MARY AND MARTHA.

I must freely confess that I have never found myself able to put any heart into any interpretation of the two women to whom was given the great joy and honor of ministering to Jesus in their own home which undertook to strike the balance of their virtues or frailnesses. I love Mary in the fine spiritual quality of her devotion that forgets homelier tasks; but I cannot but remember that if somehody else had not recollected and discharged them, the dear and august Guest might have suffered hunger in the house of His friends. A kinsman of mine was once entertained by a gifted woman, who was so much absorbed in his interesting conversation that she forgot to inspect the "spare room" in which he slept, and in which he passed the night in exasperating collisions with a silver soup-tureen which long before had been concealed from the burgiars in his bed; and I confess I agreed with a cynical feminine critic who observed, on hear-ing the story, that elever and devout women might sometimes most wisely "pray and talk less and keep house more." The picture of a bustling, over-zealous hospitality is sorded and unpicturesque enough, doubtless; but the absorption in higher things that leaves all mean tasks and hard work to another is not altogether engaging either Martha undoubtedly deserved the re-buke she got. But surely no one will withhold from her that tender sympathy that we ought to give, every day of our lives, to hard-worked and overburdened women all about us! By all means let us honor Mary for her truer Vision of the Highest!—Harper's Ba-

The easiest way to get rid of these pretis but pestiferous things is to fit something like an old broad chisel on a broom handle. By this means you can cut them off in the ground just below the crown. This will kill them and the work can be done easily and quickly and without bending over much.

Excellent Addresses Delivered by Presidents Snow, Cannon and Smith -Prophecy is Being Fulfilled.

Preston, May 28 .- This afternoon President Joseph F. Smith was the first speaker, and said in part, parents should teach their children the principles of the Gospel, and the better way is by example; persons who use tobacco, strong drink, tea and coffee, are in a poor plight to teach better things. So a poor plight to teach better things. So also is one who neglects his tithing or prayers. The day is coming when the ungodly shall be burned up as stubble, Read the revelation on the Word of Wisdom. This was given as a word of advice, but in later years President Young had said that it was now a command from the Lord and must be obsered. President Smith spoke upon obeyed. President Smith spoke upon the necessity of marriage and where it should be solemnized. Teach your children morality, said he, and remember that immorality will stultify you and make you unfit for the kingdom of President Cannon, who was the next speaker, said he could heartily endorse all that had been said. These things the principles of life and salvatl "I have been greatly impressed of late to bring before the people the law of God, for just as far as we obey the law of God, Just so near are we to 'our heavenly Father. The Prophets, Apostles, and Saints have gained their exaltation by keeping the law, and we shall progress from one degree of glory to another as we keep more closely the to another as we keep more closely the law of God, and if we follow this faith we shall reach the Father." President Cannon spoke upon the enormity of the sins of adultery and fornication and the nobllity of a pure and holy life. He spoke of the judgments to come, as it is written that desolation and sickness written that desolation and sickness shall empty the earth. Shall we be spared these plagues? We shall if we live by the law. Unfaithful people have fallen away as the cause of disobedience. Many names will perish from among men. God does not inspire His Apostles for naught. President George Q. Cannon said that he had seldom attended a conference where there was such an outpouring o the Holy Spirit. At a time when the Church was very feeble, the prophecy was that Zion would grow, and som people thought that could never be ful people thought that could never be ful-filled, but we see it developing dally. We are often asked, continued the speaker, to extend our borders and form colonies in Monthaa, Wyoming and Mexico. They want "Mormons" to come, for the world is learning that they are honest, industrious, and their influence is extending not only in this country but it is extending across the country, but it is extending across the President Cannon gave a graphic de-scription of what the Church and Kingdom of God are and how they would exist, separtely, and people would be of the kingdom that were not Church members. When the Prophet Joseph taught these things he called in some non-"Mormons" that they might also remember what the Prophet said about the Church and the Kingdom when they are fully established. The prophecies will be fulfilled and all obstacles will be removed out of the way for the building up of Zion as God has or-

The holy Priesthood is the most perfect organization on earth, and a Stake organization is a miniature representation of the general organization of the Church, and in a very plain and lucid manner the speaker described all the workings of this heavenly power among men, and explained why there had been no President of the quorum sustained at the late general Conference, as the three senior Apostles are in the First Presidency, and to avoid any confusion in the future, no president had been appointed, and fully explained the au-thority of the various quorums; that the Apostles were not equal in authority to the First Presidency while th First Presidency were in existence; the same could be said of all other quo-

President Joseph F. Smith, who was the next speaker, sustained all that had been said. If there were two heads at the same time the Church would be hydra-headed. The Apostles often meet with the First Presidency, but if they were equal in authority then the Twelve would outvote the three, The Twelve Apostles can never preside over the Church while the First Presidency exist, and no Apostle can come into a Stake of Zion and interfere with its workings unless he has been sent by the First Presidency, and without this authority he would have no more right to interfere than would a Deacon. But he may preach the Gospel. But if he comes with authority, then look out, for you must listen to him.
