The first of the five passenger engines recently received for the San Pedro road is being connected up today at the Short Line roundhouse. These particular engines will be broken in between this city and Footstello, and not run on the southern road until certain changes are made in the roadbed. The new freight engines, however, are being run south as fast as connected up. The local yards are still well filled with new monsters waiting their turn in the roundhouse.

The Erickson Smoke Preventing & Fuel Saving company of this city has filed articles of incorporation in the county clerk's office. Its capital stock is $150,000, divided into shares of the par value of $1 each. Warren C. Bogue is president; J. M. Erickson, vice president; Russell L. Tracy, secretary and treasurer, and they, with Frank B. Stephens, constitute the board of directors. The company owns the Erickson smoke-consumer, patented by J. M. Erickson of this city.

Patrolman George Moore, who captured the burglar in the warehouses of the Redman Van & Storage company a week or so ago, received a reward from the company last night in the form of a letter conveying their praise for the young officer's bravery and enclosing a $10 bill as a partial reward for his timely act. The matter of an officer receiving any praise from the outside for daring work is so unusual, say the officers, that the matter of Moore's reward was widely discussed at the station last night.

Fred Case went to the police station last night with a yellow jacket all over his face and body. Case came from Colorado a short time ago and went to work at the Oregon Short Line yards. He was taken sick several days ago, and while in bed he thought he was at headquarters by coming in politely and announcing that he had smallpox. Telephone calls were immediately commissioned and efforts made to get the health authorities and the city physician. After some little time they were secured and Sanitary Inspector Fowler took the man to the isolation hospital.

The preliminary debate for the selection of a student to represent the university at the Denver university team will be held March 10; and the second preliminary debate for the selection of speakers for the contest with Colorado will be held at Colorado Springs in May, will be held April 7 next. Those who will enter the debate are: Karl Hopkins, Dale H. Parke, George Hansen and John Davis.

About 40 Latter-day Saints' university students visited the local government weather bureau yesterday afternoon, and were initiated in the elements of climatological inspiration, dispensation and administration, by Section Director Hyatt. A thousand and one questions were asked, and answered with the accuracy, gravity and gravity by the commanding officer and his staff, and the students departed with their craniums stored with a large amount of information. The students brought out each feature with vivacity, and in an interesting fashion. She prefaced the reading with a brief history of the play, and at the beginning of each act gave a summary of its action.

This afternoon Mrs. Baker gives a special "Children's Hour" at 4 o'clock, readings from Field, Kipling, Riley, and others, and tonight renders Hugo's "Les Miserables," one of the strongest numbers in her repertoire. ## LAST WATERFOWLS FOR UTAH MARKETS

Spring Duck Season Opened. With Fine Hunting on the Marshes.

WILL CLOSE ON MARCH 15TH

Legislature May Permanently Abolish Market-Hunting and Open Season in Spring.

Spring duck hunting is on—for one month, free shooting and then peace for the fluffy feathered waterfowl until October. The season opened yesterday unpropitiously, but the prospect for a warm week's end, with a murky sky is bringing hunters to their trappings and starting an outward flow to the gun clubs. One may shoot this year only if one is a registered member of an organized club owing or controlling duck property. The day of the free-boater of the marshes is past, and that of the market-hunter with his big-bore gun seems about to close as does also the open spring season.

A dispatch from the New State club yesterday, stated that the ponds were frozen for the first time during the winter, and the sender of the message said it was so cold his back froze while he warmed his hands before the biggest fire he could build in the club house.

DUCKS IN GOOD CONDITION.

The ducks killed today and yesterday were much fatter than winter ducks usually are, and should be worth a good price. Their fat is a thaw, the opportunities for a big kill are more favorable than they have ever been. The warm winter with the long January thaw is responsible for this condition, together with the fact that gun clubs have kept watchers over their property to prevent out of season poaching, and in some cases have built artificial ponds to make life easy for the swamp birds. Until the past few days the ponds have not frozen this winter, and for this reason many ducks have been killed instead of drifting southward with the cold winds. To make things still better, the frigid snap has brought in a heavy flight of northern ducks, which are populating the ponds much more heavily than in the best of the season last fall.

NEW LAW CLOSES SEASON.

The probability of no open spring season hereafter is the result of legislative action. Sportsmen themselves are the most active supporters of the new fish and game law up before the Legislature. It closes the season for the spring season in the middle of March finds the birds already nesting, and therefore does much more damage than law that would close the season in the middle of February. The new law will prohibit that sort of shooting. The outlook, then, is that this month will see the permanent disappearance of wild ducks from the Utah markets, and the shutting off of shooting even by the club owners, except for a slightly elongated season such fall.

Afraid of Strong Medicines. Many people suffer for years from rheumatic pains, and prefer to do so rather than take the strong medicines usually used for rheumatism. They are afraid of strong medicines, and prefer to do so rather than take the strong medicines usually used for rheumatism. ## THE FABLED EGG OF GOLD.

THE MAN of the nursery-tale, who "killed the goose that laid the golden egg," founded a SCHOOL OF FINANCE and an ECONOMIC SYSTEM which have not yet become extinct. He has an occasional follower among the merchants of today. These disciples of the "Golden Egg School of Finance" are the merchants who discover that they are paying too much money for newspaper advertising. While the past year has been a prosperous one, and they have made more money than ever before, the totals of their advertising bills for the year frighten them, and they ask: "Wouldn't it be fine to have all of this money in the bank?" And, like the founder of that philosophy, who wanted all of the golden eggs at once, they figure that they might just as well put the money in the bank as to pay it to newspapers. And if the man who killed the goose in order to secure the golden egg was wise, then the merchant who tries to SAVE THE MONEY WHICH ADVERTISING COSTS HIM is wise, too—for the two propositions are of exactly the same nature. Perhaps, however, the man of the fable would have been wiser to have fed, to have cherished, to have cared for his valuable fowl—to have spent money for her comfort? If this is true, it applies to the store advertiser, too.
