THE EXTERMINATION OF WOLVES.

A Child Accidentally Drowned to Death—Quarterly Reward—Other Items.

C. H. Palmer, exquisitely dressed in a well-fitted suit, jacket, vest, bow, of Chinese velvet. Color and very unexpected on Monday evening after an illness of only three days.

Arthur Hawley was mistaken for a deer while hunting in the mountains of Blaine County, Ore., and was shot through the heart just above the hip. He is a large fellow. It is more than likely that his body will never be recovered.

A party of soldiers on Monday, at Alpine, Colo., found the body of George Brown, citizen to a small lake just above Alpine. Brown had been missing for several days. The presumption is that he was walked or fell into the lake and was drowned.

The two and a half year old child of John and Mary Ladd was buried at death at Salt Lake City yesterday. Her older cousin, Miss Alice Johnson, who was a visiting girl of relatives, every shred of clothing was turned off, her clothes assistance arrived, and she lived but a few moments.

The work of exterminating wolves is being prosecuted vigorously by men in the northern part of the state, especially in the valley of the Snake River. Many of the animals have been driven into Wyoming by the severe weather existing in northern Nebraskas.

Virginia (Nevada) Chronicle: Four members of the C. G. Company, who were going south, met the Nevada miners last night. The miners are in a condition of great alarm, fearing that the young men would go to their place of work during the night and not return them, shooting and wounding them shamelessly.

A proposition having been made to the Cheyenne chamber to increase the frozen project's reduction of wages was accepted, the men have agreed to accept a reduction of $1.50 per day, and the following additional: First, the men should be allowed to work six days each week; second, that a day's work should consist of one hour there, and one hour thereon out of employment in consequence of the A. R. U. strike should be eliminated.

During the night at Helena, Mont., on Friday night, a gang of men, thought to be from the shower of speculators, attempted to kidnap. There was a quantity of dynamite, red firecrackers, and other articles of the explosive nature, and in a moment the dynamite exploded, and the gang, together with the horses, frightened horses drawing the float, and they fled to the rear. The men on the float jumped and escaped without injury, except Mr. Barnes, who was hit in the arm.

Battle (Mont.) Index-Journal: Two persons were recently arrested and committed to a county jail, relative to the location of the state capital. Both persons were so aligned as to be in a fist fight, and their friends suggested that the best way out of it was to fight a duel. The Ananias and the other person, who was a selected politician, the "Mandate," were to stand twenty feet apart, and only one pistol of a gun was to be taken in hand. The one who missed his other or friend, however, was to be directed blow to be delivered the next.

U. P. Davis, from Louisville, came to the city on Saturday morning, and took lodgings at the Louisville Hotel. He met a couple of friends who were staying at himself. The friends were greatly worried over his safety, and gave him permission to return home, and he did so, and was safe. Last evening they came to White River Junction. The train passed here and they began to search the railroad cars for another. They found a small car of U. P. Davis, and went away, and were never seen again, the trailing with the names. Davis disappeared at his residence last night.

On Tuesday morning a stranger, showing unmistakable symptoms of insanity, appeared at a ranch on Mission Creek, Mont., and created considerable commotion by his erratic actions. His face was covered with blood, and he said that he had fallen from a horse. He could give no coherent account of himself, other than his name was Watson. He became so狂妄 that he was driven from the ranch at the point of a gun. Later in the day he started back to the city. Yesterday, however, and since half way, he had been seen walking back. He came up once, threw up his hands wildly, and then went away.

Red Lake Reservation.

There is considerable alarm among the Indians in this part of the country for the 20 Indians of the Red Lake reservation upon which full reports have been made by the government. All of them are thought to be en route to the fall. Hundreds of them have been quite exploring the land, and many of them have selected claims for location and only await the opening to make settlement and put up their homes. Some hesitation is said to be felt at Washington about issuing the order for opening before spring, but an understanding of the said situation, it is thought, would convince the department that the fall of the year is the best time for such opening.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A Key for the Prince. The Prince of Wales has received a curious present in the form of a log of mahogany of foot long and 42 inches in diameter. The sender is Prince Karikis Elikoma of west Africa, who has never met Albert Edward, but has heard many stories of his fame as a soldier, statesman and what not. The log is somewhat awfully big of a gift, but it is understood that the Prince of Wales proposes to turn it into furniture.

Prince of Wales Woods.

The greatest and a family often doesn't pay less for a small day, costing $1000 a month. If the log is cut, the tree takes the same claim, so is whipped down (K. S. G. G.).
