supplies remain in other states, said the assistant secretary, sufficient to maintain a supply for a much longer period, which could not and need not be estimated. The abundance of the forest was such that the alarmist statements as to the approaching exhaustion of supply were utterly unfounded, he asserted.

FACTS NOT MADE PUBLIC.

"Furthermore," said Mr. McHarg, "the forest service has been put in possession of facts and figures proving the truth of what I say, and it has failed to make them public."

"Methods too dream-like are being pursued in our forest administration. It is attempted to designate what tree the logger may cut down and that which he may not. No knowledge of logging is applied. Men who are doing the practical developing work of the west are hindered and thwarted, and you hear nothing but cursing from them for the present methods of forest conservation."

"Out near Cheyenne recently, a woman settler went on a forest reserve and cut rails for a small corral. The forest service have had her indicted for this heinous crime. What do you think the attitude of every man in that community is toward the forest service? That's the feeling you encounter throughout the west."

"Leave the west alone. Let it go ahead and develop. Let the red blooded men out there do the work. It won't be long then until the east will be the back door of the nation."

Mr. McHarg said there was much complaint in the west against the reclamation service as it has been conducted.

"Extravagance and incompetency are the charges that have been made," he explained, "and these are now being investigated. I am informed, in the present tour of the west by Secy. of the Interior, Ballinger and the senate committee."

Mr. McHarg said he knew in engineering projects service in the state of Washington. It had assured settlers that the cost would be no more than $35 an acre.

"The cost is already $75 an acre," said the assistant secretary, "and the end is not yet."

LAST DAY'S SESSION OF CONSERVATION CONGRESS

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 28.—The last day's session of the first National Conservation congress opened in the fine arts hall at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition this morning with delegates anxious to hurry through with the set program and to take up the report of the committee on resolutions which has furnished the only opportunity for hostilities between the supporters of the Pinchot and Ballinger policies since the congress opened Thursday morning. The majority of the committee reported a resolution to the effect that the federal government ought to limit grants and water rights to a reasonable and definite time, and fix the annual tax upon them. The resolution, which was patterned after one adopted by the National Irrigation congress at its recent meeting in Spokane, found an ardent advocate in ex-Gov. George C. Pardee of California, who had been one of the leading supporters of the policies of Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot, while United States District Judge C. H. Hanford of Seattle took an active part in opposing the resolution.

Judge Hanford argued that it is the promise of land and water rights that draws settlers to the west and that any change in the present policy of turning water rights over to private companies would not only be unwise but would be unfair.

Dr. W. J. McGee, who fathered the resolution favoring permanent government control of power sites and water rights, also took an active part in the discussion. He said that the government has no moral right to make a perpetual grant of such natural resources, which he maintained should belong to the people.

FOR INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION OF LABOR

New York, Aug. 28.—The American Federation of Labor has been informed that at the convention of the British Trades Union congress, to be held in Ipswich, England, during the first week of September, President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, intends to suggest a movement for the formation of an international labor federation, with a membership of from 10,000 to 100,000 in the old and new worlds.

It is intended, if the plan goes through, that the national body of each country will have autonomy in its own government. Rules will be adopted binding the workers of each country in the proposed new international body to co-operate mutually in case of national or local strikes.

Dunne, labor inspector of St. Louis, are seeking to make arrangements for the colonization of a large amount of desirable land in their state by immigrants. DRIVER'S PRESENCE OF MIND SAVED HIS PASSENGERS

Rosburg, Or., Aug. 28.—Presence of mind last night on the part of William McLean, driver of the Rosburg, Marshfield stage, saved the lives of his passengers, although the stage was overturned and three passengers were injured. One of the four horses on the stage became frightened and began plunging madly. This frightened the other horses and all began a dash down the precipitous mountain road. Seeing he could not control them, McLean turned them into the bank.

WIFE MUST PREPARE HER HUSBAND'S FAVORITE DISH

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Frances Kubyack has 30 days in which she must learn how to prepare a savory pickle sandwich, the favorite midnight luncheon of her husband, John Kubyack, and thus restore the domestic equilibrium of their home. Municipal Judge Watkins, before whom Kubyack was arraigned yesterday on the charge of refusing to support his wife, listened to the husband's story and then he learned that Mrs. Kubyack could not prepare her husband's favorite viand, continued the case 30 days and told her to learn the secret of making this sandwich.

Mrs. Kubyack told the court her husband grew angry at her inability to prepare a pickle sandwich after he had finished his work at midnight and drove her from home with a broomstick.

BLINDNESS OF LOVE CAUSES GIRL'S BLINDNESS

New York, Aug. 28.—The "blindness of love" will be a sad truth for the young Franklyn couple, who attempted to leave this life through a suicide pact. The bullet, which was fired into Florence Wood's head will cause her to lose her sight in at least one eye and the other bullet has a similar fate in store for her sweet heart, Frank Williamson.

While Williamson declares that he shot the girl before shooting himself the police believe that Miss Wood fired the shot at herself and then Williamson took the weapon from her and in endeavoring to fulfill the agreement between them, shot himself.

One bright spot looms up out of the tragedy and that is that both will recover and as each declares an undying love, it is likely that they will marry "and live happily ever after."

She is an orphan and wealthy enough to carry out in every detail her plan of having an asylum for dogs afflicted with rabies.

Miss Manners has turned over her beautiful estate to the housing of the animals, and has hired a veterinary surgeon to assist her.

She has been bitten five times and in the first three took the Pasteur treatment, but the last two times took no treatment.

RIBS BROKEN BY ICE.

Washington, Aug. 28.—"Send the wagon. A man slipped on ice, and is seriously hurt." When the desk sergeant at a local police station received this message the thermometer was hovering about 80 degrees, but it was all true. Edward Wells, employed at an ice company's warehouse was helping to load a wagon with ice and slipped while standing on a large cake. Another cake was sliding toward him at the time and he did not get out of the way. Three of his ribs were broken by the impact.
