Second South and Main. At this writing, 12 o'clock noon, the and newsboys have ever been witnessed in the history of the paper. The cohorts of street Arabs who make their living handling papers on the streets began assembling in front of the "News" office to get first places in the line, and by noon the throng had increased to such an extent, that with the small army of regular carriers of the "News," business in the circulation department threatened to come to an absolute standstill. In this emergency, a radical departure in the method of handling the papers was quickly determined upon. A big furniture van was pressed into ser vice, streamers bearing the words, "Christmas News," were pasted along its sides, and this traveling depot, will be loaded with papers, sent to the corner of Main and Second South streets, and the newsboys supplied from there the regular carriers of the paper start-ing out from the "News" office as usual. Another reason for this step Krantz and Emma Runswick.
