

C. J. DRESSER'S

Took Telegram Addressed to C. Spreckles, Jr., as a Means Of "Identification."

ASTUTE SHOE CLERK'S STORY.

Thought Young Man an Imposter When He Ordered a Box of Polish—No Complaint Filed.

Unless some one comes forth with a complaint against young C. J. Dresser today, the young man arrested Saturday evening on the charge of obtaining money by false pretenses and representing himself to be Claus Spreckles, Jr., he will be released from custody tomorrow. The young man is still an inmate of the city jail but will not be held there later than today, according to Lieut. Shannon, unless someone files a complaint against him.

The exploits of the youth were set forth exclusively in Saturday evening's "News" and it was related how he went to the Knutsford hotel, represented himself as being Claus Spreckles, Jr., cashed several checks and had a good time generally on the strength of his misrepresentation.

Chief of Police Barlow has been looking for more worthless checks to turn up, but to date has not ordered a suit against the young man. The check was for $25, passed on J. J. Hillier, a dining car conductor on the Salt Lake route.

Last evening a Japanese named Eddy Hashimoto telephoned to Lieut. Hengel, that he would assist the young man to straighten out the tangle if the youth were not prosecuted. He is a friend to Dresser and others have been cured by the young man reaches the sum of $27.25. This does not include a bill he is said to have run at a sporting house for $85. He gave a check for $100 to the Knutsford hotel, and then there was the check for $25, passed on J. J. Hillier, a dining car conductor on the Salt Lake route.

TOOK THE MESSAGE. "When I landed in Los Angeles," he said, "I had about $450 with me. That did not last long. On the morning of the 22nd I was at the depot and heard a call boy inquire for Claus Spreckles, Jr., and I at once took the telegram he had. I was anxious to get away and wanted the message as a means of identification."

The young man admits cashing the check with Hillier, registering at the Knutsford and passing other checks, but declares he will make good as soon as he communicates with his mother.

The last report to be received by the police came from a Main street shoe store, where Dresser ordered a pair of shoes worth $5.00. Had it not been for the keenness of the clerk, the shoes would have been sent to the Knutsford. After ordering the footwear, Dresser said:

"You might just as well send me a box of that polish also."

This request was a serious mistake on his part, for the clerk, who is said to be a customer, was really young Spreckles, he would not deign to polish his shoes. The clerk became suspicious and did not deliver the order. It is expected that the matter will be satisfactorily settled today, but otherwise the youth will be held in the city jail.

Glenn, formerly a Utah man, a graduate of the University of Chicago. He is scheduled for the degree of doctor of philosophy in June next. Mr. Glenn writes to the president of the league as follows:

The University of Chicago, March 20, 1909.—I am very pleased to see the people making an effort to better the health of the State of Utah. I have examined some of the reports from Salt Lake and they are by no means to be proud of. Salt Lake is allowing numerous infants to die every year, and the cause is not far to seek. It is a well known fact that out of every hundred deaths occurring during the first five years of life, at least 30 are due to socially preventable causes.
