In this number the process of initiation of a new member treated great merriment, and when S. S. Harr, dressed as Carrie Nation, came in with a hatchet and after driving the society out, smashed everything in sight, one could not hear himself think for the laughter.

Dick Whittemore was next introduced and told "Why I Want to be Mayor of Salt Lake." He was, after several at-Salt Lake." He was, after several at-tempts had been made to have him sit down, taken forcibly off the stage. Frank Holtman followed in a very clever song and dance. He was skillfully made up as a minstrel. Another song by Harry Shearman was followed by a cakewalk executed by several members of the lodge, first in Mother Hubbards and afterwards in dress suffa

The arrival of Grand Exalted Ruler Fisher and wife were announced by a special selection by the orchestra, and when the curtain rose again Harrison O. Shepard introduced the distinguished O. Shepard introduced the distinguished Elk. Judge Fisher said that he had "Met with surprises but that this re-ception was the greatest," and after ex-plaining the delay, said that he felt that the reception he was meeting with was wather an expression of regard and esrather an expression of regard and es-teem for the office he had the honor to temporarily fill than anything personal. He concluded his remarks by paying a preity tribute to the ladies and giving a brief resume of the marks by a brief resume of the work and history of the Order of Elks. He said it is a exist under any other flag than that of exist under any other flag than that of the United States, and that its cardi-nal principles are the greatest princi-ples in the world and should always be remembered by the members of the or-There are 680 lodges in that many cities, and a new one will soon be or-ganized in Honolulu. The Judge ex-pressed his thanks to the lodge for his magnificent reception, and expressed his best wishes for its growth and suc-CORS.

One of the most interesting features of the evening then followed. Alex Robertson rose and in a very serious manner preferred charges against Ex-alted Ruler Enzensperger, and asked that the Grand Exalted Ruler act in the case. Mr. Enzensperger was brought to the stand and Judge Fisher told him to the stand and Judge Fisher told him that the charge against him was abso-lute loyalty to the principles of the order and that the punishment his brothers saw fit to sentence him was to life membership in the order of Elks, and that he had the honor to present to him with the love, respect and esteem of his brethers an engraved silver card mounted with gold upon which was engraved the sentence to life mem-bership in the Benevolent and Protec-tive Order of Elks. Mr. Enzensperger was speechless with surprise and sat down amidst uproarious applause, A reception was then held by Judge and Mrs. Fisher, and delicious refresh-ments were served. The event was generally pronounced a distinct social success and a credit to the order.

HOME FROM CANADA.

Cattle to be Bought for Alberta Land & Stock Company.

Manager Charles McCarty, of the Alberta Land and Stock company, has just returned from a trip to the company's 32,000-acre ranch in Canada. He reports that the farmers are sowing their grain. The winter has been very favorable to the cattle interests and the prospect for the present year is very bright. Mr. McCarty's company owns about 32,000 acres of land adjoining he property of Jesse Knight & Sons, of Provo. The company has about 400 head of cattle on the ranch which it intends to increase to about 2,000 head by hases from eastern Canada during the next few months. It is also said to be Jesse Knight's intention to stock his big ranch during the present year, and William McIntyre, who has just left for the north, expects to purchase 1,000 head of yearlings for his 43,000-acre ranch before returning.
