The controversy over a diamond stud walued at $100 will be heard in the district court as an appeal was today taken from the judgment of the city court in which it was decided that Chief of Police Sheets was lawfully entitled to the possession of the diamond which was found by Fred Wood and. which was found by Fred Wood and, as he claimed, turned over to the chief for safe-keeping until its owner called for it. The diamond was found in a room on Dec. 20, 1965, by Mr. Wood, who was assisting police officers in a search for stolen property. The dia-mond was not part of the property they were looking for, so Mr. Wood claims that he turned it over to the police department for the purpose men-tioned above. As its owner never called for it, he claimed that the dia-mond belonged to him and brought called for it, he claimed that the day mond belonged to him and brought suit against Chief Sheets to recover it. Judge Whitaker decided the case in favor of the chief, so Mr. Wood ap-pealed to the district court.

form are not different from those of any well behaved person who possesses a tick-et of admission to any place of amuse-ment. Judge Sweetland rules that Buenzle, el-cluded because he was wearing a naval uniform. is in no different position legal-by from one who is excluded because he is not to excelude from one for any other uniform is in no different position legal-ly from one who is excluded because has is not in evening dress or for any other reason, though it may have been but the whim of the defendant. In other words, the judge said, the proprietors of a place of amusement are not under any oblige-tions to admit any person whom they may choose to exclude. Later suit was brought against the Newport Amusement associa-tion, proprietors of a data day pavilion at Newport, from which Buensle claimed he was excluded last September because ho was wearing a naval uniform. The man-agement tendered to lim the 25 cents he had paid for his ticked, but Buenzle im-mediately brought suit for damages. He was given financial support by naval of-ficers stationed at Newport, and Press-dent Roosevelt sent a check to help de-fray the expenses of prosecuting the case. The court holds also that the action is not properly one for damages. For the wrongful exclusion of the pla-tiff, but is an action for breach of contract because of the failure of the defendant to carry out the contract they made when they sold the ticket. This covers only the recovery of the admission price, and the expense incurred in attempting to obtain admission to the pavilion. On the breach of contract phase of the case the demurrers of the defendants are overruged and they are ordered to plead on or before April 20. John Gunderson Given Indeterminate St. Paul.
