

SQUALLY.

Less than a week ago the whole country was looking eagerly and impatiently to the inauguration of Gen. Grant as Chief Magistrate of the United States.

After the inauguration the nation was on the tiptoe of expectation to learn who were the members of the new Cabinet, for with Grant's usual reticence, he had scarcely dropped a hint by which his most intimate friends could infer who were the chosen band.

It is rumored that Bovie, the gentleman selected for the Navy, and Hoare, selected for the Attorney Generalship, are not inclined to accept office; that Mr. Washburne, the Secretary of State, has resigned, or will do so immediately, and that A. T. Stewart, selected for Treasurer, is ineligible.

If coming events throw their shadows before this action of Congress in relation to the wishes and will of the President seems to indicate that Grant may have to fight against an opposition similar to that of which his predecessor so bitterly complained.

The vast audience being called to order by Hon. L. Farr, Mayor of Ogden City, Hou. F. D. Richards was then introduced, who delivered an eloquent and soul-stirring address.

The New York Herald advises Grant to insist upon the repeal of the law of '68, and to make it a test of the loyalty of Congress to his Administration; assuring him that in case of a rupture he may rely upon the support of the people of the nation.

the sake of retaining Mr. Stewart in his Cabinet, however much he may desire to do so, it is not at all probable that the President will push things to such an extremity while there are eligible and able men to be found in the country.

Should Mr. Washburne resign the position of Secretary of State, which, from private advices and other sources we have been led to believe probable, on account of the precarious state of his health, we hope to see the President tender to this gentleman,—one of his long-trying and trustworthy personal friends,—a position that will be worthy of his abilities, and of the confidence reposed in him by all who know him.

While the state of affairs at the national capital is as above described, excitement and uncertainty will prevail throughout the country; and at the same time the great work which the new Administration has assumed the responsibility of performing will be obstructed.

RAILWAY CELEBRATION AT OGDEN.

OGDEN CITY, UTAH, March 8, 1869.

Editor Salt Lake Telegraph.—At 11.20 o'clock this a.m. the U. P. R. R. track-layers have in sight of this city, and from that time continued their march with great rapidity.

The citizens exhibited the liveliest enthusiasm, and testified the liveliest joy, as, from the high bluffs and every commanding elevation they feasted their eyes and ears with the sight and sound of the long-expected and anxiously looked for heavy steed.

"HAIL TO THE HIGHWAY OF NATIONS! UTAH BIDS YOU WELCOME!"

Pedestrians, equestrians, and crowded vehicles now thronged the festive scene. Wadsworth's artillery having arrived, a salute of twenty-one guns was now fired, whose deafening echoes vibrated through the mountains, hills and vales.

At half past five o'clock the rails were laid to a point in a line with the Tithing Office street, five blocks north into the city. On the stand were Hon. F. D. Richards, L. Farr, A. E. Farr, Col. D. Gamble, W. Thompson, W. N. Fife, Maj. S. M. Blair, Capt. Joseph Parry, Wm. Clayton, Maj. Pike, A. Miner, F. S. Richards, J. Hall, G. Belmont, J. McGaw, F. A. Brown, Esq., Col. J. C. Little, D. B. Warren and Johnson, Esq., and others who were invited, but whose names I did not learn.

The vast audience being called to order by Hon. L. Farr, Mayor of Ogden City, Hou. F. D. Richards was then introduced, who delivered an eloquent and soul-stirring address.

It is impossible to do justice in this letter to Judge Richards' speech, which was replete with interest, and was listened to with delight, by the large and respectable audience. The speaker, who was often cheered by both citizens and strangers, concluded by paying a high compliment to the ability and energy of Capt. Wm. Clayton and his able assistants.

to the south, now, with three engines, steamed to the front of the stand. Three cheers for the great high-way was now proposed and given, when the wildest enthusiasm and demonstrations of joy prevailed and loud shouts rent the air. Amid the alternate pealings of the artillery's thunder, the music of the band, and the long continued, shrill whistling of the three engines, the waving of hats, kerchiefs, and other demonstrations of pleasure, rendered the occasion such that will not soon be forgotten by those present.
