"A Square Meal."
We are sure our readers will thank us for calling their attention to the very handsome advertisement of the Excelsior Manufacturing Co., of St. Louis, it would be useless for us to try to say anything in favor of their great Claret Oak Cooking Stove. The very word suggests the thought of a well cooked meal, followed by easy digestion, vigorous health, and a desire to have and to do plenty of work, to say nothing of the comfort of a happy, contented household.

SALT LAKE CITY, September 6, 1876.
Buying at $1.08; selling at $1.10.

Local and Other Matters.

Thermometer 77 degrees F. in the shade at 1 p.m. today. Fine, breezy.

Seventies.—General meeting of Seventies at the City Hall, tonight, at seven o'clock.

Pardon.—Yesterday Jack Beigan was the recipient of executive clemency, having been pardoned by the Governor. His health has been failing for some time.

Accidentally Poisoned.—A little daughter of Bishop A. H. Raleigh accidentally swallowed a quantity of liquidized caustic soda a day or two since. She is recovering.

At Lindsay's.—The Sunday School children of the 17th Ward will spend Friday next at Lindsay's Gardens. All the members of the Ward are invited to be present free.

Surgical Operation.—Mr. Z. Snow, Jr., who has been suffering for a year or two from a disease of the knee joint, and who returned lately from Illinois, had a limb amputated yesterday, the operation being performed by Dr. Williamson.

Opened.—The trustees of the 12th School District, having secured the services of Mr. James Jamieson, a professional teacher of large experience, who came to this city from the East last Spring, the school was opened on Monday, under the direction of that gentleman, who has excellent references as to qualifications, from positions heretofore held by him.

Better Still.—Last evening the hydrant had another and still more successful trial. A quantity of three-inch hose, the largest size in use in the United States, having been procured for the fire department, there was a trial of water-throwing with them opposite the Cliff House. A three-quarter inch stream was thrown a tremendous height, sufficient to reach the top of and even go over the highest buildings in the city.

From Ogden.—Yesterday we had the pleasure of a call from Elder David M. Stuart, of Ogden, who recently returned from a mission to the States, on which he was absent ten months in Missouri, Iowa, and Illinois, meeting with good success and having great pleasure in his labors.

Elder Stuart has spent many years in missionary labors, in his native country, Scotland, in California, and in the eastern States.

A Good Man Departed.—It will be observed, by obituary notice, in another column, that Elder J. P. Meik died at an early hour this morning. We had the privilege of being well acquainted with the deceased, and so far as we could judge of his character, a more honest, unassuming and exemplary man could scarcely be found. He was a man of liberal education, and of good natural intelligence when in the vigor of health. He came to Utah five or six years ago, from India, in which latter part of the world he had lived many years, although Scotland was the country of his nativity.

A Disreputable Vocation.—There is a fellow in Ogden City, East Canyon, who is engaged in the nefarious occupation of procurer for a house of ill fame in that place. In playing his vocation he makes trips to and from this city, sometimes taking with him from hereabout several young girls. He resorts to various subterfuges to induce the girls to accompany him to Ogden. About a year ago he persuaded a couple of young women to go to Ogden under pretense that he had secured for them, at that place, good situations as helps. On their arrival there and discovering the disreputable and degraded character of the house to which they were taken, and the debasing course of life they were expected to follow, they returned to this city and entered complaint against the scoundrel.

This same execrable fellow a few days since induced three young girls of this city to go to Ogden, to the same den of infamy, for which they left last Sunday morning. It is time these proceedings were put a sudden stop to. It is an evil that every good citizen should deprecate and endeavor to extinguish. Surely there is some law adequate to reach and punish persons for engaging in a vocation such as is plied by the miserable specimen of humanity alluded to.

City Council.—The Council met last evening, Mayor Little presiding.

Petition of George Goldard and 6,015 other residents of Salt Lake City, asking the Council to take some action with a view to limiting or restraining the traffic in spirituous and fermented liquors, for the purpose of lessening the extent and stopping the growth of intemperance; referred to the committee on license.

Petition of Charles F. Williams and twenty-eight other residents of the 4th Ward, asking that a portion of their city taxes be applied in repairing the street crossings, under the direction of the supervisor; the Council decided that the taxes from the 4th Ward for 1876 be applied in the manner desired by the petitioners, and that the same be conferred upon the residents of the 5th Ward.

Petition of Heifer and Giebbart for the use of a portion of the sidewalk and street in front of the Merchant's Exchange, corner of Commercial and Second South Street, for piling materials thereon, while repairs on the building are being made; granted.

Petition of Henry Perkes and Frank May, for a reduction in the rates of rent and license for meat stalls in the 12th Ward Market; referred to committee on license.

A communication from James and Eliza Marsden, protesting against the Council granting the privilege to Morris and Evans to use the sidewalk opposite their works in the 5th Ward for a wagon road, and making complaint that the parties named were not complying with the ordinance in relation to ditches and obstructions on the sidewalk; referred to committee on streets and alleys.

The committee to whom was referred the petition of A. C. Pyper and others asking the privilege of planting an additional row of shade trees on the street opposite their lots, ten feet from the line of the sidewalk, recommended the granting of the prayer; report received and tabled.

A committee report recommended the granting to S. P. Teasdale, in accordance with petition, the privilege of making a drain across 1st South Street, to convey water from his cellar; report adopted.

The committee to whom was referred the petition of Morris and Evans, for the right of way for a switch from the Utah Southern railroad to their works in the 5th Ward, and the use of a portion of the adjacent sidewalk for a wagon road, reported favorably thereon; recommendation of the committee adopted.

The following bills were allowed and amounts appropriated:—
Bill of expenditures of Marshall's department, for August, $297.45; Engineer of Fire Department, $371.45, $53 of the amount to be charged to other departments; W. Hyde, for boarding prisoners, $209.10; salary of City Treasurer, $200; salary of Marshal and Chief of Police, $155; regular police services, $808; extra guard service, $50; salary of jailer, supervisor of streets and watermaster, $150; of janitor of City Hall, $54; of W. E. Hyde, for guarding water tanks, lightings lamps, etc., $80; bill of S. B. Young, for attendance, etc., of three inmate parties, $106.55; bill of Gas Company, $1,122.60.

The sum of $3,000 was appropriated for payment of a note of hand, and $125 for interest due on the same; and $500 was appropriated to pay interest on the Wardell note. The sum of $40 was appropriated for payment of Levi Stewart for conveying an insane man, named Quinn, to Washington County.

A contingent fund of $1,000 was appropriated, to be drawn against by the supervisor.
Bill of S. B. Young, for professional services, as city physician, $14; referred to committee on claims.
Adjourned 'till next Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock.

Our Country Contemporaries.

Ogden Junction, Sept. 5.
The health of our little city has been remarkably good so far this year, in the month of August the death rate has been very light. We are informed by Mr. Israel Canfield, sexton, that the number of deaths in August, 1876, was only four, against twenty in the same month in 1875.

On Sunday evening Clifford Goodwin, boy about ten years old, son of C. C. Goodwin, of Logan, was at a ranch near Weston, and got his hand in a moving machine which had become disarranged and had just been repaired. His hand was terribly mangled. On Monday morning he was taken to Dr. Ormsby, at Logan, who amputated the third and fourth fingers of the right hand with his accustomed skill and dispatch. The boy is doing as well as could be expected. The little finger is somewhat injured, but Dr. Ormsby hopes to save that as well as the thumb and forefinger.

Logan was visited with a terrible thunder storm on Sunday evening. About five o'clock a hurricane swept over the town from the west, covering everything with a blinding dust. This carried along the dense black clouds which had been gathering all the afternoon over the western mountains, and vivid lightnings soon darted hither and thither, and deafening peals of thunder followed instantly, indicating the close proximity of the clouds charged with the electric fluid. The rain poured down in drenching torrents for about an hour and a half, when the storm held up for awhile. In the middle of the night the evening's performance of the elements was continued with all the force and din of the first, heightened by the darkness of midnight. The only material damage we have heard of is the consequence of the storm was the splintering of two telegraph poles, and a slight injury to Mr. Aaron De Witt's latter was struck by lightning in two places: on one of the chimneys and the north side of the roof. The lightning entered the house and played some fantastic freaks; cutting off slivers from the kitchen floor, running under the skirting board into a room occupied by Rev. W. H. Story, splintering the floor without damaging the carpets, and taking a few chips off two book cases. Outside the chimney took a few bricks, and the roof a few shingles, while one pole of the north porch was split almost in twain. Fortunately no person was injured. The storm was one of the heaviest while it lasted of anything ever experienced in Cache county.

The Canadian Indians.

A report that Sitting Bull has in vain attempted to induce the Indians of British America in the way which he is now waging is going the rounds of the press, and in many quarters is meeting with implicit belief. It is quite natural that the Sioux should desire as many allies as possible, and considering their nearness to the Blackfoot of Manitoba, it is probable that the Sioux leaders have attempted to draw these into an entangling alliance. Further color of truth is given to the narrative by the facts that the Blackfoot have applied to the Canadian Government to know if they would be protected by English soldiers against the Sioux, should the latter attempt to take vengeance on them for their refusal, and that the authorities have guaranteed them the fullest possible security.

Whether the report be true or false matters little; its animus serves to show the difference in the feeling entertained towards the whites by the Indians of the two countries. Nothing is plainer than that our Indians are always ready to go upon the war path, while the Canadian Indians can not be lured into a fight. They were originally the neighbors of the whites, their dispositions were the same, and their feelings toward the whites were identical. The causes which have made our Indians idle, treacherous, bloodthirsty brutes they are, while the nations under the control of Canada are tractable, industrious, and semi-civilized, must be looked for in the difference of the Indian policies of the two countries. It is no news to the people of the United States to say that our Indians have been occupying an anomalous position. They have been treated as inferiors, as equals, and, sometimes, as superiors, as wards of the country, and as independent nations; as men having not the slightest moral responsibility, and as men having the very highest degree of self-command; at times within the pale of the law, and at others exempt from all restrictions.

The English policy, on the contrary, has been uniform. The Indians who have come under the control of the Canadian Government have always been treated as subjects, to be legislated for, cared for, and partially provided for. There was the same measure of justice for Indians as for whites, and the savages soon learned that to violate law was to invite certain punishment. Meanwhile whiskey was kept from them, and the white man who was caught selling liquor of any kind to Indians received one of the severest punishments known to Canadian law. The use of fire-arms was allowed them to a limited extent, but they were never given any occasion or pretext to employ them against the whites, and so would much sooner have gone to war with each other than with those who provided them with seed and agricultural implements, with clothing, and with the best of school instruction and police guardianship.

The consequences of these contrary policies have been that, while the United States have spent thousands of lives and millions of treasure in the attempt to settle the Indian problem, in Canada the Indian question has settled itself. There has never been an Indian war in British America, and it is not likely there will ever be one. The Indians are treated with strict justice, and as human beings having rights and feelings of their own, which others are bound to respect. So the Canadian Indians have the best possible reasons for not wishing to cast their lots with Sitting Bull and his braves. They are well off as they are; are contented, many of them are making money, some are already rich. This is a sad state of affairs, and they have good sense enough to perceive it. Their condition, when compared with that of our own tribes, is so entirely different as to cause the most serious reflections in regard to our past course towards the Indians, and to ask whether there might not yet be time for a radical change in our method of dealing with the Indian problem. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
