BREVITIES.

A woman's mood—Potential.
A lively hood—Maidenhood.
A doubtful real estate—Personal grounds.
The ancient bitterness of Europe—Old Gaul.
An annual leaf-taking all around will soon begin.
Nothing shorter—The nights for three months to come.
When virtue waneeth, vanity waxeth; and many honors, more pride.
He is the best scholar who has learned to live well.
Charles Reade is said to be the greatest man in England.
There are 606 doctors in Boston; deaths in one week, 158.
Street musicians have deserted Philadelphia as a dry field.
Life is short, but many find it a long pull up-hill to get through it.
There are twenty-one more physicians than there are grocers in Boston.
Let a man do his work; the fruit of it is the care of another than he—Cicero.
He that oppresseth the poor to increase his riches shall surely come to want.
True goodness is like the glow-worm—it shines most when no eyes, except those of Heaven are upon it.
About 150 hand-organs are sold in this country every year. Of these 100 are made at Brooklyn.
Guilt upon the conscience will make a feather bed hard; but peace of mind will make a straw bed soft and easy.
All of us who are worth anything spend our manhood in endeavoring the follies, or captivating the mistakes of our youth.
He cannot be an unhappy man who who has the love and smile of a woman to accompany him in every department of life.
Ballads are the gipsy children of song, born under green hedge-rows and in the leafy lanes and by-paths of literature, in the genial summer-time.
A bill was passed in the closing hours of the British Parliament, compelling railway companies to put on smoking-gear in every train.
A New York Tribune correspondent says that Greeley's residence at Chappaqua, is "a modest country church without a steeple."

Thurlew Weed writes from London that an enterprising Yankee had made a decided hit in London by establishing a soda fountain.

Nelson, when commencing practice, employed boys to bring him news of any accident on the street that he might rush out and secure a case. In that way he made great reputation in surgery.

Kinglake sent the manuscript of his "Crimean War" to the publishers in the box used by Wellington for the transmission of his despatches from Waterloo.

Beecher's receipt for making good coffee: Go to the principal hotels, railroad eating houses, restaurants, etc., and ascertain just how they make it; then make it as they don't.

Ballooning is another fashionable amusement in Paris. Elegant ladies and gentlemen spend an hour or two in the air in a balloon which is held down by a stout rope.

Thomas Hood died composing, and that, too, a humorous poem. He is said to have remarked that he was dying out of charity to the undertaker, who wished to turn a lively Hood.

The man who now pays the largest income tax in Newburyport, Massachusetts, began life by working in the Newburyport Herald office for two dollars and a half a week.

The French papers report that two burglars were recently run down and captured by two amateurs on velocipedes, and suggest that the police might profit by the fact.

If we would have powerful minds, we must think; if we would have faithful hearts, we must love; if we would have strong muscles, we must labor. These include all that is valuable in life.

When we look back upon our past lives, the ominous words "irrevocable, irreparable—irrevocable, irreparable!" seem to beat to and fro with a dull muffled sound from the pendulum of the great clock of time.

The lunatic who went to Berlin to assist King William, Emperor of Germany, has turned up again in Stuttgart as the Messiah, where he published the advertisement of a religious meeting over the signature of "The Lord."

Crabs are sometimes found very large on the Japanese coast. One was brought to Yokohama which, according to the Japan Gazette, measured eleven feet eight inches from the extreme point of one claw to the other. The body was eighteen inches from the eyes to the tail, and the breadth of the back was one foot. It was so heavy that two men were required to carry it.

A French physician was one day consulted by a person who was a prey to the most gloomy fits of melancholy. He advised his patient to mingle in scenes of gaiety, and especially the Italian theatre, where Carlini was nightly exciting the mirth of the audience. "If," said the physician, "Carlini does not dispel your gloomy fit, your case must be indeed hopeless."

"Alas!" replied the patient, "I am Carlini, and while I divert all Paris with mirth, and make them almost die with laughter, I myself am dying with melancholy and chagrin."
