The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the fisheries treaty.

Morgan resumed his argument in favor of the resolution to postpone it till December next. In the course of the colleguy, and after some allusions to Yankees on the one side and ex-slave hoiders on the other, between Morgan, Frye, Dawes, and Hawley, Morgan said, "You have not hesitated to sneer at us and say we are are rebels and traitors, men not to be trusted, men who violated our oathes and attacked the national flag, men whose consciences are blinded with political sin; that we all deserved to be hanged and that we are

You had Jefferson Davis under arrest and the United States government did not dare bring him to trial because it would have turned out (in the opinion of the great jurists who would have had to try him) that he had not committe i treason."

Teller replied to some statements in Morgan's speech that during Arthur's Morgan's speech that during Arthur's been inflicted on American fishing ves-sels and had not been resented by that Administration. He de-clared there was not a word of truth in the statement. During that adminstration there never had been the sier ure of a single American vessel for the violation of the treaty of 1818, but since the present administration came into power there had been more than 400 American vessels seized and more than 2000 boarded by Canadian and British authorities. The flag had been hauled down and no apology had ever been offered for it. As to the suggestion that the government had not dared to have Jefferson Davis tried because the court would not have found him guilty of high treason, Teller characterized Vest said his judgment had been that ever since the open sessions it had been decreed that no treaty which could be negotiated by Cleveland's administration with the British government could be ratified by the Senate. Party exigencies and the neces-sity of party warfare demanded that the tail of the British lion should be publicly twisted until that royal animal howled, and so loyal a song about "John Brown's Body Mouldering in the Dust' had given place to the dul-cet tones of "Erin Go Bragh." Re-ferring to the recent speech of Senator Stewart on the Chinese question, Vest proceeded to argue that the opposition to the anti-Chinese bill in the Senate in 1881 and 1882 had come not from the democratic but from the refrom the democratic but from the republican Senators, and particularly from Mr. Harrison, the republican candidate for the Presidency. In this connection he declared that in 1870 seven Chinamen in Indianapolis (all that were there) were apmitted to naturalization, and immediately voted for the republican ticket when Harrison was detented for the Governorship of Indiana by "Blue Jeans" Williams. After stating the votes in the Senate for the Chinese bill and the various amendments the said this preved that the presiding officer of the Senate was right in saying that the records of Sherman, Harrison and other Presidential candidates were records of Sherman, Harrison and other Presidential candidates were awkward on the tariff, currency and on the Chinese questions.

Vest also quoted from a letter of Harrison to Rev. I. J. Brant, of St. Louis, February 25, 1888, saying in connection with his action on the bili restricting Chinese immigration, "It was a little hard for me to let go of the idea that there was a free home here tor all who desire to come."

Stewart said that Harrison had not, during the discussion of the anti-Chinese measures, attered a word in favor of Chinese immigration and his votes had been simply conformable to the treaty, but afterwards when the treaty was being arranged Harrison's votes on the bill were acceptable to the people of the Pacific Coast. His record was as satisfactory to the people of the Pacific Coast.

Dolph denied Harrison's record in Congress would show he had ever been in favor of the admission of Chinese labor into the United States. The people of the Pacific Coast were not to be deladed in this matter. They understood the policy which was back of the Mills bill and which inspired the President's message. They saw the great democratic party with its arms around the great industrial structures of the country as Samson had his arms around the pillars of the Phillstine temple to pull it down over their heads and they were willing to trust the question of Chinese immigration to the republican party.

HOUSE WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 .- Nutting of New York offered an amendment appropriating $500,000 for the erection of a dry dock, and proper machinery and buildings and appliances, at some point on Lake Ontario, for building and re-pairing armed ships. Nutting said in case of trouble with England the greatest danger to the United States would be on the northern frontier. At Kingston, almost within cannon shot Kingston, almost within cannon shot of the shores of the United States, Canada, a dependency of England, was building dry docks for the construction of war vessels.

Farquhar (New York) declared the state of New York, independently of the other states, would take the contract to take care of Canada and her five millions inside of sixty days.

The gentlemen in the east might be afraid of Canada but Minnessota could take care of all of Canada west of Lake Superior and make it a suburb of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

HEBER M. WELLS,

THE PATENT Wire Gauze Oven Door Probate Court in and for Salt Lake County, Territory of Utah.

Boasting never before attained in any Cooking Apparatus, and will Revolutionize the Present Methods of Cooking

ITS THEORY Is that all Food Bakerd or Cooked, should be cooked in fresh air freely admitted to the oven. This is done by discarding the close oven door heretofore used, and substituting for it a door containing a sheet of Wire Gauze nearly as large as the door itself.

Through this tiauze Boor the air freely circulates, facilitating the process of cooking, and producing food that is unequalled in flavor and nutrition, and actually cooked with less consumption of fuel. an in an oven with a clos It makes an enormous saving in the weight of meat.

It also produces inreer Loaves of Bread, requires iess attention from the cook, and promotes the health of the family by the SUPERIOR QUALITY OF THE FOOD

OPINION OF AN EXPERT. MRS, MARY B. WELCH, Teacher Domestic Economy, Iowa State University, says:
"My deliberate judgment is that the oven of the Range, as compared with others, is not only more equally heated in every part-front and rear—but as a result of its superior ventilation the food placed therein is letter cooked, while retaining a sweeter flaver, and a larger proportion of its best juices. I find, also the consumption of fuel in this Range is much less than any other for same work.
