

A PARISIAN TAILOR-MADE MODEL.

An unusually good example of the dresser tailormade is seen in this imported Parisian model of a lightweight beige cloth with corded puffings of a similar colored silk for trimming. The short tunic has a flat cape effect over the shoulders, outlined with the puffing, and the very bouffant sleeve is set in low down on the arm. The fronts are pleated into the shoulder-seam and hang full over the crush of silk. The skirt is in tunic effect, the upper portion pleated into the waistband and the pleats stitched down over the curve of the hip, and heavily pressed, to hold the shape. The underskirt is pleated in similar fashion, measuring fully eight yards around the hem. A little lingerie blouse is worn beneath the coat, and a hat of white maline, with white plumes, completes the costume.

CLUB CHAT.

The notable event in club circles for the coming week will be the special meeting of the Daughters of Utah Pioneers, held in honor of the birthday anniversary, which occurs only in the leap years. It will take place at the Bee Hive house at 3:30 o'clock p. m., a half hour's informal reception preceding the program which will begin at 4 o'clock.

The meeting of the Utah Woman's Press club tonight will be a special one, also, in honor of the near birthday anniversary of Mrs. E. B. Wells, who is its founder. The club meets with Mrs. Maria Francis, 333 Second street, at 7:30 o'clock p. m.

Two notable "town" club celebrations took place this week, one on Monday in Park City where the members commemorated the organization of the Athenaeum, and the other on Tuesday at Ogden, when the Agila also celebrated its birthday. Several Salt Lake women attended both affairs and were present at the luncheons given respectively by Mrs. M. F. Allen of Park City and Mrs. Coulter of Ogden, preceding the meetings.

The regular meeting of the Unity was held this week on Friday evening instead of Monday, as usual, owing to Washington's birthday. Lloyd Porter read a paper on "Charles V. and the Reformation," Miss Mariza Clay, a paper on "The Thirty Years' War," and the musical part of the program, which was from Handel, was furnished by Mrs. Agnes Osborne and Miss Agatha Berkholz.

The Ladies' Literary club held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The day was devoted to the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, and addresses made by Fisher S. Harris and Mrs. C. E. Allen. Mr. Harris spoke on Abraham Lincoln and Mrs. Allen reviewed the work accomplished by the D. A. R. throughout the country. The music was of a patriotic order.

Miss Lowe, president of the Woman's National alliance of the American Unitarian association, is expected in Salt Lake within the next few weeks.

The Home Protective league met with Mrs. Clarence E. Allen, 364 east First south, on Monday, Feb. 22, at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Byron Cummings read a paper on "The Development of the Child."

The meeting of the Cleofan was held Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. Charles Knatt, 319 Fourth street. "The School of Grotto" was the topic of the day and was given by Mrs. Culmer.

Ogden, Feb. 23.

A more notable or entertaining club meeting was never held in Ogden than that of Tuesday last in the beautiful home of Mrs. Chester E. Coulter, ex-president of the Utah Federation of Women's clubs.

Present as guests of honor were Mrs. C. S. Kinney, the present, splendidly equipped president of the federation, and Mrs. Emmeline B. Wells.

Three distinct types of educated womanhood were represented by these three, as were the north, the south and the west, but of these three the western woman was the "conquering." Other guests of Agila on this occasion were the Federated clubs of Ogden, and the presidents of other clubs not included in this work. Club colors served their purpose everywhere and more especially in the pretty decorations of the home. Flowers lent an added charm and, as the bow of Miss Webster's violin evolved sweet tones in graceful rhythm to the accompaniment by Mrs. Rushmer, the time seemed most ideal for a literary treat.

First on the program was Mrs. Kinney, who gave a very instructive and entertaining review of woman's work in the Utah Federation. In well chosen words she forecast the future which eventually shall supply the present needs. Her audience felt impressed that under her conscientious leadership great good must certainly ensue.

Next to speak was Mrs. W. W. Wells, who gave the clubs the benefit of a well rounded, womanly experience, so strong, so quaint and tender as to fascinate her hearers. As a member of the National Council of Women, who with the International Council, numbers nearly two million of united women. She gave an almost startling idea of its range and magnitude. In company with four other representative women of Utah, she will attend next summer's congress in Berlin.

Then the yearly address of Rev. J. E. Carver followed—classical to the core, but given with such easy grace as to be readily understood. "The Formative Period in English Literature" was his theme. He spoke of early bards of the British Isles—of Ossian and Chaucer—and by illustrations of beautiful images of thought traced many of Milton's verses to their primitive source of Chaucer. He told how the works of Ossian, the earliest Irish bard, had been companions of the world's deepest students and the greatest men of war. The status of the Republicity Bureau was defined by the chairman, Mrs. A. W. Putnam, in four direct and simple points.

1. It is a repository of good ideas.

2. It is not only the distributing center of good ideas, but a preserver of the same.

3. It is the impersonal "Mrs. Wiggs" of our own "cabbage patch."

4. It has a splendid corps of clever club women on its lecture list, namely Mesdames Ewing, Reed, Lightheart, Gorham, Calne, Alder and others.

Then she announced that Mrs. A. C. Ewing of Salt Lake City has recently consented to respond to calls for talks on art, and trust that this lady who has her subject well in hand, will soon receive a united call from Ogden.

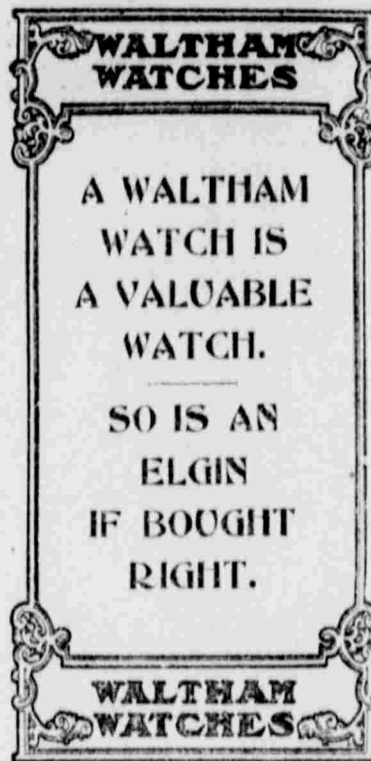

These addresses were interspersed with exquisite vocal solos by Mrs. Maude Dee Porter, accompanied by Miss Dee, and Mrs. P. N. Hesse, who was accompanied by Mrs. Rushmer.

The meeting was gracefully presided over by Mrs. Edward Bichsel, president of the club. Then came the social hour when the audience hosted, assisted by Mesdames Paine and Bedford, who excelled in knowing how to "do things" exactly right, placed before her fifty guests refreshments most inviting.

And now—a little secret to you few, only a very few—this acrobatic who loves to soar in feathery flights of fancy free was, O so amazed, to find that some very, very brainy women enjoy a jolly eat!

Workingman's solid nickle dust proof Elgin or Waltham watch, fully guaranteed, $7.50.

There is never a time when the best goods for the least money cannot be found in our store. Few people are aware of the fact that reliable Watches can be bought at prices here quoted, but our guarantee goes with every timepiece, and the values given cannot be bettered by any house in America.

The fobs are of the latest designs in copper, and silver and gold filled combinations.

Our Watch business is not fully recognized unless the watch repairing department is mentioned. We repair, adjust and regulate watch movements and repair and refinish watch cases.—No job too simple or too complicated for our attention. We are Watch Inspectors for the Railroads and our workmen are here to serve our patrons with the greatest care.

We have not the cheapest repair shop in the West because we have the best.

We pay express both ways on watches sent us from the country for repairs.

Phone 65 for the correct time.

Any mail order for watches here advertised will be filled promptly.

Any mail order for watches here advertised will be filled promptly.

They were artistically arranged as decorations. A most excellent program, consisting of music, and literary numbers was rendered. Mrs. C. S. Kinney, president of the state fed. of Salt Lake, president of the state fed. of Women's clubs; Mrs. Emmeline B. Wells, also of Salt Lake, and Mrs. Jennie Putnam of Ogden, each spoke on the worth of the clubs and their sphere in the literary and social world. One of the interesting parts of the afternoon's program was an address by Rev. J. E. Carver on "The Formative Period in Early English Literature." The literary program was interspersed with vocal solos by Mrs. Maude Dee Porter and Mrs. F. N. Hesse, Mrs. Coulter is a very charming hostess.

The ball given Tuesday night by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen at Dugan's hall was one of the social successes of the season. It was largely attended by the members of the local order and their friends and about 40 couples came from Salt Lake City and Evanston to join in the evening's pleasures. Refreshments were served.

Miss Suele Hull returned to her home in Salt Lake after a pleasant visit with friends in Ogden.

A pretty home wedding occurred Wednesday evening at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. R. E. Adams, on Lincoln avenue, when Miss Clara M. Sackett and Ward E. Sackett were united in wedlock. Promptly at 8 o'clock Mildred Adams, niece of the bride, played a beautiful wedding march and the bridal party entered the prettily decorated parlors. The bride and groom took their places beneath a beautiful floral arch, and Rev. E. J. Carver of the Congregational church pronounced them man and wife. Miss Frankie Baker and John Cole acted respectively as bridesmaid and best man.

The bride was attired in a pretty white gown of mousseline de soie, trimmed with real lace, and her attendant wore a cream gown. The house was prettily decorated with carnations, lilies, smilax, ferns and potted plants.

The contracting parties are both well and favorably known in Ogden. The bride has been employed as stenographer at Wright & Son's store and the groom is for a number of years at W.
