Sheepmen Will Cattle With Government to Exterminate Wolves, Etc.

Special Correspondence.

Provo, Oct. 23.—The stockmen on the Utah national forest, have joined hands with the government in an effort to rid the range of the predatory animals, now so destructive to the interests of stockmen. The matter has been under head for some time, and today W. L. Pack, supervisor of the Utah national forest, was advised from Washington, D. C., that the government had decided to exterminate the pests from the Utah national forest this winter. District No. 12 has promised $100, and other districts have promised support enough to induce Mr. Pack to believe that $1,000 will be raised to fight the coyotes and wild cats on the reserve. Cowing to the great activity on the part of the sheep men in the matter, Mr. Pack has permitted them to choose the men who are to do the hunting and trapping. Eight men will be selected for the work. Two will come from Wallburg, two from Vernal and the others from points in Wyoming.

U. S. PEET LECTURES.

V. S. Peet lectured last evening to a good sized audience in the First ward meetinghouse. His subject was the representation which ministers are making in the eyes of the people of Utah to raise means from the unsophisticated people of the east. His effort was much appreciated, although the subject was not a pleasant one, as our people are a peace-loving community, and would rather see our religious neighbors conduct their proselyting in a fair and honorable manner instead of resorting to lying and misrepresentation in order to further their cause.

Kanosh, Millard Co., Oct. 21.—A second telephone message came to Mrs. Amanda Penney at 2 p. m. today, stating that the two bodies, supposed to be those of Ezra Penney and his son George, were still in the grave where discovered, one wrapped in a blanket was lying on the top of the other, and they would not be further disturbed until after the arrival of the sheriff of Beaver county. Mrs. Penney's son Edward instructed his brother William Penney to come out prepared to convey the remains home to Kanosh.

There seems to be no doubt as to the identity of the skeleton remains, being identified by means of four bridged teeth in front of Ezra Penney's mouth, and by a heavy shawl and quilt in which the bodies had been wrapped when buried. The years' exposure to the elements had not destroyed the shawl or quilt.

There is every evidence to believe that the father and son were both murdered, as both were in one hole, one lying over the other, where they had been partly buried. More than a year ago there was found near Kanosh, more than 30 miles distant, the father's wagon and harness, and the skeletons of the horses. The horses had been shot through the head. The meat of the wagon was covered with blood and
