

DESERET EVENING NEWS

Organ of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints

LORENZO SNOW, TRUSTEE-IN-TRUST

PUBLISHED EVERY EVENING (SUNDAYS EXCEPTED)

Corner of South Temple and 134th Temple Streets, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Charles W. Penrose, Editor; Horace G. Whitney, Business Manager

Subscription prices: One Year, $3.00; Six Months, $1.75; Three Months, $1.00; One Month, $0.35; Single Copies, 10c.

Eastern Office: 100 Times Building, New York City.

Correspondence and other reading matter for publication should be addressed to the Editor.

Address all business communications to THE DESERET NEWS, Salt Lake City, Utah.

BALT LAKE CITY, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1901.

CONFERENCE NOTICE

The Seventy-first Annual Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will convene in the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, on Friday, April 5, at 10 a. m.

LORENZO SNOW, GEORGE Q. CANNON, JOSEPH F. SMITH, First Presidency.

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION CONFERENCE

The semi-annual conference of the Deseret Sunday School Union will convene Sunday, April 7th, 1901, at 7 p. m., in the Tabernacle.

GEORGE Q. CANNON, GEORGE REYNOLDS, General Superintendency.

HORACE S. ENSIGN, General Secretary.

PRESIDENT SNOW'S BIRTHDAY

Today President Lorenzo Snow reached the advanced age of eighty-seven years.

He is of Puritan descent. He received an academic education at Ravenna, Ohio, and when twenty-one years of age, entered Oberlin college.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

GEORGE Q. CANNON, GEORGE REYNOLDS, General Superintendency.

HORACE S. ENSIGN, General Secretary.

DOMICIDE OR DOMICULTURE

Mr. Booth Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

Mr. Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

Mr. Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

Mr. Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

Mr. Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

Mr. Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

Mr. Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

Mr. Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

Mr. Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

Mr. Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

Mr. Tucker, commander of the American Salvation army, has coined the two new words that form this caption.

With "domicide" he means the destruction of the family as a national unit; with "domiculture" he means the preservation of the family.

But this may need some further explanation. Mr. Tucker maintains that there are about five million laborers in this country, unable to find continuous remunerative work.

which are given in "The Palestine Tourist" the preparation of which his sister Eliza R. Snow, Zion's poetess, assisted. He was principal of the High School in this city and the head of the Polygraphical association, which he organized.

President Snow was a victim of the "segregation" scheme, by which he was sentenced to three terms of imprisonment of six months, and a fine of $300 each infraction, for living with his wife, and was discharged on habeas corpus by the Supreme Court of the United States, after he had been incarcerated nearly two terms, the second being declared flagrantly illegal.

He was sustained as President of the Twelve Apostles in April, 1853. The Saints will remember his leading the "Hosannahs" at the laying of the capstone, and also the dedication of the Salt Lake Temple. He presided at the dedication of the Manti Temple in 1855. He has been the President of the Salt Lake Temple from its dedication until now, and the anniversary gathering in his honor at the Bee Hive house today, was arranged by the Temple workers, who hold him in reverence and affection. He became President of the Church Sept. 13, 1898, and was sustained in that position by the General Conference in October of that year.

We have mentioned these few incidents in the remarkable career of our venerable leader, to emphasize the marvel of his present vigor and activity, mental and physical, when eighty-seven years of age, after the strain of his wonderful life and labors. Though of a highly refined and spiritual nature, he is eminently practical in his mind and methods, masters the details of the many business affairs that come before him, as the President of the Church throughout all the world, and directs in the numerous companies and associations that have been organized for the temporal advancement of his people, with a clearness of perception and a decision which gives evidence of his power to preside.

All Israel will rejoice with us today in the presence and influence of President Lorenzo Snow, to guide the Church and give to the people the mind and will of the Lord. We congratulate them on this great boon, and him on reaching this advanced stage on the journey of life. May his erect form still preserve its strength and dignity, his acute brain its force and clearness, and his inspirational spirit that susceptibility to divine influences which has characterized his administrations, as a servant of God raised up by the Almighty to lead his people in the latter days. May his time on earth be prolonged to the full limit, and his family and posterity be known among the great and good and wise forever!

APPEARED AFTER DEATH

There is, in certain circles, more or less incredulity regarding existence after death notwithstanding the sufficient evidence presented on that all-important subject—namely, that is, to all who do not wilfully prefer infidelity to faith, agnosticism to knowledge. But when a while phenomena appear which are so utterly unexplainable as to knowledge to be the result of explanation only on the ground occupied by believers in an unseen world.

One of these mysterious events transpired a few days ago at Yonkers, N. Y., where a little girl appeared to a number of persons gathered to mourn her death. The matter is noticed extensively in the New York papers, and the facts seem to be well attested.

According to the New York World, the girl, Julia Murray, took sick and died on Saturday, March 23rd. On Sunday friends of the stricken family gathered at the house, to comfort the widowed mother. There were nine of them. The girl's body lay in her coffin in the front room, and the door between that room and the bedroom was open partly. In this room were three girls. At 4 o'clock on Monday morning the likeness of their departed little friend appeared on the wall. It is alleged, and remained in view for five minutes. It was seen by nine persons.

Mrs. Mary McCarthy is said to be a cultured lady, and her version of the appearance is told with considerable detail. She says in part: "I saw her spirit as plainly as I see you. It was most beautiful, and did not inspire terror in any of us, though it started Miss Nora Smith so that she fainted. The face of the spirit shone and the most beautiful tints and colors surrounded it.

"The body lay in the front room. Miss Cain and Miss Teague and Rosie McGowan were sitting in the next room. The double doors were open six inches, and there was no one in the death chamber. At 4 o'clock the face of the dead girl appeared on the wall. It gradually grew distinct, as though emerging from the wall. The hands were folded across the breast as in prayer. Then the face and bust began to move along the wall until over the bed where she died was a full-length picture in beautiful life tints and yet with more than natural vividness of color. It was not standing upright, but lay at length, as though on a couch, the color not appearing, but the edges of the picture fading away into grays and browns until they merged with the wall. It was as though on a couch, the color not appearing, but the edges of the picture fading away into grays and browns until they merged with the wall. It was as though on a couch, the color not appearing, but the edges of the picture fading away into grays and browns until they merged with the wall.

"The body lay in the front room. Miss Cain and Miss Teague and Rosie McGowan were sitting in the next room. The double doors were open six inches, and there was no one in the death chamber. At 4 o'clock the face of the dead girl appeared on the wall. It gradually grew distinct, as though emerging from the wall. The hands were folded across the breast as in prayer. Then the face and bust began to move along the wall until over the bed where she died was a full-length picture in beautiful life tints and yet with more than natural vividness of color. It was not standing upright, but lay at length, as though on a couch, the color not appearing, but the edges of the picture fading away into grays and browns until they merged with the wall. It was as though on a couch, the color not appearing, but the edges of the picture fading away into grays and browns until they merged with the wall.

"One peculiar thing was that the apparition was clothed from the feet to the waist in flowing robes of white linen, but from the waist up to the throat in the black dress the girl died in. The gown showed all the wrinkles and seams, and looked as if it had been worn.

"This is the story of one of the eye-witnesses. It is corroborated by the others. It includes the explanation of hallucination, the vision having appeared to several witnesses simultaneously. There is nothing suggestive of "trance" or ecstatic conditions. According to the evidence of the organs of vision, there was an appearance entirely different from the ordinary course of events.

Without pronouncing any opinion whatever as to the reality of this particular alleged appearance of a departed child, the general remark is pertinent that it is neither within the province nor power of science to explain and account for everything. There was a time when the tendency was to demand this of science, and to reject as superstition everything for which science had no explanation. It is no longer. It is now being recognized that the proper aim of science is to describe with minute accuracy that which is, or which takes place, and to define, as far as possible, the laws governing things and events, like, for instance, a phenomenon like that here described actually appeared and was accurately observed, such observation is as scientific as is the examination of a rare plant, or the study of the transit of Mercury across the face of the sun.

Every effort to obtain truth is scientific, no matter in what field the research is made. The failure to recognize this fact in the past has led to the rejection of many important truths. Spiritual and psychological facts have been relegated to obscure corners, as at variance with sciences. Science has been proclaimed infallible. It was expected to solve all problems, and its devices were in the habit of denying everything for which no solution could be found. Facts, however, are stubborn things. They cannot be reasoned away, and the consequence is that the belief in a world beyond the instruments of scientists is still strong in the hearts of men and women. To those whose minds are open to spiritual evidences, appearances of this kind are not needed as a confirmation of that belief. They "have Moses and the Prophets." But whenever visits from the Beyond are permitted to take place, they are for some good and necessary purpose, as is sufficiently clear from the history of the kingdom of God. Sometimes, however, there are fraudulent appearances, no doubt through the influence of evil spirits. It takes more than science to discern between good and evil in such matters. Science can tell us how to select good food and reject bad, and so on, but not how to avoid evil spiritual influences. It requires a measure of the divine Spirit to do that.

INDIA'S MILLIONS

The recent census of India gives the population of that country as 284,000,000, which is an increase of 7,000,000 in the past ten years. It is pointed out that India has twice as many people as the entire Western hemisphere, and double the population of Russia, while she comes within 50,000,000 of the entire Europe. It is necessary to make such comparisons in order to appreciate the task of providing the peninsula a good and adequate government.

The increase of 7,000,000 in ten years is not regarded as satisfactory. It is said to be mostly accounted for by a more thorough enumeration of the people, and that actually there has been no increase at all. Famine and sickness have carried away so many, that the population, as to numbers, has remained stationary. This is particularly the case in the native states, and the first concern of the government will be to see what can be done, by immigration and other means, to prevent a recurrence of famines. Great Britain has spent, and is still spending, millions to conquer the African states. Some of that money applied on dams and irrigation in India would, perhaps, have proved a more remunerative investment, all things considered, than it is now. It seems a pity to waste national wealth on war, while there are millions of lives to save by providing bread in times of drought. Nations, like individuals, are slow to learn wisdom through experience.

CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD

The Chicago Times-Herald, one of the influential journals of that city, is no more, the Times-Herald and the Record having consolidated. Mr. Kohlstaet remains in charge of the editorial department.

The change has been anticipated for some time by those acquainted with journalistic matters in Chicago. It is stated that when Mr. Kohlstaet commenced his journalistic enterprise, there were already a sufficient number of Republican newspapers in that city. He reduced the price, but the cut was met by his competitors, and a long and desperate struggle ensued. The Times-Herald finally gave in.

The Record-Herald should be a veritable giant. Both papers had an excellent staff. Mr. Kohlstaet is a gentleman of scholarly attainments and great executive ability. With a consolidation of the business interests of the two journals, financial success should be assured.

Every day these days sees the heaviest snow storm of the season. Where is the Byron to sing of the prisoner of Malacanan palace? The New York police want shorter hours. What they need is shorter clubs.

Aguinado has sworn allegiance. If he is not granted his freedom he will soon be swearing something else. Potter Palmer loves the Democratic party of Chicago but he could not love it so much loved he not honor more.

A boy never fools his parents; they fool themselves, says the Record-Herald. Don't let our Chicago contemporary fool itself on this question. Andrew Peas, the famous English soap maker, says that the English people do not fear American trusts. This really sounds like soft soap for the English.

Champion James Jeffries wound up his theatrical engagement in Chicago Saturday night by running a needle completely through the forehead of his left hand. He can use it to sew up the raveled sleeve of care.

Once again the sultan of Turkey is said to have settled the claims of the United States for injury to the persons and property of American missionaries. In other words, once again the sultan has succeeded in renewing his note on his own terms.

The cashier of the Continental Tobacco company of St. Louis, lost a package of indorced checks, worth twenty-three thousand dollars. The man who found it advised the cashier of the fact and the latter offered the finder a bright new silver dollar as a reward; which was refused. Some people are so greedy. The finder probably expected a very large reward, as much as two new silver dollars, may be.

Dr. Morrison, the Pekin correspondent of the London Times, quotes Li Hung Chang as saying that Russia is the only power that China need fear; and that this fact shapes his policy. This is a very frank admission and is probably true. It marks the old diplomat as a very shrewd man. It would be most interesting to know if Russia has entered into any agreement whereby she is to guarantee China's integrity, her own demands being complied with.

According to Washington dispatches to eastern papers there seems to be some soreness among army officers over the promotion of Gen. Funston to a brigadier-generalship in the regular army. That is perhaps natural, but so far as the army in the Philippines is concerned it lay in a scheme for the officer there to devise a scheme for the capture of Aguinado. Funston devised such a scheme, carried it through to success and now has his well earned reward.

The government seems to be at some loss to know just what to do with Aguinado. It might be a good plan to bring him to the United States and let him meet the President and learn at first hand just what our intentions toward the Philippines are. He would also be able to go back and tell his people what kind of a country the United States is and what the people are like. The visit would do him an immense amount of good and his return would likely result in a great enlightenment of the Filipinos.

THE ATTACK ON THE KAISER

New York Mail and Express. There was nothing approaching the dignity of a political event in the episode, and when William sent the message to a friend that he "looked as if he had come out of China," he was disposed to make light of it. It seems, however, that his fool friends have half-persuaded him that the event had a real significance, and he has followed up his declaration to the President of the Prussian diet, that the youth of his land needed to be instructed to have greater respect for the throne, by an address to his bodyguard admonishing them to be ready to "spill their blood" for him when necessary and "regard the Kaiser as the natural ruler of the German Empire." The Kaiser is a fluent and graceful orator and a good fellow, but he lacks the saving sense of humor.

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Emperor William has been scolding his 'people and they don't like it. In claiming that the recent attack on his person was the natural result of a growing disrespect for the sovereign, he is doing what he can to still further lessen the respect that remains.

New York Evening Sun

It is rather peculiar to find the Kaiser telling his guards what they ought to do about stormy times like those of "Forty-eight" once more by saying in Berlin that the monarch now known as "William the Great" was more than half inclined to abdicate then through sheer discouragement. William is now hardly felt like following that example at any rate. Have not his troops got a new barracks near his royal palace?

Los Angeles Express

It is quite evident that William, and Nicholas also, are inviting the nearer approach of the thing they most fear. By placing so much stress upon the necessity of bayonets and aerial tanks for the protection of their royal persons from the populace, they may give the hint to persons who have fits and throw pieces of iron, and to those who are in the business of laying mines under royal palaces, that the matter of assaulting monarchs is not such a difficult piece of work and is really expected of them. It would be an inopportune address if some intrepid person should take some of our modern monarchs aside and have a heart to heart talk with them. They need advice.

New York Evening Post

Emperor William appears to have had his mental balance completely upset by his recent mischance. Another gratifying indiscretion of his yesterday has set all Germany buzzing. He seemed to be brooding on the possibility of a revolution; at any rate, his references to "4," and the duty of the troops to shoot down "insolent insurgents," should they again appear in the streets of Berlin, were most maladroit. It will be remembered that when that historic revolt against absolutism occurred, when the Revolution in Paris set Vienna and Berlin ablaze, the king of Prussia really offered concessions to the insurgents behind barricades, as "insolent insurgents" he addressed them as his "dear Berliners." But a half century of blood and iron has changed all that.

Supper in Maryland

There are, in round number, 25,000 colored illiterates in Maryland, most of whom are Republicans, and 15,000 white illiterates, most of whom are Democrats. The colored illiterates are eager to learn to read and to distinguish the names on the ballots, nor have they, for the sake of receiving instruction, any hesitancy in coming forward and confessing their illiteracy. The case with the white illiterates is entirely different. New as is this agitation, it has been already demonstrated that the whites resent the imposition of an educational qualification, and they will lose their votes rather than confess their inability to properly distinguish the names on the ballots. In view of this, it is indubitable that, while striving for a mean partisan advantage, the Democrats are daily sharpening the knives of their political party in the manner of a boomerang, which in the end will turn and strike them that three it.

Chicago Record-Herald

The remedy for the violations of the spirit of the Constitution is plain and adequate. Under section 2 of the Fourteenth Amendment Congress is given power to reduce the representation in Congress and in the electoral college of any State which deliberately disfranchises any portion of its male citizens over twenty-one years of age, and to leave no doubt concerning the powers of Congress in this direction. If the Southern States continue to disfranchise large portions of their citizens in the interest of party supremacy, Congress should not hesitate to apply the remedy provided by the Constitution.

CONFERENCE RATES

Table with columns: From, Rate, To, Rate. Includes routes like Ogden to Silver City, Clearfield to Fairview, etc.

CONFERENCE RATES

Table with columns: From, Rate, To, Rate. Includes routes like Ogden to Silver City, Clearfield to Fairview, etc.

CONFERENCE RATES

Table with columns: From, Rate, To, Rate. Includes routes like Ogden to Silver City, Clearfield to Fairview, etc.

CONFERENCE RATES

Table with columns: From, Rate, To, Rate. Includes routes like Ogden to Silver City, Clearfield to Fairview, etc.

his land needed to be instructed to have greater respect for the throne, by an address to his bodyguard admonishing them to be ready to "spill their blood" for him when necessary and "regard the Kaiser as the natural ruler of the German Empire." The Kaiser is a fluent and graceful orator and a good fellow, but he lacks the saving sense of humor.

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Emperor William has been scolding his 'people and they don't like it. In claiming that the recent attack on his person was the natural result of a growing disrespect for the sovereign, he is doing what he can to still further lessen the respect that remains.

New York Evening Sun

It is rather peculiar to find the Kaiser telling his guards what they ought to do about stormy times like those of "Forty-eight" once more by saying in Berlin that the monarch now known as "William the Great" was more than half inclined to abdicate then through sheer discouragement. William is now hardly felt like following that example at any rate. Have not his troops got a new barracks near his royal palace?

Los Angeles Express

It is quite evident that William, and Nicholas also, are inviting the nearer approach of the thing they most fear. By placing so much stress upon the necessity of bayonets and aerial tanks for the protection of their royal persons from the populace, they may give the hint to persons who have fits and throw pieces of iron, and to those who are in the business of laying mines under royal palaces, that the matter of assaulting monarchs is not such a difficult piece of work and is really expected of them. It would be an inopportune address if some intrepid person should take some of our modern monarchs aside and have a heart to heart talk with them. They need advice.

New York Evening Post

Emperor William appears to have had his mental balance completely upset by his recent mischance. Another gratifying indiscretion of his yesterday has set all Germany buzzing. He seemed to be brooding on the possibility of a revolution; at any rate, his references to "4," and the duty of the troops to shoot down "insolent insurgents," should they again appear in the streets of Berlin, were most maladroit. It will be remembered that when that historic revolt against absolutism occurred, when the Revolution in Paris set Vienna and Berlin ablaze, the king of Prussia really offered concessions to the insurgents behind barricades, as "insolent insurgents" he addressed them as his "dear Berliners." But a half century of blood and iron has changed all that.

Supper in Maryland

There are, in round number, 25,000 colored illiterates in Maryland, most of whom are Republicans, and 15,000 white illiterates, most of whom are Democrats. The colored illiterates are eager to learn to read and to distinguish the names on the ballots, nor have they, for the sake of receiving instruction, any hesitancy in coming forward and confessing their illiteracy. The case with the white illiterates is entirely different. New as is this agitation, it has been already demonstrated that the whites resent the imposition of an educational qualification, and they will lose their votes rather than confess their inability to properly distinguish the names on the ballots. In view of this, it is indubitable that, while striving for a mean partisan advantage, the Democrats are daily sharpening the knives of their political party in the manner of a boomerang, which in the end will turn and strike them that three it.

Chicago Record-Herald

The remedy for the violations of the spirit of the Constitution is plain and adequate. Under section 2 of the Fourteenth Amendment Congress is given power to reduce the representation in Congress and in the electoral college of any State which deliberately disfranchises any portion of its male citizens over twenty-one years of age, and to leave no doubt concerning the powers of Congress in this direction. If the Southern States continue to disfranchise large portions of their citizens in the interest of party supremacy, Congress should not hesitate to apply the remedy provided by the Constitution.

CONFERENCE RATES

Table with columns: From, Rate, To, Rate. Includes routes like Ogden to Silver City, Clearfield to Fairview, etc.

CONFERENCE RATES

Table with columns: From, Rate, To, Rate. Includes routes like Ogden to Silver City, Clearfield to Fairview, etc.

CONFERENCE RATES

Table with columns: From, Rate, To, Rate. Includes routes like Ogden to Silver City, Clearfield to Fairview, etc.

CONFERENCE RATES

Table with columns: From, Rate, To, Rate. Includes routes like Ogden to Silver City, Clearfield to Fairview, etc.

Z.C.M.I. Glove Special

DURING THE FIRST WEEK IN APRIL WE OFFER THIS GLOVE BARGAIN:

Ladies' 2-Clasp Street Gloves,

Warranted Real Kid, Newest Paris Point Embroidery, all colors and sizes, regular price $1.50, this week only

$1.25

Newest Styles and Best Grades Ladies' Gloves, just in at

Z. C. M. I.

T. C. WEBBER, Superintendent.

SALT LAKE THEATRE

PERFORMANCES TONIGHT AND TOMORROW NIGHT. Note the Change of Time. Evenings 8 o'clock. Matinees 2 o'clock. Notable Engagement of BLANCHIE WALSH. The most gorgeous production known to the stage. MORE THAN QUEEN. NEXT ATTRACTION: FRIDAY NIGHT, APRIL 5TH. CHAS. H. YALE'S Kaleidoscopic Mechanical Spectacular Surprise.

GARDNER DAILY STORE NEWS

To be sure it's not very springy. Still lots of people are choosing now—while stocks are on their first showing. There are a full hundred or more styles to choose from. Yet there is sure to be some here now that won't be here later. That's the main reason we advise early choosing.

For instance here's a suit that won't last over a day or so. It's a handsome black chevrot with a one thread stripe of white—good Italian cloth linings, good tailoring, price $12.00. And another of a nobby blue chevrot with a one thread stripe of light blue, round cut coat—fine serge linings and splendidly tailored.

In the other hundred or more prices run $7.50 to $30.00

ONE J. P. GARDNER

136 and 138 Main St.

FIRST

Everybody wants to be first. That is, everybody who is anybody. You do, anyway. And we want you to get there, too. We want you to hold your head up and take a new interest in life. We want your chest to swell high with pride and your heart beat fast with pleasure. That's why we carry the

CLEVELAND BICYCLE

Come and get one and the world will be at your feet. Cleveland Chainless $75.00. Cleveland light Roadster $40.00.

Also Day Wheels, $25.00 to $35.00.

THE SALT LAKE HARDWARE CO.

Sign of the Big Gun. 42, 44, 46 W. Second South.

Heber J. Grant & Co.

OUR COMPANIES: THE HARTFORD, of Hartford, Ct. GERMAN AMERICAN, of New York. NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE, London and Edinburgh. PENNSYLVANIA, of Philadelphia. NORTHERN, of London. FIRE