DRY EATING.

Moses Ezekiel, the Roman sculptor, says: "Whenever I see a toothpick I think of a dinner that was given in Rome in honor of two Turkish noblemen. I sat beside the younger of them. He glittered with gold embroidery and great diamonds. But I pitied him sincerely, for he was strange to our table manners, and some of his errors were both ludicrous and painful. Toward the dinner's end a servant extended to the young man a plate of toothpicks. He waved the plate away, saying in a low and bitter voice, 'No, thank you, I have already eaten two of the accursed things and I want no more.'"

NO ADVANTAGE TO HIM.

A man who was always more or less hard up boasted one day, with a smile, that he was to have a big raise in salary the following week. One of his friends approached him next day and asked if it was so.

"Yes, it's so, but it don't do me any good."

"How's that?" inquired his friend.

"Well, you see, I talk in my sleep, and my wife has found out about it."
