one telling blow. The round was about even.

Hart opened fiercely in the second and gent right and left to Schreck's jaw, and then Schreck seemed to awaken and sent terrific left uppercuis to his opponent's jaw in rapid fire order.

Hart appeared weak when he entered for the third round, and Schreck pummeled him badly. Hart struck but one blow and was weak when the gong sounded.

When Hart entered in the fourth it was seen that the fight could not go long. Schreck continued with fast uppercuis to the jaw and body blows, and as Hart was about to fall, his seconds yielded.

New York, July 27.—The 32 ponies which played such a conspicuous part in recapturing the international polocup recently at the Hurlingham club, London, have arrived here and will be sent to the stables of the Meadowbrook team, at Westbury, L. I. The English experts declared that their polo players were just as good as the members of the American Meadowbrook team, but they contended that the American victory resulted from their superior ponies. English polo payers never had such ponies as these, and it was admitted that they were the best in the world. While all of them were American trained, only nine were American trained, only nine were American trained and the Argentine Republic.

The uncertainties in the life of a baseball player were never better illusrated than in the case of Pitcher Fromme of the Cincinnati Nationis. Early ast season, while a number of the St Louis Cardinals, Fromme twirled fairy good ball, but late in the 1908 campaign he injured hs shoulder, and it

CRAWFORD'S RECORD AS HORSE BUYER

New York, July 27.—C. W. Crawford, a horse dealer of Newark. O., who arrived on the Red Star liner Zeeland, wears the decoration of a Belgium chevalier.

"In the last 16 years I have purchased fully 1,500,000 Belgian horses," said Mr. Crawford, "and in recognition of this fact King Leopold created me a chevalier. He recognized the fact that I had been an important factor in furthering the great horse raising industry of Belgium."

Most of Mr. Crawford's purchases are brought to this country where he distributes them among the large users of fine draft horses.

BREAK FAILS TO WORK; AUTO IN SMASHUP

Mrs. J. J. Daly and two children had a narrow escape from serious injury in an automobile accident yesterday afternoon when the break on a new machine just purchased by Mr. Daly falled to work. The machine ran into a tree, caved in the front of the machine and demolished a whoel.

Mrs. Daly and the children, Ethely and Morris, were driving down South Temple street when Mrs. Daly discovered that the break would not work. She turned the car around in an attempt to drive it up a steep grade when the machine swerved and crashed into a tree. The boy, Morris, was thrown from the auto and was badly shaken up while Mrs. Daly received a wound on the cheek. The girl was not hurt at all and the injuries to the others are not serious.

NOTHING DOING AT OGDEN BIKE TRACK

Bike races at the Ogden saucer track have come to an end so far this season. The fans in the Junction City did not enthuse to the extent of swelling the box office receipts, the weather has been bad and as it turned out to be a losing venture, the track has been closed down for the season.

Manager Heagren of the Salt Palace saucer did all in his power to make a success of the game there, but the people did not take enough interest in the game to make it worth while.

A party of Salt Lakers returned today from a fishing trip to the Weber, locating their camp not far from Peoa, and report better fishing there than at any other place within a reasonable distance from this city. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Emil ("Fat") Schuler. Mr. and Mrs. John Foote and Eari Morgan, the singer.

They spent nearly two weeks on the Weber not far from Peoa and near the mouth of the canyon and the fishers averaged about 60 pounds per day, the trout ranging from ½ to 4½ pounds. "To give you an idea of the fishing we had," said "Fat" Schuler today, "I only need to say that heretofore I could not catch a fish in a restaurant showcase with a couple of nets, but unthere it was nothing to land 20 or 30 in a few hours angling. The best fishing was at about high noon and while we found the big fellows somewhat lazy the smaller ones jumped readily to the fly and we got all we wanted—and then some. Morgan was the star Isaac Walton of the bunch, and it was nothing for him to land from 40 to 50 a day, and just before we left he hooked a beauty—1½ pounds, no 'kid,' with a spinner." any other place within a reasonable

MORE COAL THAN GOLD.

Alaskan Fuel Fields Richer Than Famous Deposits of Precious Metals. While Alaska's gold reserves are arge, they are in no way unique, for efined gold is the same whatever the source. In the matter of coal resources Alaska has no competitor. Its store of high grade fuel cannot be equaled in quality west of the Rockies. In fact to find anthracite and bituminous coal which compares in fuel value with that of Alaska one must come east to Pennylvania. These coals are, therefore, the key to the commercial situation on the west coast. For a high grade steaming coal used for manufacturing industries or a merchant marine, or a coke for smelters in the western states, one must turn to Alaska. Hence the growing population of the west has a vital interest in the development of these coal fields. These coals are of even national importance, for of all our Pacific possessions Alaska alone can supply our battleships with smokeless fuel.

The quantity of this anthracite and

The quantity of this anthractic and bituminous coal is not as yet determined, but it certainly is not unlimited, and hence should not be wasted. To use it, however, will not be to waste it, unless it be improperly mined. A surveyed area of about 100 quare miles is known to be underlain by these coals, and it is probable that further investigation may show an extension of the field. A rough estimate of quanof the field. A rough estimate of quantity within this surveyed area gave some 6,000,000,000 tons, or more than one and one-half times the entire proone and one-half times the entire production of Pennsylvania since coal mining began. It is fair to assume that this coal is worth $1 a ton, which would make its total value about forty times as great as the entire gold output of Alaska to the present time. It is probable, therefore, that the value of the coal fields exceeds that of the of the coal fields exceeds that of the gold reserves. These coals are, however, practically amtouched, for the only coal mining in Alaska is that of some lightes for local use. A few some lightes for local use. A few years ago statistics showed that Alas-ka's entire export of coal for a year was four tons, while it produced 15 tons of gold.—American Review of Reviews.

Pure White Blossom Has Ancient Meaning to Indian Because Of Legend.

There is a beautiful romance connected with the Cherokee rose, A young Indian chief of the Seminole tribe was taken prisoner by his encmies, the Cherokees, and doomed to torture, but fell so seriously ill that it became necessary to wait for his restoration to health before committing him to the fire, says the Hartford Post. As he lay prostrated by disease in the cabin of the Cherokee warrior, the daughter of the latter, a young, dark faced maid, was his nurse. She fell

She consented. Before they had gone far, impelled by regret at leaving home, she asked permission of her lover to return for the purpose of bearing away some memento of it. So retracing her footsieps, she broke a sprig from the white rose which climbed up the poles of her father's tent, and, preserving it during her fight through the wilderness, planted it by the door of her new home in the land of the Seminoles. And from that day this beautiful flower has always been known throughout the Southern states by the name of the Cherokee states by the name of the Cherokee
