

SECOND EDITION,
DESERET EVENING NEWS.

March 14, 1892.

Coppy for Advertisements which are reported to appear in the Evening News on the day when no advertisement can be had in the business papers.

None of Advertising intended when application.

Any Coppy for advertisements must be on ONE side.

FRAGMENTS.

THE CITY COUNCIL will meet tonight.

The Ogden City Council have decided on the amount of $100,000 bonds for building and other expenses.

A few hours ago, a large crowd of people gathered at the Hotel Savoy. Those who have been there say it is "England," you know.

John W. NUTTERMANWATER has been appointed postmaster of Lake Town.

Ranchoes of the Relief Society Jubilee on Thursday next. That date will be the ninth anniversary of that most wonderful event.

It is said that the West Side Rapid Transit Company's money will extend its line to Crescent Beach the coming season.

There are undelivered messages of the West Side Rapid Transit Company from G. C. Warren, Harry V. Metcalf and J. R. Morgan.

Certificates of election were sent by Territorial Secretary Hollis, today, to the members of the legislative offices of Logan and Wellsville.

Three portions of the City Hall which were used by the Territorial Legislature in 1858, and which were removed and fitted up in the city offices again.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Oregon Short Line at Utah Northern Railway will be held at the home of Henry F. L. Williams, house at 10 a.m.

The Salt Lake Howling Wolf will hold its annual meeting at Harriet's Room, opposite store on Main Street, this evening beginning at 8 p.m. The program will consist of some short sketches and the usual singing.

Provo Citizen has presented several splendid negatives of prominent scenes on the streets of the Blue Green. The pictures will be shown along with some short sketches of the winter's work will be outlined.

The American Natural Gas Company has been granted a permit to lay gas in well as to construct a gas plant to extract oil from the walls limestone rock at that vicinity, both in presence and quantity.

Two deceased citizens, Wm. Boy, has been committed to the Territorial State Asylum, by Judge Burns. The unfortunate boy's present mental condition is believed to be due to the excessive use of opium.

Frank Parker, James Sharp, L. W. Hill, J. J. Daly, Wm. Wadsworth, Van Cott and others, have been admitted to the Hospital of the University. Their beds are in the wings of the hospital.

A mother of insurance came to be held at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Jennings & Cates, was called for 2:30 this afternoon. The meeting was for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of securing a new life insurance.

It is reported that Mrs. Baier, who deserted her husband in this city a few days ago, sailing with her $600, has been captured and is being held from want and exposure. Her body was given to the police.

The Goldie, Phila Company are taking out the old stock out on the arrival of Mr. George D. Miller, and are to be replaced by plain glass. They still continue their drug business and during the progress of this important transaction, the public will be advised of their whereabouts in another issue.

Amusement News.

"Climax of the Dark" was presented last night at the Salt Lake Theatre by the Olympia Opera Company in a good house. It is not the best production of what gives great pleasure a year ago by the same troupe. It is lighter as a whole, and in many particulars it is not half as good as the original.

The following telegram was received at 11:30 a.m. today:

COUNCILMAN LAWSON

Figures in the Side of Prosecuting Witness in a Court Case.

A. D. Woolley, a real estate broker, was on trial in the Police court today before Justice Gees, on a charge of disturbing the peace. The complainant witness was John L. Lawson, "Liberal" contributor from the "Times" predicted. According to the evidence, the trouble grew out of a personal dispute between the two, and the former's attempt of attacking the defendant, out of 600. The latter threatened a suit for libel.

The affair occurred on a public highway, according to witnesses, and was characterized by intense excitement.

Lawson, who was a single man, was not married, and was described as a good-looking, well-tempered young man.

The case closed in the third district court at 10:30 a.m., and the jury was unable to agree upon a verdict.

Ed. Stowell is under arrest, on a charge of but not reckless driving.

BRIGHAM CITY EXHIBITED.

The Hundred and Twenty-Five Citizens Object to the Issuance of Waterworks Bonds.

Brigham City is engaged in a law suit, which promises much excitement and interest not only is "The City of Homes" and like territory, but in New York City as well. This lawsuit is in the nature of an action brought in the First District court, two hundred and twenty-five of Brigham City citizens praying for injunction to restrain the mayor and city council from issuing waterworks bonds.

The trial of the suit will be held in the First District Court of the Territory of Utah, Water County, Joseph Morten, of Salt Lake City, attorney for the plaintiff, and James, Phillips, vs. Brigham City, a municipal corporation, J. M. Jensen, J. A. Jensen, J. Iglesias, Ned McDonald, J. F. McAllister, and Co., et al.

The complaint was filed with Clerk McClure yesterday morning and Judge Morrison issued a restraining order against the mayor and city council on March 11. A. H. Brownlow started for Brigham to serve it on the plaintiffs.

PRESIDENT ELIOT DELAYED.

Will Not Reach Salt Lake Until Midnite. The Reception Abandoned.

The committee in charge of the reception and entertainment of President Eliot, of Harvard University, will be greatly disappointed that distinguished gentleman has been delayed on his journey towards this city and will not arrive here until midnite.

The following telegram was received at 11:30 a.m. today:

P. V. Johnson, March 14, 1892.

President Eliot delayed. Will not reach Salt Lake until midnight. Abandons reception.

Yours are Lazarus.

Tomorrow's program will, however, be carried out as far as possible announced.

A Desperate Leap.

A stranger jumped from passenger train No. 2 of the Rio Grande Western, about 8 o'clock this morning, a few miles south of Ogden. He was evidently severely injured as he struck the ground with such violence that he was unable to move for a number of times. He had got about the wrong train by mistake and was injured by the collision with the train at the station at the nearest station and left him off. It seems, however, that he prepared to take his chances by leaping from the train at that point, but was unable to do so because of the fireman who informed the conductor.

The act was witnessed by the fireman who informed the conductor. The engine was reversed and the train had to stop to get the car back to the station. Another man was also wounded.

The following telegram was sent to the office of the Salt Lake Tribune:

Musical Exercises.

The following programme will be rendered at the Tabernacle tomorrow evening:

Chorus, "Tabernacle" Musical Band.

Grand Organ solo, Prof. Thomas Clegg.

Chorus, "Salute to America," Prof. J. J. Morris.

Chorus, "Salute to America," Tabernacle Chorus.

Round tented.

The amateur hand contest at Cook's pavilion, at Ogden, last night, drew quite a crowd and was a very interesting affair to the people of the town, from which the competing bands came. The competition was won by the Spanish band, from Harrison, North Carolina. Prof. Wm. C. Dillen, and Mr. Dillen gives a fine interpretation of him in his exaggerated style. His rendering was received with unanimous applause and an audience demanded and given.

The chorus is worthy of all the commendation bestowed on it. Charles Fodale, the band's rival, and the amateur club from Ogden, pronounced plaudits from the audience.

The company as a whole is an unusually strong one, and every feature of "Our Country" and "Our Countrymen" was well received, her solo songs several recalls, and her mandolin execution brought down the house.

Prof. Dillen, as the Toreador, or bull-fighter, was much marked feature of the performances. His commanding presence combined with his powerful voice, and at one time, a perfect imitation of Caruso, were well received, her solo songs several recalls, and her mandolin execution brought down the house.

Prof. Dillen, as the Toreador, or bull-fighter, was much marked feature of the performances. His commanding presence combined with his powerful voice, and at one time, a perfect imitation of Caruso, were well received, her solo songs several recalls, and her mandolin execution brought down the house.

The amateur hand contest at Cook's pavilion, at Ogden, last night, drew quite a crowd and was a very interesting affair to the people of the town, from which the competing bands came. The competition was won by the Spanish band, from Harrison, North Carolina. Prof. Wm. C. Dillen, and Mr. Dillen gives a fine interpretation of him in his exaggerated style. His rendering was received with unanimous applause and an audience demanded and given.

The Military Academy band was present and furnished music, but did not participate in the competition.

After the contest the organization challenged the winner of the cup to play within ten days.

WONDERLAND.

The mysterious performances of Dr. Waite and his company, the intersection group of performers can be seen to-night and tomorrow. Change of programme takes place on Thursday.

WONDERLAND.

The mysterious performances of Dr. Waite and his company, the intersection group of performers can be seen to-night and tomorrow. Change of programme takes place on Thursday.

WONDERLAND.

The Military Academy band was present and furnished music, but did not participate in the competition.

After the contest the organization challenged the winner of the cup to play within ten days.

A BAD CASE.

The People vs. J. W. White, in the Third District Court.

The proceedings leading up to the new action, J. W. White, for robbery, were further ventilated before Judge Zane and the jury this morning. The defense had their trial, when evidence was introduced, intended to show that there was no compulsion by the girl or her parents at Foothills Green after the time of the wounding, compulsion, or that the young woman, who was a minor, was compelled to make a statement, made to the court, and nothing had nothing to do with her conduct and reputation, had nothing to do with her conduct and reputation, was given an alarm, but he does not admit.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The affair occurred on a public highway, according to witnesses, and was characterized by intense excitement.

Lawson, who was a single man, was not married, and was described as a good-looking, well-tempered young man.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character, and that he would commence a suit as soon as he pleased.

The girl stated in the whole she had been led to believe that she was to be married to the boy, and that he had no character,