Washington, May 29.-President Receivelt today issued a statement commendatory of the Oregon delegation of the house for its support of administration policies, and wishing them success in the coming elections in that state. The statement follows: "The president today said good-bye to the two Oregon congressmen. Messrs. Hawley and Ellis, and stated publicly that he took the occasion to thank them for the attitude they had consistently maintained in support of the adminis-tration policies, and to wish them suc-cess in the election which is to take maintained in support of the adminis-tration policies, and to wish them suc-cess in the election which is to take place on Monday next. The president stated that he wished publicly to express his appreciation of the cerdial manner in which the gen-tlemen had backed up the policies and measures which the president fell were of such consequence for the welfare of the ccuntry in connection, for instance, with such matters as the upbuilding of the navy, the upbuilding of the merchant marine, the conservation of our natural resources, including both the preservation of the forests and the construction of waterways; securing child labor legislation, and the effort to secure the proper administration by the courts of the power of injunction; and, finally, the securing by the ma-tion of thorough-going and adequate control over the great interstate cor-porations, a control which shall be both effective to prevent any wrong do-ing by them, and at the same time of such a character as will permit the reward in ample fashion of all business which is so conducted as to be for, and not against, the public interests."

tion of Leak in the Cotton

New York, May 29 .- Theodore H. Price, at one time known as the "cotton king," because of his tremendous trades in the staple, and more recently president of the Eagle Fire insurance company, was indicted today by the federal grand jury, after a long investigation of a startling leak of cotton crop statistics contained in a government report which had not been made public. The grand jury found two indictments against Price, one charging conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, and the other bribery of a government official. ficial. Three other persons are indicted with Price, and warrants have been is-sued for their arrest, as they are out of the jurisdiction of the federal court of this district. With the handing down of the indict-ments Mr. Price, who had apparently anticipated the action taken against him, appeared at the federal building and surrendered himself. He was ar-raigned before Judge Hough and plead-ed not rully. Ball was itsed at $7.000. ed not guilty. Ball was fixed at $7,000, which was furnished, and Mr. Price was released after the court had set June 19 as the date for the preliminary hearing. Mr. Price in a statement made pub-

While Mr. Price's career has lacked the sensational features which marked Mr. Sulley's brief tenure of the "cot-ton throne" he has been generally con-sidered the most prominen operator in the New York cotton market since-the days of John Imman. He first at-tracted international attention as a member of the firm of Price, MacCor-mick & Co., which failed Dec. 24, 1900. The firm failed for about $13,-000,000, but Mr. Price at once set about rehabilitating his fortunes and suc-ceeded so well that during the past three or four years he has paid off his individual portion of the firm's remain-ing indebtedness, amounting to over E. & W. spiracy growing out of the cotton scandal of 1905. The indictments charge Price with conspiring with the other three men to furnish advance information con-cerning cotton reports. The three New York men are also charged with conspiracy to bribe Holmes to shape the reports to suit their own interests. Price, according to the indictments, made $750,000 out of the advance in-formation on the report for December, 1904, paying out of this $125,000 to Haas. The indictments do not say how much Holmes received as his share of information on the June report of 1905, he was paid $1,000 by Haas. Price figured prominently in the tes-thory in the trial of the cotton con-spiracy case in the criminal court here assistant statistician of the depart-ment of agriculture and Frederick A. Peckham and Moses Haas, the two last named being from New York, were in-dicted and tried on the charge of con-spiracy to defraud and in connection with the alleged misconduct in the of-fice of Holmes. ### JAPANESE OF TODAY ARE A MUCH MIXED RACE

San Francisco. May 20.—Three thon-sand years ago and more Japan was ex-clusively peopled by the Ainu race, the long bearded, now almost extinct aborigines still to be found in the far-north of the islands. This interseting declaration is made aborgines still to be rough in the far-north of the Islands. This interesting declaration is made by Dr. N. G. Munre, a physician, and unthor, an anthropologist, and a mem-ber of many authropological and scien-tific societies, who has devoted the past few years to investigations and exten-sive excavations to determine what mannee of beings occupied Japan in beings occupied Japan in chistoric times

The Japanese of today, he says, are a mixture of Mongolian invaders, Malay-sian and negrito settlers in the south and a small tincture of Aryan stock,
