The above table shows at a glance the value of a 'greenback' dollar compared with a wide margin of Wall street quotations of gold, omitting fractions of a cent as unimportant, which omission causes the intervals in the left hand column.

To find the value of a 'greenback' dollar at any given quotation, write down 10000 and divide that sum by the quotation, quotient is the value sought; for example: if the quotation is $\frac{250}{10000}$ (40 cts. is the then value of a 'greenback' dollar. Should there be a remainder, in dividing 10,000 by the quotation of gold, add ciphers to the remainder, and extend the division into fractions of a cent.

As it is designed to use the term 'greenbacks' at par, which is a term synonymous with gold, as the standard for uniform prices, or the prices that should be asked, some may be at a loss to know what they should ask to get an equivalent in currency when gold is quoted at a premium. This is an easy problem, as, for example, if the fair or uniform price for flour is $6.00 when gold is quoted at 2.60, the equivalent price in currency is 2.60 multiplied by $6.00, which equals $15.60, the amount that should be asked or paid in currency at that quotation; and if a day's labor should be $2.00 when currency is at par, then, when the quotation for instance, is 2.40, the equivalent price in currency is 2.40 multiplied by $2.00, which equals $4.80. In short, in all cases, to know what amount in currency is equal in value to any given fair standard price, multiply the gold quotation at the time by such price, and the product is the corresponding equivalent in currency.

—A clergyman writes a note to the Green Bay Advocate asking the use of two or three columns of that paper for the purpose of proving "the existence of such a place as hell," and adds, that making such proof "would cause me a great deal of pleasure."

STRAY HOGS.

FOR some time past the inhabitants of the southwest part of the city have been annoyed by several stray hogs, that have been committing depredations among the wheat and other crops. Some of the settlers having lost their patience through the frequent visits of these marauders, fired on them, and two of them are known to have been killed.

On Saturday evening last, by the assistance of some neighbors, I caught one in my lot, and safely lodged it in my pen. It is a black sow pig, about six months old, crop off right ear.

The owner can have it by proving property and paying expenses.
