

quested to furnish three ushers each for attendance during the conference. Benediction by Elder George B. Wallace.

TIMOTHY AT THE FAIR.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The past week at the Fair has not been marked by any event of special importance. Everything has been moving quietly, the attendance, however, has been increasing considerably in the last few days. The weather is pleasant, and in fact, taking the season through since the opening of the Exposition, no serious complaint can be made against the weather. Quite a number of prominent Utah people have been here during the past week. Judge Smith, of Ogden, accompanied by his wife, has devoted several days to the Fair. He is well pleased with the Fair in general and the Utah exhibit in particular. It is his opinion that Utah has the finest mineral exhibit to be found on the World's Fair grounds, and he is exceedingly well pleased with the showing in this department. The judge has gone to Kentucky for the purpose of visiting relatives and friends, and to recuperate after his exertions at the Fair. Hon. Chas. Crane is here attending the meeting of the National commission; he is alternate for Hon. P. H. Lauman. Mr. Crane has looked over the Utah exhibit and says that he is more than pleased with the showing made. He says that the Utah wool exhibit compares favorably with that of any other state. He is especially proud of the agricultural exhibit made by Utah. He says that he considers it is doing the Territory a wonderful amount of good.

Hon. George Q. Cannon stopped off here on his return from England, and spent a few days examining the Fair. Mr. Cannon has traveled a great deal, as everyone knows, and he is well able to judge of the character of an exposition like the World's Fair. He pronounces the Columbian Exposition the finest show of the kind that the world has ever seen. He remarked that he had seen some pictures of the Fair that reminded him more of the tales of fairy land than anything else, but he was of the opinion after seeing the Exposition that the pictures were not overdrawn; and that the display as a whole was one of the most beautiful sights the fertile brain of man could conceive. Mr. Cannon was especially interested in all devices of a labor saving character; he spent much time in the machinery and electric buildings, and was especially interested in the developments made in electrical appliances during the past few years, and made a careful study of the several exhibits, especially the devices for electric cooking purposes. The simplicity of the application of electricity in the culinary department impressed him very much. He also made a special study in the machinery hall of the pumping machinery, and collected a great deal of information on this subject. The exhibit of pumping engines, etc., made in machinery hall is without doubt the finest that has ever been made. Mr. Cannon was well pleased with the Utah building. He took great interest in the preparations being made for Utah day, and called on his old friend, Director-General Davis, in the interest of the World's Fair Commission regarding the preparations now in progress for the celebration of Utah day. Mr. Cannon met a number of his old friends, all of whom were glad to see him. Mayor Harrison of Chicago, was especially glad to see him and greeted him most cordially.

Hon. Heber J. Grant has paid a flying visit to the Fair, but has been so busy that he has not had time to see much of the Exposition. He takes great interest in the preparations for Utah day and expects to be here on that occasion to take part in the exercises. Utah day promises now to be one of the great events of the Exposition. The fact that the Tabernacle choir is to take part in the exercises has created a general interest in this particular day throughout the entire eastern portion of the country. The newspapers have frequently mentioned the fact that the choir is to be present and give a concert on that day, and as this musical society is so well known by reputation throughout the country, the result has been to awaken a general interest in Utah day. Other things have also served to attract attention to this particular day. California will celebrate their day on the 9th of September, and the Grand Army of the Republic has made preparations for a celebration which will also include that day. All these things will tend to attract a large number of people to Chicago at that time, and the Exposition authorities are free to admit that no greater attraction can be announced than that the great Tabernacle choir of Salt Lake City is to give a concert on that day, and the director general has intimated that the Exposition authorities will do everything in their power to assist the Utah people in their celebration, as they believe that of all the attractions announced for that day, the choir will be the greatest.

Governor West and staff, together with a large number of citizens of Utah, are expected to be present on that day and to participate in the exercises. The railroads will doubtless make special rates for that occasion, even if they do not make a particularly low rate for the remainder of the Fair, and as September will be one of the best months of the Fair, and the attendance at that time will be exceedingly large, it seems to be especially fitting that Utah should make a great effort on that day, as nothing will serve to attract more attention to the Territory than a creditable observance of the day especially set apart as the Territorial day.

DOFF BLACK HATS IN SUMMER.

The following item written by me appeared in the DESERET NEWS twenty years ago over the nom de plume of Norval. Perhaps its republication would result in good, and with this motive in view I place it at your disposal. Respectfully,

GEORGE ANDERSON.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 4, 1873.

A certain writer on hygiene has said: "The clothes we wear are in-teoded, or should be intended, to secure three objects: warmth in winter, coolness in summer and health at all times."

I have noticed for years past in Salt Lake City and parts adjacent where I have traveled, that a large number of the community are in the habit of wearing black clothing in summer, and a majority of "ootb old and young and grave and gay" make a practice of wearing black hats.

It is a well known fact, demonstrated by the experience of every one who has given the matter the least attention, that hats and clothing of a black color have the power of attracting the sun's rays much more than any other color. If any one is inclined to doubt this statement let him try the experiment some sunny day next winter of laying two pieces of cloth on the snow, side by side, one black and the other white, and observe which sinks into the snow the fastest.

The observance of the above hint may be the means of avoiding many a headache, fever and sunstroke."

THE Examiner of San Francisco joins those who are engaged in "showing up" a waning celebrity in the following brittle words:

A minister named James Wesley Hill is ravishing through the East borrowing the ears of the populace wherein to pour a tale of what he knows about the Mormons. A little caution would be wise. Goaded beyond the limit the Mormons may tell what they know about J. Wesley.
