That the abolition of the reduced rates on coal, instituted for the summer season by the mines and railroad company for the purpose of encouraging summer storage of coal for winter consumption, is not with the approval of the railroad company, is apparent from a circular issued this afternoon by John A. Reeves, general freight agent of the Oregon Short Line.

Several days ago the coal dealers of the city announced that the reduced rate, which amounted to 75 cents per ton, had been abolished 18 days after the reduction went into effect. When queried as to the reasons for abolish. durited as to the reasons for hoonading the summer storage rate, some of the dealers replied there was not sufficient patronage to justify the reduction in the rate on coal, and that there was no movement of any consequence to store coal for winter use as a result of the lower rate given. Others, however, stated that they would not give any reason for the doing away of the rate, infering that the coal business was the coal dealers' business, and in the language of a certain noted financier, "the public be switched." It seems, however, that the end of the storage rate is not yet. General Freight Agent Reeves, in issuing the circular mentioned, announces that the rate was put in for three months namely, June, July and August. The mines and railroads have shared equally in the summer storage rate reduction, eack knocking off 25 cents per toh during the three months referred to. The eircular issued by Mr. Reeves is as follows: ing the summer storage rate, some of

Attention of coal consumers is in-vited to reduced rates from mining points in effect during June, July and August, 1909. These rates were pub-lished with the idea that the difference would go to the purchaser during the life of the summer tariffs, as an in-ducement for storing coal for the winter. If all those able to do so will fill their bins now, leaving coal mined their bins now, leaving coal mined and shipped during the winter months available for supplying the needs of those unable to buy except in small quantities, it will do much to relieve the situation during the winter of 1909-1910

1909-1910. With this end in view, the railroad companies are now storing large quantities of coal to partially provide in advance of their own needs. The co-operation of all consumers is re-spectfully solicited and will be ap-preciated. J. A. REEVES. General Freight Agent.

CONTINENTAL LIFE IN GOOD CONDITION

Actuary Reports Upon the Affairs of The Company After an Exhaustive Examination.

The report on the condition of the Continental Life Insurance & Invest-ment company was made public this morning, the examination being made by Paul Woolston, an actuary of Den-

The report refers to the bad manage-ment of the first two years of the com-pany's existence, when some of the officers are said to have worked for their own personal aggrandizement in-stead of for the permanent success of the company. The present management is given credit for the way in which it has worked to put the company on a sound basis, which is now the case, the reports says. When they took hold of company it is said to have been in a precarious condition, with its capital stock impaired. Now the condition is said to be sound, and in spite of the bad management of the first two years, the actuary in his report says, it is not found that the interests of the policy-holders have suffered. found that the interests of the policy-holders have suffered. The report gives a history of the com-pany since its organization, Feb. 19, 1904, and deals with its relations with the Western Securities company and the cancellation of the contract with that company Feb. 1, 1909, as it was found to be an unwise one for the company and a losing one for the Western Securities company. It also deals with the Western Underwriting association, another subsidiary com-pany, which was organized June, 1906, and appointed general agent of the life and appointed general agent of the life pany, which was organized June, 1906, and appointed general agent of the life insurance company for 20 years, and which was absorbed by the Western Se-curities company December, 1907. At the time of the transfer of the assots of the Western Securities com-pany to the Continental Life Insur-ance company, the former owed the latter $120,123.26, and in addition $33,868, which the life insurance company agreed to pay. The assessed value of the assets turned over was $217,673.13, but the examiner places upon them the value of only $163,226.35, which is more than sufficient to meet all demands. The report shows the net ledger as-sets to be $688,810.42, in addition to which there is $21,204.71, entered as non-ledger assets. Items not admitted, such as loans on the company's stock, agent's debit balances, book value of bonds and stocks over market value, etc., are placed at $124,307.06, making the 'ad-mitted assets of the company, $575,-295.07.

IMMIGRANTS RESPONSIBLE.

Pest Believed to Have Been Brought From Europe in Packing Straw, Says Prof. Merrill.

According to statements made by Prof. Lewis A. Merrill to the Deseret News this morning, the damage to the lucern crop in Utah by the imported weevil has already reached the sum of $200,000 and unless there is a united effort on the part of the farmers of Salt Lake valley to eradicate the pest it will take a foothold throughout the state and the damage and loss will be startling

"The danger to the alfalfa crop is not from a lucern maggot, but from the al-falfa leaf-weevil, an imported insect," declared Prof. Merrill. "Prof. E. G. Titus, entomologist of the Utah experi-ment station, has made an exhaustive study of the ravages of this insect. During the past two or three years he has spent considerable time in the field, and is at present located on a large farm at Taylorsville, where he is mak-ing an exhaustive study of the insect and determining the best methods of its control. It is a peculiar fact that while this insect has done considerable damage to the lucern fields of European "The danger to the alfalfa crop is not damage to the lucern fields of European countries, it is unknown in the United States outside of the Salt Lake valley. It is somewhat of a mystery as to how this pest could have been introduced here for the first time, but it is probable that in the straw of packing of immigrants from Europe, the weevil made its entrance.

27.000 ACRES AFFECTED.

There are some 30,000 acres of lucern "There are some 30,000 acres of lucern in the Salt Lake valley, and a careful estimate made by Prof. Titus places the damaged area at nine-tenths of this. It is estimated that the damage to the first crop will aggregate about $200.-600. For some days now he has been in the field urging the farmers to cut their first crop, since this will prevent the insect from coming to a full stage of maturity. If the insects do not mature. the insect from coming to a full stage of maturity. If the insects do not mature, they will not lay their eggs and there will not be such serious consequences to the second crop. If, however, the fields are allowed to stand, these in-sects will come to full maturity, lay their eggs, and the second crop will be just as badly affected. "Another serious phase of the ques-tion is that the sweet clover is also a host plant for the insect, and conse-host plant for the insect, and conse-quently it will be propagated along the fence line, the ditch banks and in the roads.

SOLE REMEDY.

"The only remedy so far as known is to cut these host plants, as the in-sect does not thrive on plants after they become dry. The lucern field should then be disced and harrowed, as should then be disced and harrowed, as covering the insect with a layer of dirt is fatal to it. Besides, the discing and harrowing of the alfalfa is very bene-ficial to the crop, since it permits the entrance of air into the soil, and di-vides the plant in such a way as to materially stimulate the growth. The second crop should also be cut early, and this can also be disced and har-rowed in the same way. "Unless the farmers of Salt Lake val-ley unite in a strong effort to check the

The supreme court granted a per-manent writ of mandamus against Judge Morris L. Ritchie to compel him to hear the suit of Hyrum Neilson against E. E. Watrous, H. R. Watrous and Earl Watrous in an opinion hand-ed down today. The case was appealed from the justice's court where it was dismissed without prejudice on the ground that the action was brought in from the justice's court where it was dismissed without prejudice on the ground that the action was brought in the wrong precinct. When it was taken to the district court the detendants answered to the merits of the case, and the same day filed an affidavit that the court had no jurisdiction in the matter. The motion to dismiss was argued and submitted and taken under advisement. The court did not rule upon the motion, the opinion reads, but on its own motion dismissed the case. This is where the court erred, the opin-ion sets out, because the judgment of the justice's court was final in its ac-tion and the plaintiff had a right to file an appeal, and the district court should have heard the case anew. The suit was brought to recover $205 for goods delivered to the defendants that the action arose in Holiday pre-duct and the take the case applied WRECKED NEAR PROVO

EMPEY CASE ON TRIAL.

EMPEY CASE ON TRIAL. After dragging through the entire forenoon in Judge Bowman's court the preliminary hearing of Alfred Empey, charged with a statutory offense, was continued until tomorrow morning, when the defense will present its side of the case. The principal wit-ness in the case, Miss Annie White, aged 19 years, was on the stand for two hours this forenoon, and related how Empey had attempted to take ad-vantage of her in the Sait Palace grounds on the night of June 3. Patrol-man Barker, the arresting officer, was another main witness, telling how he had been attracted by the screams of the girl, and had found the man and girl, together.
