ADMINISTRATION BALL.

Now Spry has made a special re-quest that the title "Inagural ball" be abandened and that in its stead the title "administration ball" be used. "It is rather late for an inagural ball" said Gov. Spry. "and in addition to that the members of the legislature will all be guests of honor. For that reason it is more properly described as an "administration ball." # PIONEER ART AND ARTISTS.

Daughters of the Utah Pioneers Hear Interesting Discussion.

The Daughters of Utah Pioneers met esterday at the Lion House and listened to an interesting discussion of someer art and artists, the first speaker being the well known artist, George M. Offinger, who gave reminiscences of early-day art, paying a tribute to the pioneers for their love of art and all things beautiful, and explaining that it was because of conditions of de-privation that more was not accomplished at the time along this line. They, however, gave all the encouragenext possible to existing talent, and it may an evidence of the interest of the people in these things that afterward when an eastern ariist came to Utah be took away with him about $12,000, paid him by the people for his paint-

He spoke of the efforts of native culptors, draftsmen and architects; mentioned the famous lion on the his-toric house in which they met; also he cagle on the State street gate, and mentioned the names of well known doneers who had tried to excel in the work possible to their hands. Mrs. Alice M. Horne followed with a talk upon later art and artists, speakof the better advantages of the recent artists, and the names of hose who had gone abroad for instruc-ion, with some of the fame that had followed their efforts; said that all of the Utah artists had individuality in style and method, this individuality dowing itself in the adoption of disduct lines of expression even when an artist had studied for some special and ifferent line. She paid a tribute to the arst speaker, George M. Ottinger, whose legalty to art had had its influence on the sarly time and people, as well as the later artists; said that it was to be efforts of the early-day artists that the art sentiment had been nourisbed, and feit that much would come from it

The date of the ball will be January 25. With the announcement of the committees each one will begin its particular section of the work so that everything will be in readiness be-fore the date of the ball for a function surpassing all previous attempts in the same line, ~ ELABORATE PREPARATION.

Preparations will be made to re-ceive 500 people, and Col. Squires, chairman of the executive committee declares that the preparations will be as elaborate as it is possible to make them. The doubling of all electric light capacity, in order to se-cure the most brilliant effect pos-sible, is one of the plans. Another is to drape the rooms of the Governor's club, now occupying a portion of the to drape the rooms of the Governor's club, now occupying a portion of the Odeon hall, so that they may increase the capacity of the building for the general reception preceding the ball.
