Judge W. H. Cooley, was a pub-lished card of the latter, in which he gave the correspondence between himself and Rhett, in reference to the expressions used by the Judge, in his argument in the Hawkins-Picagune libel case, which eard "The public will perceive from the above correspondence that I made a fair, honest and manly offer to Col. Rhett, viz., to publicly acknowledge I was wrong if he could show from his own files, that from show from his own files, that from Dec. 12, 1872, until Feb. 23, 1873, the Picayune had used toward any member of the Lynch returning board, except Judge Hawkins, the terms perfidy, perjury and bribery, provided that he agreed to admit that he had spoken incorrectly in the article of yesterday morning if he could not prove what I denied. that he had spoken incorrectly in the article of yesterday morning if he could not prove what I denied.

"The valiant and truthfulColonel dodges the issue in his letter to me, and very complacently refers me to the files of his paper from Dec. 12, 1872 to Feb. 23, 1873. I had already examined those files, and knew that Colonel Rhett could not prove by them that I had mis-stated the Picayune, and I presume that the Picayune, and I presume that Colonel Rhett employed the 24 hours of delay he claimed and was allowed to answer my note to him, in examining those files himself; in examining those files himself; and after satisfying himself that from that he was fairly caught, he refused the proposition I made to him. Colonel Rhett having written to the Picayune that I made assertions to the jury which were maliciously and wilfully false, and having subsequently refused my fair, honest and honorable offer, to deside which of us is correct. I tions to the jury which were main clously and wilfully false, and having subsequently refused my fair, honest and honorable offer, to decide which of us is correct, I publish him to the people of New Orleans as an unmitigated caluminator, a deliberate and wilful falsi fier, an artial dodger, and withal a thorough-paced braggart."

This appeared in the Times of this city, on June 27th, and on Friday last Col. Rheet sent a peremptory challenge to Judge Cooley, which was accepted, he asking, however that the meeting be postponed till Tueschy, yesterday, on account of his engagement to argue the motion for a new trial before Judge Hawkins, which came up on Monday. Judge Cooley was born in Point Coupee Parish, and was the son of Judge Thomas J. Cooley, his mother being a Ledoux, also a native of Point Coupee. This was not the first duel in which he bad been concerned. Some years before the war he met Dr. Kaufman, one of his fellow parishioners, upon the field of honor, and after an exchange of shots an amicable adjustment of the difficulty was made.
