LOGAN.

A Thrilling Experience — Benefit of Scofield Sufferers.

Special Correspondence.
Logan, Cache Co., May 11.—A son of Mr. W. G. Daniels, of the plow works in this city had a thrilling experience last night. He was operating a drilling machine and in some manner his shirt sleeve was caught by the revolving steel shaft. The young fellow tried to tear himself away, but finding this impossible for the first time realized his position, and began to call loudly for help. His friends reached the ears of a workman in an adjoining room, who rushed in and stopped the machinery just as the drill had wound the boy's clothing up to his shoulder.
