THE TWENTY-FOURTH IN THE SETTLEMENTS.

The pressure upon our columns necessitates the condensation of the reports from the country of the celebration of the anniversary of the arrival of the Pioneers in this Valley into much smaller space than they otherwise might occupy.

Malad.

Malad City, I. T., had an unusually grand celebration. The Sunday schools from the surrounding settlements promenaded the streets with banners, etc. There was an oration by Wm. S. Lewis, speeches by A. Goodliffe, G. G. Bywater, and others, dancing and other amusements, singing by the school children, directed by David Jones. Daniel Daniels, marshal of the day. JOHN PRICE, Chaplain.

DANIEL DANIELS.

Logan.

The Twenty-fourth of July, 1874, dawned propitiously upon this beautiful valley, with its teeming fields, smiling gardens, and thrifty denizens.

Fifteen years ago this valley was sparsely settled, and thought impossible, by reason of early and extreme frosts, to become the desirable location it has.

The celebration of this auspicious day was generally observed by the entire county, as evinced by the concourse of people present from every settlement, to witness and participate in the Jubilee, which had been pre-arranged for that day.

The timely rains, which had fallen for a day or two previous, had rendered traveling a luxury, cooling the recent intense atmosphere, and improving materially the condition of our roads. Long before the hour appointed for the services to commence, wagon after wagon rolled in with lively cargoes. The new and spacious bowery was tastefully fitted up, and conveniently arranged for the various Sunday school choirs, and when filled presented a spectacle pleasant to behold, the presence of the Logan martial and Wellsville brass bands, giving alternately rich strains of music, added greatly to the festivities of the occasion.

The congregation was called to order at 10 a. m.

"Invocation," "All hail my Sabbath School-mates," "Zion is Growing," "The Festal Day," "Our Own Sunday School," "Our Jubilee," "Song of Praise," "The Children of the Saints," "Thanks for the Sabbath School," "Tis sweet to Mingle Voices," "All Hail to the Jubilee," "Hark, Listen to the Music," "The Daisy," and "Thanksgiving," were sung with excellent effect.

Joseph Goddard and Carrie Carpenter accompanied upon the organ.

The audience was addressed by Bishops Wm. F. Littlewood, and W. B. Preston, Pres. B. Young, Jun., Supt. Moses Thatcher and Bishop Samuel Roskelly.

At this place guns were fired and flags hoisted as usual, and a grand procession was formed, comprising cavalry, the band, divers dignitaries, the various trades, and the relief societies working at sewing, knitting, spinning, etc., young ladies as a retrenchment society, plainly but neatly dressed, and the rising generation, with "The hope of Israel," were also out in large numbers, with a fine display of banners with suitable mottoes. The procession, after marching and countermarching, repaired to the new bowery, where the proceedings consisted of an oration by the Hon. Geo. D. Snell, speeches by Stephen Markham and Zebedee Coltrin, music, songs, recitations, etc.

At two o'clock the citizens reassembled in the bowery, and enjoyed themselves in hearing speeches, songs, recitations and music, and participating in the dance, winding up with a dance at the social hall in the evening.

Nephi.

A grand jubilee of the school children of the county was held in this city on the 24th. The meeting-house was decorated with grape vines and flowers.

We had three choirs—that of Bro. Evans, and the Sunday School choirs of this place and Levan, also a string band led by C. H. Sperry, and a brass band led by C. Hudson.

Mrs. C. Bigler, John T. Chase, and Misses Bigler, P. Pickston, Garrett, Borrowman, and Keinke, R. Pay and John W. Shephard gave recitations.

Mrs. M. A. Andrews and Miss L. Evans and two sisters sang songs. There was a solo by Joseph Dorton, Gustave Henroid accompanying on the organ. Several anthems, &c., were sung by the juveniles under the superintendence of Bro. Evans. A dialogue was read by Miss Bigler and Miss Ord. Seth Olinton delivered a speech on the training of children in the right way. The choir sang, "The Jubilee."

In the afternoon the children marched in procession from the meeting-house to the city hall, where they enjoyed themselves in dancing, and the adults enjoyed the same privilege in the evening.

Samuel Pitchford, Superintendent of the Schools.

SILAS L. JACKSON.

Henneperville.

The report of firearms announced the dawn of the Twenty-fourth.

During the forenoon there were horse-racing, mule-racing and foot-racing, which afforded much amusement.

At one o'clock a free dinner was prepared in the meeting-house, of which from 175 to 200 persons partook. Much praise was due to those who subscribed beef, mutton, vegetables and many other things to make it an agreeable time for everybody who wished to participate.

After dinner the children participated in the dance, singing and other amusements followed till six o'clock.

At eight a dance commenced for adults.

PHILIP PASKETT.

Mount Pleasant.

At break of day the inhabitants were aroused by the firing of homemade cannon under the direction of Captain John Tidwell, and the raising of the mammoth flag on our new and handsome flagstaff, erected at the cost of one hundred dollars.

A procession was formed, which marched through the principal streets of the city, and returned and was seated in the bowery at ten o'clock. Speeches suitable to the occasion were delivered by Elders David Candland, C. H. Wheeler,

E. Cliff, Dr. Scovill, and Bishop W. S. Seely, interspersed with singing by the juveniles, and comic and sentimental songs by others.

In the afternoon, the people met and enjoyed a grand jubilee, given by the children of the Sunday school, under the direction of Superintendent John Tidwell and Professor John Hasler, seconded by short and appropriate speeches, sentiments, toasts, etc., after which the children enjoyed themselves in the dance until dark, the adults meeting at eight o'clock, for the same purpose in the large dancing hall.

The celebration of the 24th was very generally entered into by the people of this town and vicinity, notwithstanding the excessive heat. There was a foot race between Jens Aagard and Peter Loft, the former eighty-three and the latter seventy-eight years old, distance fifty yards. They ran twice, and the judges could not decide which was the winner, so they divided the prize between them.

Some transient men had too much of the "forty-rod" and they were on the war path with each other, but the constable took care of them. Otherwise, the best of order prevailed during the entire day.

James Woodward, Esq., delivered an eloquent oration, the Sunday School children sang some excellent pieces of music, the brass band was in attendance.

In the evening the dramatic association played to a large and appreciative audience, the "Drunkard's Warning." After the play there was a grand ball.

The 24th was celebrated by our citizens and school children in a very peaceable and agreeable manner. The day's proceedings were—firing of cannon, hoisting stars and stripes, music by the brass band, under the leadership of Bro. Hans Hansen.

At 9 o'clock a. m. there was a procession of citizens and school children, under the direction of the marshal of the day, A. O. Smith, and Sunday school teachers through the principal streets from and to the bowery, when the audience were entertained by music from the brass band, singing by the public and Sunday school choirs, prayer by the chaplain, Father Thomas Howarth, oration by Charles Kemp, toasts, sentiments, songs, martial music, &c.

In the afternoon there were horse and foot races and other amusements and a dance for the juveniles, and in the evening a grand ball for the citizens.

Milton.

After salute of fire arms and raising of flags, at eight o'clock, there was an imitation emigration, representing the Pioneers, started for Weber city, four miles distant, and returning to Milton at 12.

At one o'clock a picnic dinner at the schoolhouse.

At two o'clock a meeting commenced, when an oration was given by the orator, T. J. Thurston, a national song and other singing by the choir, speeches, songs and recitations by several brethren and sisters.

At five o'clock a dance for the children commenced, and closed at seven. At eight a dance for the people in general, the winding up scene of the day.

Brigham.

The Sabbath schools and many citizens from the different parts of Box Elder county assembled at Brigham City. The schools numbering upwards of 800 scholars met at the southern part of the city, and were escorted to the large bowery, recently erected west of the Court House, by the brass and martial bands of this city. At 10 a. m. the services commenced, consisting of singing by the Sabbath schools the pieces composed for the Jubilee, music by the bands, speeches by the superintendent of Sabbath schools, Prest. Lorenzo Snow and others.

In the afternoon various games were indulged in by the youths of both sexes, and in the evening they had the choice of either participating in the dance, or witnessing the performance of "Temptation" and "Handy Andy" at the Court House. The day passed off pleasantly, and, as was remarked by some of the speakers, "many felt like shouting for joy," that the day had come when such vast assemblies of the "children of the Saints" could meet together.

JAMES J. CHANDLER.

Goshen.

We celebrated the 24th with earnestness. At day-break a salute from the minute men, and music from Capt. Okleberry's martial band. At sunrise the stars and stripes were raised.

At ten o'clock the people assembled at the schoolhouse. The jubilee commenced about half past ten o'clock by the Sunday school choir, led by James H. Jenkins. The songs were selected from the Juvenile Instructor and the Charm. There were an oration by G. B. Higginson, speeches by Bishop Wm. Price, John Rouse, and Robt. Till; an address by Master Charles Hanson, with toasts, songs and pieces from some of the teachers and children.

In the afternoon the children enjoyed themselves in the dance. There was also a well attended dance in the evening for adults, the proceeds for the benefit of the Sunday school.

Bloomington.

At sunrise this morning silence was broken by a volley of twenty-four guns.

The people assembled at the schoolhouse at nine o'clock a. m., formed a procession, and marched to martial music through the principal streets then back to the schoolhouse in the following manner—twelve fathers of Israel, twelve mothers of Israel, twelve daughters of Zion dressed in white, and twelve sons of Zion, the citizens and Sunday school children following in line.

The services consisted of an oration by James H. Hart, George Osmond read an address in behalf of the daughters of Zion, John Walker spoke in behalf of the fathers of Israel, Christian Madsen in behalf of the sons of Zion, Sister Jarvis in behalf of the mothers of Israel. A number of toasts were given.

At two o'clock all were seated at table, spread with viands, including strawberries, sugar, and cream.

At four o'clock the dance opened for the small children, and in the evening for larger children and parents.

All was joy, peace, and unity. The whole was gotten up under the auspices of the Relief Society.

WM. HULME, Marshal.
H. C. PATTEN, Chaplain.

Webster, Wasatch County.

In the morning at sunrise a salute of musketry was fired, followed by music from the martial band, and the hoisting of flags throughout the city. The band drove through the principal streets, discoursing lively strains of music.

At half-past nine o'clock, the people having convened, the Sunday school children sang "The Opening Lay" (Welcome, Welcome, &c.), "O Lord, Accept our Jubilee," "All Hail, my Sabbath School mates, upon this our Festal Day," "Zion is Growing," interspersed with music from the string and martial bands.

Richard Sessions, one of the old Mormon Battalion, made a short speech. Thos. H. Giles delivered a brief oration. John Harvey gave brief account of the pioneers. John Gallagher and John Gordon briefly addressed the assembly.

The children also sang, "Old and Young are here Assembled, who Attend the Sabbath School," "Tis Our Own Sunday School," "Accept the Tribute of Our Hearts," "The Children of the Saints," "Thanks for the Sabbath School," "Hail to the Day," "The World's Jubilee," "The Little Brown Church in the Vale," and "The Beautiful River."

Committee of Arrangements—Bro. J. Gallagher, who is also the superintendent of the Sabbath school, A. Fortie, W. Carroll and Robert Lindsay, G. W. Clyde Marshal of the Day; Henry McMullin, senr., Chaplain.

Sister Ann Harvey was also very active in teaching the children to sing.

In the afternoon the children enjoyed themselves in the dance until six p. m.

In the evening all who wished stepped to the music of some lively tunes. All was peace, no disturbance to mar our enjoyment.

Parowan.

In the morning the usual amount of firing of cannon, musketry, &c., was attended to.

At half past eight o'clock, a procession a quarter of a mile long was formed, and marched through the principal streets to the meeting house, under the direction of Samuel Orton, Marshal of the Day. The morning service was performed by the children of the Sunday school jubilee, under the direction of Lars Mortensen, leader of our Sunday school choir. The singing of the children was excellent. To see the children seated in tiers, full of animation, looking most beautiful and bright, and singing with such spirit, fairly thrilled the heart with transports of delight. The jubilee was interspersed with remarks from Hon. Jesse N. Smith, Edward Dalton and Prest. W. H. Dame.

The children had a dance at 2 p. m., the adults at half past seven in the evening. All passed off in general peace and good will, but the jubilee was the great theme of the day.
