

ROOSEVELT, FEARLESS AND ABLE.

Glimpse of the Man Who Has Become the Nation's Chief Executive—Proud He is an American—Won Fame and Honor by Hard, Honest Endeavor.

PRESIDENT THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

New York special to the Chicago Record Herald—Theodore Roosevelt, Vice President of the United States, and President in the event of the death of President McKinley, was born in this city, October 27, 1857. He will be 41 years old this coming October. He has been before the public eye since 1881, when he first turned his eyes toward the far West to seek new health and fortune in the cattle lands of northwestern Dakota.

He looks younger than 40. He is athletic. His eyes are blue and clear, his hand cordial in greeting, and his teeth, which his manner of speech habitually discloses, are remarkably regular and white. He is a studious and zealous, he scorns a lie and double-dealing, he is too frank to be a politician and too strong in the popular mind to be shelved by party combinations.

IS A SELF-MADE MAN.

What he is owes to himself. His ancestry made New York City history. It was Dutch and French-Huguenot. It was God-fearing and laborious. It had opinions and it clung to them. The Vice President inherited all the family traits. At 20 he was almost an invalid. Close application to his studies in Columbia and Harvard had still further weakened him. He was a heavy reader of books, a patient student, a quick observer.

He tried a plunge into New York politics. In his city district was a Republican machine combination that showed no disposition to recognize his desire to become a member of the legislature. He fought the machine and defeated it.

He went to Albany in 1881, nationally obscure, but indomitable. In three years he put through the state's civil service act and an act regulating primary elections. Party machine leaders frowned upon him, but he went on his way. That has always been his method.

LIVED WITH COWBOYS.

In 1884 he appeared before the nation. He was a delegate to the national convention of that year. His health troubled him and he sought a new life at Chimney Butte, Dak., where he grazed cattle and led the life of a cowboy. He became known from Medora to Dickinson as the boldest and bravest cattleman in the region. He did what the men did. He lived as they lived. He commanded the respect even of the desperadoes. His lungs expanded, his body developed and he gained a reserve of health that seems to have grown every year since.

FAITHFUL TO DUTY.

Once at Washington, he commenced an enforcement of the law of the most vigorous kind. He made himself disliked among the spoilsmen of both parties, but he held to the line of his duty. He took the law as he found it, lived true to his oath of office and made the measure respected in many quarters where it had been sneered at before.

ORGANIZED A REGIMENT.

When war became a certainty, Mr. Roosevelt resigned his position in the navy department, and, with General Leonard Wood, organized the first Volunteer Cavalry, better known as the Rough Riders. General Wood was colonel of this regiment and Mr. Roosevelt lieutenant colonel. The members of the regiment came from the first families in the East, from wherever good horsemen, daring men and good shots could be secured.

The regiment was the most unique of its kind ever organized, and was much scoffed at in the beginning. Before it had been two days in Cuba the wisdom of its organization was plainly seen. The men were fitted for any kind of campaigning. Their colors and their equipment were of the best. They took the regiment practically foraged itself, and was first in the field and first to be baptized with fire. At Las Guasimas, Kettle Hill and San Juan it gave up its bravest and best and went on to victory.

Mr. Roosevelt was its colonel before the end of the war, and pronounced by the foreign military attachés who observed his conduct in the field as one of the first military officers of the day. He was in Santiago at the surrender, brought his regiment back to the United States and disbanded it at Montauk Point in the fall of 1898. It contributed among the volunteer troops more to the success of the American arms in Cuba than any other regiment formed.

ELECTED AS GOVERNOR.

The colonel became governor of New York immediately after his return to this country. As governor he stood for radical taxation legislation and state control of the trusts. His term was marked by a pronounced fight on the part against the New York Republican machine. He did not seek the vice presidential nomination last year, but had it forced upon him, and he accepted at the last moment. During the campaign he made a trip of over 21,000 miles, speaking for the ticket, and was received everywhere with popular acclaim. Since his inauguration he has presided over one extra session of the Senate, and made several trips throughout the country attending public functions. He was in Chicago within the last ten days as the guest of Governor Yates.

As to the real Theodore Roosevelt, authentic things that he has said give ample revelation as to what manner of a character he will bring to the presidency. On "Americanism" in an interview in 1893 he said:

"I naturally disapprove of the half-conscious spread-eagle Americanism which is ever exerting itself at the wrong moments. I dislike it, of course, when it is put forward as a plea to excuse moral shortcomings of a kind usually connected with public affairs. Nevertheless, in spite of this abuse, I am sure that no man can well play his part in our life who is not honestly American in heart, belief and instinct."

CITES AN IDEAL.

"If one wishes to find a typical American one may consider Francis Parkman. He always appealed to my admiration, because he made his life work largely of the description of that frontier warfare between our backwoodsmen and their foes which has been of such incalculable importance in our land's history."

In one of his published works he says: "In speaking to my own countrymen there is one point which I wish to lay especial stress on, that is, the necessity for a feeling of broad, radical and intense Americanism. If good work is to be done in any direction, above all, the one essential for success in every political movement which is to do lasting good is that our citizens should act as Americans, not as Americans with a prefix and qualification—not as Irish-Americans, German-Americans, native Americans—but as Americans pure and simple."

HYPHENATED AMERICANS.

"It is an outrage for a man to drag foreign politics into our contests and vote as an Irishman or German or other foreigner, as the case may be, and there is no worse citizen than the professional Irish dynamiter or German anarchist, because of his attitude toward our social and political life, not to mention his efforts to embrace us with foreign powers. But it is no less an outrage to discriminate against one who has become an American in good faith, merely because of his creed or birthplace."

Of caste he has written: "As for the upper social world, the fashionable world, it is much as it was when portrayed in the 'Potiphar Papers,' save that modern society has shifted the shine at which it rages against but sincere homage from Paris to London. Perhaps it is rather better, for it is less provincial and a trifle more American. But a would-be upper class based mainly on wealth is the worst of all exceptions and not the rule for a man to be of any real account in the national life, whether as a politician, a literary man, or otherwise, is of necessity radically defective and of little moment."

HAS WRITTEN MUCH.

These utterances reveal the man. He has written much. The titles of some of his best works are: "Life of Thomas Benton," "Life of Gouverneur Morris," "Ranch Life and the Hunting Trail," "The Winning of the West," "History of New York City," "Essays on Practical Politics," "The Wilderness Hunter," "Hero Tales from American History," "Naval War of 1812."

He is an intimate of Jacob Rits, the tenement slum reformer of this city; of Frederick Hols, secretary at the Hague conference, and of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. His habits are simple, his life most strenuous. He does not know the meaning of the word "idle" or of "inappetition." He has often been called a "typical American." The phrase fits him.

Mrs. McKinley Rested Easily.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 14.—Dr. Washburn came from the house at 8:40. He said that Mrs. McKinley had rested well during the night and was feeling quite strong. She bears up wonderfully well in her grief and some of the apprehension as to her passing away. The cabinet will meet at 10 o'clock to discuss the arrangements for the funeral. The autopsy on the body of the President will take place at 11 o'clock.

Gov. Nash Issues Proclamation.

Columbus, O., Sept. 14.—Col. James Kilbourn, Democratic candidate for the governorship of Ohio, when notified of the death of the President, made a statement in which he said: "His most determined political opponents recognize the most lovable personal traits of his character, and if he had any enemies the event of the past week must have disarmed them. Living and dying his private life has been without reproach, and a shining example to his countrymen."

Gov. Nash has issued a proclamation setting forth the virtues of President McKinley.

MR. CLEVELAND'S STATEMENT.

News of President's Death More Cruel Because People EXPECTED HIS RECOVERY.

It is Hard at Such a Time to Patiently Await the Unfolding of the Purpose of God.

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 14.—When interviewed by the Associated Press correspondent, who conveyed to him the first news of Mr. McKinley's death, Ex-President Grover Cleveland at his home made the following statement: "This is dreadful news and more cruel because it strikes down the confident and comforting expectation which all our people were encouraged to entertain that their President would be saved from death. In the afflictive gloom surrounding this third presidential murder within the memory of men not yet old, we can scarcely keep out of mind a feeling of stunning amazement that in free America, blessed with a government consecrated to popular welfare and contentment, the danger of assassination should ever encompass the faithful discharge of the highest official duty. It is hard at such a time as this to calmly and patiently await the unfolding of the purpose of God."

SEEKING LIFE OF ROOSEVELT.

A Berlin, N. H., Man Declares His Purpose to Kill Him.

GOT TICKET TO NEW YORK

Could Not Get One to Washington—He is a Foreigner—Police on the Lookout.

Berlin, N. H., Sept. 13.—Learning that a man who had left here for New York had declared that he was on his way to Washington to kill Vice President Roosevelt, Chief of Police Youngell has telegraphed the chief of police of New York to look out for him. The man was a foreigner. He tried to buy a ticket to Washington, but could not do so, and bought one for New York.

New York, Sept. 13.—Capt. Titus, chief of detective of this city, said he had received a dispatch from the chief of police at Berlin giving the same information as that contained in the foregoing dispatch from Berlin.

The dispatch described the man as being five feet six inches tall, smooth face, wearing a black sack coat and black derby hat. Capt. Titus said he had detailed men at all the railroad stations to watch for the man.

ANARCHIST PRISONERS.

Chief O'Neill of Chicago Says They Will be Held.

UNSAFE TO LET THEM GO.

There was a Meeting of the Red Caps in Buffalo as Late as September 2nd.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—"This settles it," said Chief of Police O'Neill when informed of the President's death.

"We will hold every anarchist prisoner we have. No judge will release them, and we will keep them as long as we choose. We have no evidence of a conspiracy now but its details must be ferreted out and if we find one we will not be compelled to hunt for any of the prisoners we have now and who might have been released tomorrow."

"Then, too, it is the best thing for them to remain where they are, for a time at least. What would Emma Goldman's life be worth on the streets? She would not live two minutes."

All night long dense crowds packed the streets in front of the newspaper offices. Men and women wearing with long standing sat on the sidewalks with their feet in the gutters, listening to the bulletins as they were called out through megaphones, or watching them as they were thrown on sheets. The crowd was as large when the last bulletin came as at 8 o'clock in the evening. The feeling was intense and the temper of the crowd, when it realized that the end of the world was near, was a little doubtful, that had any of the anarchists been released on habeas corpus proceedings today they would have been slaughtered on sight.

News received by Chief of Police O'Neill from Buffalo and substantiated by the unwilling testimony of Dr. Isaac Saylin and Emma Goldman, shows that there was a meeting of anarchists in Buffalo as late as September 2. This meeting was in the house of Mrs. Lane and was attended by Emma Goldman, Dr. Saylin, an anarchist from New York named Keplous, one from Cleveland named Norr, and a woman from Rochester, whose name has not yet been without reproach, and a shining example to his countrymen."

Gov. Nash has issued a proclamation setting forth the virtues of President McKinley.

Emma Goldman, when asked about the meeting in Buffalo on Sept. 2, said that it had no significance; that Dr. Saylin was one of her friends and had been very attentive during her sojourn at Buffalo. Dr. Saylin admitted his presence at the meeting in Buffalo, but said he had been there before Justice Prindle's arrest. He was confined in Harrison street station, and no one was allowed to see him on any pretext.

EMMA GOLDMAN SPIRITED AWAY.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Emma Goldman, who is looked up as the most important of the anarchists here, was spirited away from the woman's annex of the Harrison street police station early this morning when it was learned that the President was dead.

She was hastily put in a cab by two policemen. The police tried to keep the matter secret and denied it for some time. It was admitted this morning, however, but Capt. Mahoney refused to tell where the woman had been taken. Her removal, he said, was merely a precautionary measure and it was probable she would be soon brought back.
