Milk, in one respect, is unique. It is the only single article of food at present known that will sustain life for an indefinite time unaided. It contains the liquid and solid properties of animal nutrition in just the proportions required and in just the proportions required and in just the right arrangement. It is food for youth, for maturity, for declining years, and in the nursery at both ends of life.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Gone to Omaha.-Francis Cope, Esq., freight and passenger agent of the Utah Central Railroad, has gone to Omaha on Freight business.

Good Samaritan.-We learn from one of the presiding brethren in the Thirteenth Ward that one of the members of that locality has handed over three tone of coal to Bishop Atwood, to be distributed to the poor. The gift is all the more creditable from the fact that the denor is not particularly rich. Go thou and do likewise.

A Railroad Incident .- Yesterday morning, when the usual dividing up, siding and shunting of the U. C. freight train occurred at Sandy, a seca number of other cars. The result was a piling up and tumbling over, so that the track was blocked for some time, causing the morning passenger train to be delayed about forty minutes. Nobody was hurt.

PEARFUL ACCIDENT.

G. G. WRIGHT HAS THE BONE OF MIS LEG LAID RABE.

Two hundred thousand people are asked to contribute a nickel apiece to build a church in Texas. It should years of age, had been riding out in company with several youths of first performance of an engagement about his own age. They were all on is seldom the best. It is to be furabout his own age. They were all on ther taken, into consideration thouseback. In the evening young this altitude is particularly trying Wright returned home and put his horse in the stable. After eating supper he went to the depot to mail some letters. He was accompanied some letters. He was accompanied by Henry Higginbotham. Both were mounted on horseback. After returning from the railroad the two boys, rode out to Mound Fort and visited some friends. On their way out they met a man named James Bune, with a one-horse buggy. Young Wright says he turned his horse's head to the right, which was according to law. Bune turned his horse's head to the left, which he should not have done.

ahould not have done.

This action on the part of Bune brought the wheel of the vehicle in contact with Mr. Wright and his animal and the rider's left leg, tearanimal and the rider's left leg, tearing it in a most fearful manner. At the time of the collision Wright's horse was traveling on a lope and the other on a fast trot. Wright's horse received a terrible wound, cut. ting its breast lopen. The boy was thrown from the animal's back to a distance of itwenty feet. He was picked up and taken to the house of Mr. Chas. Chase. The parents were soon apprised of the accident and took out a vehicle and brought their son home.

Dr. P. L. Anderson was summoned at once. On examination he found, the wound on the leg, commencing near the articulation of the knee, extended to a little below the articulation of the ankle. It was twelve luches long and eight inches wide. The flesh was torn off tion of it got beyond the control of the train men and bounced against pletely bare. The doctor dressed
