

Music and Musicians

THE Tabernacle organ recital season for the season of 1904 ended last evening, with a special recital for the benefit of the conference visitors, a treat that was much appreciated by them. This is the third successive season of these recitals, and as each season has proven more entertaining than the previous one, it may not be too much to look forward to the time when organ recitals shall become a daily feature in the local life. Last year, the Tabernacle recitals were given twice a week, with semi-occasional specials between times. But this year, the number was increased to three each week, with so many special recitals that the season's average will come pretty near being one for each day. These extra occasions were due to the travel of tourists through this city to and from the Pacific coast, which has been unusually busy owing to the various national conventions and meetings held in Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles. These throngs from all over the United States and Canada have been treated to special organ recitals in the Tabernacle through the courtesy of the First presidency of the Church. Tourists passing through Salt Lake City anxious to hear the Tabernacle organ which is now recognized in the musical world as being in the front rank of the great instruments of Christendom. The church authorities, with that hospitable spirit which has always characterized this community, have been ever ready to extend every facility in the way of musical entertainment in the Tabernacle. It is only one instance has an improper advantage been taken of this, and such prominence was given to it in the press that the disreputable has not been and is not likely to be repeated.

The $15,000 expended in rebuilding the Tabernacle organ has brought gratifying results. The musical tastes of the local public have been raised to a high standard, and good music is now more appreciated than ever before, so that even a severely classical program is warmly applauded. Moreover, the reputation of the organ has been carried all over the continent by delighted tourists, and columns in hundreds of papers have described the instrument in more or less detail. It may be safely doubted if there is an organ in the country as well known as the Tabernacle organ and photographs of it are scattered far and wide. In fact, of the great European organs, those in St. Paul's cathedral and Prince Albert Hall in London, St. George's Hall in Liverpool, the Church of St. Sulpice in Paris, the Musée Cluny, and Sydney organ are as little known. The Salt Lake people, irrespective of religious affiliations, are proud of the Tabernacle organ, and the local musical public are quite glad that the church authorities will do their way best to approving the suggestions from prominent musicians, for the further enlargement of the instrument, which will surely make it without a peer in all the earth. The proposed changes involve the addition of an echo organ of eight stops, an increase of six stops in the present instrument, a rearrangement of the wind pressures with a view to more effective and satisfactory work, a radical change in the "swell" construction, giving more varied and striking effects in variations of volume, the addition of a cornet, a sine, and perhaps drums and installation of a second consola, or organ, in the rear gallery. This is greatly aid the performer in interpreting his score.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage. Then its full majesty manifested in the concert overture, the second "string" number was in response to an encore for "Annie Laurie," and in the Kinder number, the vox humana was exhibited to excellent advantage.

In the 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

H. S. Daynes of the Daynes & Romm Music company, has returned after a three weeks business trip to Chicago.

Miss Emma Ramsey begins her winter concerts season later in the month, and will give recitals in towns within a radius of Salt Lake, so that she can keep her studio open, and attend to her pupils here.

Prof. Evan Stephens is able to be out, but he is quite weak from the effects of his sickness, and it will be some time before he is entirely well.

Mrs. Martha Royle King is organizing Ladies Choral society. She has 25 voices to begin with, and proposes to increase this number to 100 members. When the society is full, some pretentious works can be given.

The first bass clarinet, low pitch, ever used in this city, reached here Thursday afternoon, from Chicago. It was found with some difficulty, as the bass clarinets in stock are of the high pitch, and some three or four weeks have been consumed in trying to find the instrument. The clarinet will be played by Mr. Nichols of the State band. It will be used in the Symphony orchestra later on, when Mr. Nichols who is playing second violin in that organization, can yield his violin chair to some new man and play the clarinet there. However, in the band he can play it at any time.

The Unity society will give an entertainment in Unity hall next Monday night, and the musical program will include vocal numbers by Mrs. Martha Royle King and Miss Rena Pedersen.

Prof. Pedersen has organized two military bands at All Hallows college, which he will later combine in one organization of 25 pieces. He organized a college orchestra Thursday evening of 15 pieces, and is well pleased with the musical progress of the boys.

The first prospectus and catalogue of the Utah School of Music has just been issued from the presses of the Deseret News, and is published in an attractive

SHARPS AND FLATS.

Lemara, the well known composer of the antediluvian "To My Wife," will resign his post of organist at the Carnegie library, Pittsburgh, and return to England permanently, in January.

The Germans are faithful to their singers. Herman Winkelmann, who was the first Parsifal, and who has been connected with the opera in Vienna since 1883, still sings there. But that is nothing compared with the case of Wilhelm Eichberger, who died on Aug. 20. He had been connected with the opera ever since 1883-90 years.

Clarence Eddy, the eminent organist, will make a tour of the United States and Canada under the direction of London F. Charlton. Mr. Eddy has been enthusiastically received by the musical public of Berlin, Vienna, Paris and Rome, and an idea of his popularity in America may be gained from the fact that he had given more than 100 recitals during a single season.

Mme. Melba has had many evidences of the interest taken by English singers in the prizes she has recently offered for the best singing of an English ballad by a soprano or contralto. These prizes amount to £25 each, and are to be offered for five successive years. The action of Mme. Melba in offering such subjects, in that land of the far east, song is the greatest utterance of popular feeling. Just now the boys and girls sing and women in the modern "light of day" are singing in the rising sun. "The eagle" says a late song, "flies far, but the rising sun illuminates the world." To appreciate these lyrics one must imagine a group of boys and girls in the bright-hued colors of the east, intoning "Stay, stay, stay till the sword breaks." "Death before surrender" is the refrain of another, while a third cries: "Forward, forward, heroes of Japan. The flag of the rising sun embodies our hopes. Peace is hidden in the sword, peace is in the smoke of the gun."

It is said that Paderewski will come to this country for a recital tour after his present Australian campaign. The approximate time for the tour is December, and beyond that nothing has been definitely decided. Paderewski's presence would be especially interesting this season, as it would afford opportunities for comparisons with other giants of the key board—such as Dr. Alpert, Dr. Pachmann, D. A. Mata and Josef Hoffmann.

It is reported that the ballet is here to be a prominent feature at the Berlin 1904 Opera. Emperor William recently ordered the revival of Delibes' "Lac des Cygnes," and has sent his son to his interest as to attend one of the rehearsals. He expresses himself as delighted, and has ordered the devoting of more attention to this form of art. The result will be the production of a number of the best ballets by the musical public of Berlin, Vienna, Paris and Rome, and an idea of his popularity in America may be gained from the fact that he had given more than 100 recitals during a single season.

The directors of the May festival in Cincinnati are endeavoring to induce Sir Edward Elgar, the most conspicuous and gifted of English composers, to come to this country in 1905 and to conduct at the festival some one or more of his great choral works. Edwin W. Glover, the director of the festival chorus, has just returned from Europe, and being commissioned to confer with the musicians.

and the faculty are as follows: Piano, Prof. McClellan; Mr. Cannon, Mrs. E. Perkins; vocal, Miss Agatha Berkholz, Miss Emma Ramsey, Mr. Dougall, violin, Willard Dougall, organ, Prof. McClellan, Tracy Cannon, musical form, counterpart, orchestration and advanced harmony, Prof. McClellan; harmony, Tracy Cannon; sight reading, Miss Agatha Berkholz; ensemble playing, chamber music, Willard Dougall; history of music, Mr. Dougall; physiology of the voice, Dr. L. W. Snow; Teacher of Vocal Music, The Old Italian School; The G.A.T.A. Method; Studio, Clayton Music Store, 199 Main St.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage. Then its full majesty manifested in the concert overture, the second "string" number was in response to an encore for "Annie Laurie," and in the Kinder number, the vox humana was exhibited to excellent advantage.

In the 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general, the orchestral qualities of the instrument never approached to better advantage.

The 18th ward hall tonight will be given the final presentation of the orchestra by Miss Margaret Whitney entitled "The Countess." The proceeds will go to the benefit of the 18th ward poor fund.

A small organ recital of yesterday afternoon, which was the final of the season, proved a rare treat for the Conference visitors, for so well it was given. The great organs of the Tabernacle were over quarters full. The program included the Mignon gavotte, the Kinderfreude, an idyl by Faubles, "Annie Laurie," "Nearer My God to Thee," for "strings only," with variations, and the famous concert overture by Faubles. In the first number, the unique first clarinet stop of the organ was shown off with much effect. In general,