Antidote for Truancy—The faculty of the high school has adopted a new rule, that will have to be faithfully observed by the students, or there will be many failures in examinations. Instead of suspension for truancy for a period of two days in case of truancy, 5 per cent will be taken off each study for each day that the student is not in school, and in case of a student who has received the report card at the proper time, another 5 per cent will be deducted. These measures have become necessary owing to the many cases of truancy, and the neglect on the parts of the boys and girls to bring in the reports that have been sent to the parents to be signed.

Chickens Cremated—On Saturday night, a fire destroyed the two-story frame barn of Ernest J. Cannon on Tenth South and Eighth West streets. The cause of the blaze is not known. The loss is estimated at $15,000 on buildings and $20,000 on contents. The building was insured for $10,000 but there was none on the contents. About 800 chickens were roasted to death and a large quantity of hay went up in smoke. Five head of cattle, several vehicles and a cow were taken out of the building and escaped the flames. The fire fighters had to lay out 500 feet of hose and by the time they reached the blaze it was apparent that the building could not be saved.

QUESTION OF ARBITRATION.

It is Declared That Company Shifted
Its Position on the Matter After Truce Had Been Accepted.

From the minute C. O. Pratt stepped off the train at the Salt Lake depot to take charge of the present trouble between the carmen and the Utah Light and Railway company, it has been evident to those close to him that he is well versed in all points of diplomacy, and campaigns with his car close to the ground.

When President Bancroft sent him a stinging letter a week ago, asking him to "cease further intervention" it looked as if trouble would be precipitated under the sting of the sudden onslaught, but Pratt waited, even giving it out that he would not reply, as he did not wish to do anything to further when the peace between the company and the carmen. He did not explain then, however, that public sentiment would hardly have been with the strikers, but as rapidly as action was taken after a question of verbiage arose between Mayor Thompson and President Bancroft, the moment to strike was seized upon, and an appeal issued to the public, in which the Bancroft letter comes in for severe arraignment.

Pratt's arguments, given in full below show him to be a master of the art of special pleading, as well as an expert in the use of English for clearness, emphasis and force. His statement is addressed to the general public and is aimed at capturing its sympathy.

It has been my earnest desire that I might be spared the necessity of replying to the repeated insinuation made by your esteemed citizen, Mr. W. H. Bancroft, president of the Utah Light and Railway company, through the language of his attorneys, insinuating that I stood in the way of an amicable settlement of the present controversy between his company and its employees; also the emphatic statement accredited to him in published papers, that I have in any way "gubbed" the issues that are in controversy.

A BROKEN FAITH.
The action of the company in again breaking faith after a basis of settlement among the lines of propositions made by them and submitted to us through the honorable Mayor Ezra Thompson, and accepted by both parties in a satisfactory manner, and in less than 24 hours afterwards serving notice on us through his honor, the mayor, that they had again turned a complete back somewhat, and refused to abide by the agreement they had entered into with us through the mayor.

It was after the representatives of the company and the committees of the carmen had attempted to settle their differences, and Mr. Wells, general manager of the company, had stated positively that the company would not arbitrate even the wage scale, that I was sent for by the employees as they had no further recourse but to strike.

SENT FOR BY MEN.
Upon my arrival I convened a meeting with them and they explained the entire situation, after acquainting myself thoroughly with all of the facts, I advised the local committee to again go before Mr. Wells of the company and ask if they would further negotiate with them on a basis of compromise. This they did one week ago last Thursday and Mr. Wells assured them that he would meet the committee on the following Saturday afternoon, which he did. At that conference the committee explained to Mr. Wells that the motormen and conductors were very much dissatisfied with the wage scale as proposed by the company, as it did not affect the great majority of employees. Mr. Wells finally told the committee he would grant a raise of 1 cent an hour to the motormen and conductors, who had received no increase, but further stated that the company would reduce the wages of barn and shop men by not allowing them pay in the future at the rate of time and a half for overtime work on holidays, as had been the custom. He stated positively that that was final and that the company would not arbitrate anything. The committee called a special meeting of the carmen for the following Monday morning at 1 o'clock. At that meeting the men decided not to accept the company's offer and voted almost unanimously to go to work on the following day, the contrary. Then a unanimous motion was made that the entire matter be placed in my hands in accordance with the constitution and laws with full power to settle or notify the men when to cease work.

FAVORED PEACE.
Consequently I used every honorable effort to obtain an amicable adjustment and it was only when a strike was imminent that I stepped into the breach at the request of over 60 men who were involved. The company's statement stood in the way of settlement is positively false, for I have only stood in the way of allowing a lockout to take place. I communicated to Mr. Bancroft the action of his employees and asked him to negotiate to the end that some trouble might be averted. His attitude toward that proposition is past history of which the public is fully informed.

The committee of the employees also waited upon Mr. Wells on Monday morning and informed him officially of the action taken at the morning's meeting, stating that the employees had decided not to instruct any more students who might be hired after that date pending a settlement of the present controversy. They also informed him that the meeting had placed the entire matter in my hands.

I have faithfully labored night and day since that moment to the end that a peaceable solution of the controversy might be brought about. Through the kindness of Mr. Wells, the Rev. R. V. Simpkins, the Rev. Young, Col. Wall and Mr. William Idehart and further through the various other committees, I have been able to cooperate with the company to the same end with the result that on last Thursday the company, through President Bancroft, had assured him that they did not want trouble, and were willing to accept arbitration of the dispute as a basis of settlement. We told his honor, the mayor, that we would accept the proposition and authorized him to so notify Mr. Bancroft. It was too late to reach Mr. Bancroft that night, so the mayor called up the company's office over the phone and was informed that Mr. Bancroft had left there for his home. The mayor then assured us he would notify the officials of the com-

THE WRITTEN AGREEMENT.

On Friday morning at about 11 o'clock we were called to the mayor's office, who informed us the company had decided to abide by their proposition agreed upon Thursday evening, and he presented a written statement of what the company said they were willing to agree to, which was the original proposition that had previously been submitted to me by Mr. Bancroft. We accepted that proposition and agreed to arbitrate the wage scale only, and that in the selection of the board of arbitration, the employees must select their own members, and the company must select their own members, who is an employee of the company; the company would select their arbiters from whoever they pleased, and the two so selected should select a third to decide the wage scale. The company reserved the right to name the wage scale that should be subjected to arbitration. The company had no voice whatever and neither was there any assurance that the company would not ask the board of arbiters to reduce the present wage scale and agree to increase it. We positively refused to entertain such an unfair proposition, which is not arbitration in any sense of the word, but absolute dictation by the company, and the company refused to accept that. We replied through the mayor by making a written statement to him of what would be accepted by us as a plan of settlement, namely, that we would arbitrate all questions in dispute; the employees to select one arbitrator, the company to select one arbitrator, and the two so selected to choose a third arbitrator to umpire, whose duty it should be to take testimony and hear all of the evidence bearing upon the present controversy and render their decision in writing. The findings of the majority of the said board to be final and binding upon both parties hereto. This proposition was promptly refused by the company, and he submitted back another proposition through the mayor which would permit the employees to select their arbiters from among the citizens of Salt Lake City, and that the arbitrator should not be an official of any labor organization. The company still reserved the right to stipulate the wage scale, and that no other question should be a subject for said board of arbitration to pass upon.

DISPUTE OVER ARBITERS.
The committee could not accept the entire proposition, but said they would agree to the company's plan of selecting their arbiters, waived their right to select an arbitrator in the open field, and agreeing that such selection should be made from among the citizens of Salt Lake, who were not officers of any labor union, but who insisted that the company should be subjected to their consideration and to be passed upon. We further agreed that the "closed shop" was not a question for arbitration and we would not ask its consideration.

FINAL BREACH.
The mayor again visited upon President Bancroft and informed him of our acceptance of the company's proposition as to the manner of selecting the arbitrators, but that we desired all questions in dispute to be adjudicated by them. Mr. Bancroft promptly refused this proposition and the mayor reported back to us and all hope of peace vanished, for the committee positively refused to accept anything less than fair and honorable arbitration. As the mayor stated that the mayor's office, he said: "I would like to see you boys accept that proposition of the company's to arbitrate the wage scale. I believe in it, but I don't believe in it. Mr. Bancroft said to me that that was the only grievance he knew of at the present time, but should any future grievance arise that could not be mutually adjusted by the company and the carmen, and a properly authorized committee representing a majority of their employees, they would then be willing to adjust such differences through arbitration." Mr. Bancroft said that? I interrupted. He replied that he certainly did and I said that again throws a ray of hope into the situation; let me put that in writing so that you and I can both see it and if accepted by the company it is agreed to by us. I had the mayor's stenographer typewrite the statement that the mayor said. The mayor read the statement carefully and said: "That is exactly what Mr. Bancroft told me, and I will take it up to him again and notify him of your offer of arbitration. The mayor did, and upon his return notified our committee through his private secretary, that Mr. Bancroft had read it over and said it was satisfactory to him. Upon the strength of this acceptance and our assurance from the mayor that all that was now necessary to do was to name our arbiters, we agreed to immediately call a special meeting of the employees to ratify our action and agree upon our arbiters. I also went before the delegates of the Utah Federation of Labor Friday night and made a full and complete statement of the satisfactory settlement that had been reached and they were unanimous in their approval of our action.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF PEACE.
The mayor assured the representatives of the newspapers of the amicable adjustment that had been reached, and gave out the printed communications that had passed back and forth through his hands. Everything seemed to be harmonious, and a peaceable solution of the controversy was in the hands of the power they had to go to work on the following day.

CHARGES AGAINST COMPANY.
As the company had twice made a settlement with us through the honorable Mayor, and asked him to negotiate to the end that some trouble might be averted, we would not even consider their new proposition, but gave them until 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon to signify their willingness to abide by the agreement entered into through the mayor on the previous evening. We waited upon the mayor at 2 o'clock and no word had been received from him. We believed that he was doing everything that was honorable within our power to aid in securing a just settlement. We have never stood upon technicalities or formalities, but on the contrary we have stood ready at all times to waive any of our differences that stood in the way of a peaceable solution of the controversy. The company has continually shifted position, and when the negotiations of a day were closed the following morning would find them in a new position, holding or standing upon their heads like the ostrich, apparently trying to hide themselves in the sand, leaving their employees in the lurch.

WE HAVE CONFIDENCE in the loyalty of the citizens of Salt Lake City and in their desire to see fair play; for that reason we have waited upon the mayor, and you may fully understand the exact situation. The question at issue is one of bread and butter of mankind and womanhood, as well as honorable citizenship.

AS TO STATEMENT.
The previous statements in the public press setting forth the original request made by the employees of the company and which Mr. Bancroft said I gubbed, and left out objectionable features, is the text of what were our requests. If, as Mr. Bancroft says, the objectionable features were left out, why does he not accept that proposition? We do not accept any proposition that will give an opportunity. Further, we stand ready to accept fair and honorable arbitration of the entire controversy, the company to select one arbitrator, the employees to select one arbitrator, and the two so selected shall choose a third, and the decision of the majority of said board of arbiters submitted in writing to both the parties hereto, to be final and binding upon the same.

We stood ready to abide by the agreement of Friday night as submitted to us by his honor the mayor and published in the daily press.

AGAINST STRIKE BREAKERS.
We ask you to aid us in the cause of justice, to the end that early and honorable peace may be had that will protect us from unreasonable corporate greed and our displacement by a lot of hired thugs and desperadoes who can find solace in their disloyalty to our city and make the safety of our homes insecure.
