BREVITIES.

It is one of the worst errors to suppose that there is any other path of safety except that of duty.

The Cleveland doctors thought a boy there had hydrophobia, but finally decided that the spasms were caused by over-study at school.

"Mammy!" said a precious little boy, who, against his will was made to rock the cradle of his baby brother, "If the Lord has any more babies to give away, don't you take 'em."

Every man deems that he has precisely the trials and temptations which are the hardest of all for him to bear; but they are so only because they are the very ones he needs.

A countryman was shown a bust of Napoleon, and informed whom it represented. He looked on with an incredulous grin. "Napoleon never lost both arms," said he.

The Reverend Olympia Brown is now upon her third year of stirring up the sinners in the town of Bridgeport, Ct. She has yanked over one hundred persons from the claws of Satan during the past year.—Ex.

The Congregationalist comments upon a trade circular in an English paper, recommending "a very good black tea dust at 1s. 4d. per pound, well adapted for charitable purposes as a gift to the poor," and adds that there is a great deal of this species of giving.

The record of Christmas crimes in New York city shows that there were four serious stabbing affrays, five murderous assaults, and two assaults with boiling water, besides the usual endless chapter of robberies and lesser crimes. The suburbs nearly double the list.—Ex.

Balm to the lacerated heart should not be injudiciously administered. The Denver News says a Monroe woman, weeping over the loss of a child, was assured by a sympathizing neighbor that "there are just as good fish in the sea as ever was caught."

The Saturday Review calls Mrs. Mulock-Craik's new story, "Hannah," "a deceased wife's sister's novel," and says "Hannah" is rather a tract than a novel, and a tract in two volumes, devoted to preaching up the duty of marrying our wives' sisters.

The local editor of the Puducah Kentuckian lately attended a party, and, according to his own words, saw nothing towards the close of the evening but "a beautiful billowy ocean of foaming skirts, which in their virgin and uncontaminated purity, rolled and puffed and surged in the gas-lit air."

There is a man in Decoaah, Ill., so penurious that, when shelling corn and a kernel flew into the wood pile, he removed seven cords of wood to find it. A neighbor standing by dropped a kernel where the searcher was looking, but when he found it he said: You cant fool me with that small kernel; the one I lost was a large one.

"Thomas, I have always placed the greatest confidence in you. Now, tell me, Tom, how is it that my butcher's bill is so large and that I always have such bad dinners?" "Really, sir, I don't know, for, I am sure, we never have anything nice in the kitchen that we don't send some of it up into the parlor!"

A young man having put a crown piece into "the plate" in an Edinburgh church, by mistake, instead of a penny, asked to have it back, but was refused. In once, in forever. "Aweel, aweel," grunted he, "I will get credit for it in heaven." Na, na," said Jeems, the doorkeeper, "ye'll get credit only for the penny ye meant to gi'e."

A few nights since about thirty of the most respectable ladies of Medora, Ill., proceeded to a low shop near the depot in that village, and demolished all the glasses and bottles in the establishment, and emptied the whisky and cider on the floor. They would have made the job more complete by emptying the proprietor into the river. —Mo. Republican.

My friend Meekley says he does not intend to go and see Mr. Wilkie Collins' "Woman in White." He has one of his own. She opened his hall door for him (after he had vainly knocked at it for half an hour) at 1 a.m. the other morning. She held a chamber candlestick in her hand, and it is supposed by some of his friends that that useful article had some connection with the strip of sticking-plaster which now ornaments his left temple.

Gibbon, in his Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, 10 p. 40, extracts this anecdote from the pages of Cardonna—He states that in the closet of the Kaliph Abdalrohman the following confession was found after his decease:

"I have now reigned fifty years in victory or peace; beloved by my subjects, dreaded by my enemies, and respected by my allies. Riches and honor, power and pleasure, have waited on my call, nor does any earthly blessing appear to be wanting to my felicity. In this situation I have numbered the days of pure and genuine happiness which have fallen to my lot. They amount to fourteen. O, Man! place not thy confidence in this present world!"

SAN FRANCISCO, 10.—Jos. C. Conroy, of the firm of Conroy and O'Connor, died at San Rafel, last night, after a long illness. He was one of the oldest and most successful business men of San Francisco.

The special treasury agent, Lobdell, has been making a full examination of the custom house, and has directed several changes in the collector's and naval officer's departments, to facilitate the transaction of business. Generally he found the different departments in a good state of efficiency.

The Hercules Silver Mining Co. was incorporated to-day, with a capital of $3,000,000, to operate in the Bristol District, Nevada.

The weather this evening is clear and cool, the wind being fresh from the south-east.

PETALUMA, 10.—It began to rain at 4 p.m., and still continues. The wind is from the south.

WOODLAND, 10.—It is raining here. many brick buildings have settled and will have to be taken down.

SHASTA, 10.—It began to rain this a.m. The wind is blowing a gale from the south-east.

VALLEJO, 10.—The bark Crotus is still ashore here. It commenced to rain this p.m., and promises to be a heavy storm.

SANTA ROSA, 10.—J. M. Brown, the stage robber and murderer, plead guilty and will be sentenced on Monday. The trial of other stage robbers is set for next Monday. The case of John Hoft Brown and Big Fool for robbery, is continued till the next term.

It commenced raining at 10 o'clock a.m., with a strong wind.

Manuel Garcia, an old offender, was tried, to-day, and convicted of felony by house breaking in the day time.

The flags of the Pioneer Exchange, Merchants Exchange, and the Mint are generally at half mast, in memory of General Halleck.

The Buckeye levied an assessment on our shore.

The city is completely overrun with thieves and roughs, the number being twice as great as at any former time in twenty years. There are two hundred and forty prisoners in the county jail, of whom it is believed one hundred and fifty at least, are able bodied men, fit to do hard labor, and are sent up for petty larceny, and other minor offences. It is believed the proposed chain-gang bill and for the enlargement of the powers of the police court, will drive a large portion from the country, or compel them to go to work, the chain gang being a perfect terror to those who look upon the jail as far preferable.

SAN FRANCISCO, 10.—Chief Crowley, to-day, got on the track of a gang of four young men, who are supposed to have been engaged in different robberies lately, among them, one on Monday night. It was found they had left town, and a party of detectives were sent in pursuit, and despatches sent ahead, to prevent their escape. The party were corraled at Red Wood city, by the sheriff, and brought to this place, this evening.

Geo. Carsten, a rag picker, fell dead, while pulling over a pile of rubbish today.

The vacancies made by the removal of appointees made a few days ago, on the plea of necessity, for economy, have all been filled by new appointments. It is noticed as remarkable, that all the removals for economy were among the friends of one congressmen, and the appointees are the friends of another.

The case of James Quim, who sues for $10,000 damages, for injuries, by being bitten by Israel Richards' dog, is on trial in the 4th district court.

At nightfall the sky became suddenly cloudy again. The wind fell and the barometer also, and, at 8 p.m, it began raining again. It appears now like the commencement of a heavy storm.

SACRAMENTO, 10.—Joseph McLaughlin, who, last evening, was convicted of manslaughter, in killing John Hughes on the evening of the 3rd of July, received that verdict with indifference, and appears entirely careless as to his fate.

Correspondence.

KARORI, New Zealand,
November 24th, 1871.

G. Q. Cannon, Esq.,

Dear Brother—Our beloved President, Brother Robert Beauchamp, arrived here on the 4th of October in good health and in the enjoyment of a goodly portion of the Spirit of God. He had been here but a few hours when the enemies of truth and righteousness began their howl, the press taking an active part in abusing not the principles of "Mormonism," but the man—Brother Beauchamp, of whom and of whose character they were entirely ignorant. The Wellington Advertiser, the paper which took the lead in abusing an humble servant of God, has ceased to exist, and is now among the past. Just at its last moment as it were, when suffering the agonizing throes of dissolution, it managed to incite the more vicious of our populace to a breach of the peace, but which culminated in no very serious injury to the Saints. A few rotten eggs—the best they had to give, emblematic of their hearts, the breaking of a few windows, and a great deal of bombast relative to what they intended to do with the "Mormons," were about all that they did do, with this exception that they armed themselves with tar and feathers, which they procured for the special benefit of Bro. Beauchamp, but they did not find him, much to their disappointment, and therefore they had to forego the inestimable pleasure it might have afforded them, if they had been able to carry into effect the desires of their over-righteous souls. The excitement is in a measure subsiding. The enemies of truth, seeing the very slight effect their opposition has upon the Saints, have concluded, I presume, for the time being, to give themselves no further trouble, except to give vent to an occasional growl, which is so currish that we scarcely notice it.

I see by the DESERET NEWS and California papers received by the last mail, that you are having lively times in Salt Lake City. I suppose man, weak, puny man, has brought himself to believe that nothing is easier, just at this time, than the overthrow of "Mormonism," which he is seeking to accomplish. But then the accomplishment of that object has been looked for, for the past forty years, and the time is about as nearly arrived as it was when the persecutions of the church first began. The principles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints are true, and truth is eternal and must stand, despite every attempt of man or devils to work its overthrow. I question not the power of man, when associated with the prince of darkness, to kill the servants of God, to destroy the body, but the spirit, which is the life, remains; with that, man has no power, for after he has killed the body there is no more that he can do. The power of Satan is the same now as it always has been, and working through his emissaries he may destroy from off the earth the lives of many of God's nobles; but to suppose that an act of that description is to prove "Mormonism" false, or to destroy its fair proportions, is simply ridiculous. The history of the past forty years should be a sufficient testimony to our enemies that the thing is not to be done.

The Saints here manifest anxiety about the matter, but are preparing for their departure from Babylon. By the December boat two families of the Saints will leave here for Zion, Elder Dryden and family, also bro. Joseph Fawcett and family. That there will be no others accompanying them I cannot say at this time, it depends entirely upon getting some person to come along who has ready money enough to buy up the little properties the saints hold. I hope the time may not be far distant when all the Saints here and elsewhere who desire it, may be privileged to gather.

Bro. Beauchamp is in good health at this date. He is ready and willing as an humble servant of God to bestow blessings upon all here who are willing to receive them.

Bro. B. desires me to convey his thanks to you for the NEWS you send him, and which comes to hand regularly. He also requests that all communication with him from the valley, after receipt of this, should be addressed to 17 Dixon Street, West Sydney, N. S. W., Australia.

The Saints in the New Zealand conference are doing their best to live their religion, and to gather up as soon as possible.

Praying Almighty God to bless the first Presidency, the Twelve and all the authorities in Zion with such wisdom as will enable them to bring to naught every effort put forth to annoy the Saints, that Zion, under their administration, may rejoice continually, is the prayer of your brother in the gospel.

HENRY ALLINGTON,
Prest. of N. Z. Conference.

LAIE, OAHU,
Sandwich Islands,
Dec. 4, 1871.

President Geo. Nebeker:

Dear Brother—It has been remarkably warm, though very rainy and stormy here. We commenced grinding the cane Nov. 14. After grinding four days, we were hindered by stormy weather, and could not finish until Dec. 9. It rained and drizzled most of the time for two weeks. We have put up a little over three tons and a half, with about two tons and a half yet to dry, of first sugar, making about six tons only of number one.

The cane is growing finely, the weeds and grass also, but we have the plow boys at work all that the weather will admit of. This is an extraordinary season, at least it appears so to me. I never have seen cane grow as it does now, since I came here. I feel quite encouraged. I think next season we shall have all the cane the mill can grind.

All is peace with us. Meetings are good. The news from the missionaries is very encouraging. Kevece tells me that he and his fellow-laborers on Kauai had baptised upwards of fifty new members. Kaleohano and Nana have had great success. They report the healing of a man afflicted with the palsy for five years, and so bad that he was not able to turn himself, but through faith and prayer he was healed almost instantly. A few have been added also in Maui, Molakai, Lanai and Oahunei.

As ever, I remain your brother and fellow laborer in Zion's cause,

WILLIAM KING.

LAW ABOLISHED.

Private letters received in this city by friends of families who live in those counties of South Carolina which have been placed under martial law represent the situation there as terrible in the extreme. The streets of the villages are deserted except by the soldiery; gentlemen do not dare to go abroad for fear their appearance may be the signal for arrest; and their wives, mothers, and daughters are either grieving over the absence of those who have been imprisoned, or in a state of constant apprehension lest their families should be broken up by further arrests.

A man's innocence of all complicity in the outrages of the Ku Klux, or even of any feeling of sympathy for the purposes of that organization, furnishes no protection; the merest breath of suspicion, or the malignant slanders of personal enemies, are sufficient grounds for tearing the suspected individual from his home and immuring him in a prison where he may be kept as long as the military authorities see fit to hold him, without any opportunity to meet his accusers, or even the poor satisfaction of knowing who they are. Worse than all, it is believed that it is deemed necessary for political purposes that arrests shall be followed by conviction, and many refined and gently-nurtured women who know their husbands to be free from all connection with any infractions of the laws, live in the dread of seeing them sent to Northern penitentiaries as convicts on the perjured testimony of frightened and degraded wretches who hope to save themselves by bringing ruin on their innocent neighbors.

This is a fearful state of affairs, but is the natural result of the enforcement of an unconstitutional enactment which takes from whole communities all the protections that in a free country are generally supposed to be extended over even the vilest criminal; it is the inevitable consequence of substituting the rule of the bayonet for the impartial administration of the law.—New York Sun.

A capital feature has been introduced on some of the South London tramways—that of supplying the cars with daily papers. This provision enables passengers to while away the time very pleasantly in the large open cars, which have all the comfort of apartments. Every feature of this sort will increase the popularity of the tramways, which are already high in public favor. A reading room on wheels, in which one can lounge, read at intervals, and watch the life of the streets when so disposed, might satisfy a Sybarite. It is a vast improvement on the old stuffy, gloomy, irritating vehicles which went bumping along, rendering it impracticable to read even were one so disposed.—South London Press.

Some one describing a ball, said it was a vast assemblage of people who had never met before and who never cared to meet again, and that they talked a little, danced a little, ate a little, and then when some grew tired, and wondered not a little.
