bearing upon the case. People should avoid being drawn into any crazy current or partizan movement. The situ-ation should be viewed calmly and carefully, and a decision reached without reference to the probable anger of the chief promoters of the scheme if it should be defeated.

The proposition, plain and simple, is to lay down in each of the streets included by the boundaries of District No. 1, a double row of pipes to receive sewage from the houses, by other pipes to connect them with each house in the District. The cost, to be paid by the property owners, consist of a tax of two per cent on the assessed valualion of their real estate for the presit year and $100 each additional. We hope our readers will not be bur-tiled along with a crowd to commit themselves to a great mistake. It is not true that nearly half of the property value of District No. 1 stands to this rule of obedience. How complete is the comparison to the sacrifice of the Lord. In the similitude of that sacrifice the believer who is baptized by immersion by an authorized servant of God is buried, and comes up free from sin, if he has been honest in his obedience. Then comes the realization of the promise, the gift of the Holy Spirit. Those who have this Spirit have an infallible guide, that by cultivation becomes a fountain of revelation to those thus blessed, the Scriptures become a new book, and what was sealed to them committed to the system proposed. Many persons who have been represented as favoring it say emphatically hey are opposed to it and will protest against it, and have only said they want some system of sewerage or means of sanitation for the city. That is widely different to endorsing the

It is only a protest maginat it that is open to the taxpayers of the district. Every property owner who does not protes', will appear to the City Council on the light of Octowith batred. Thus is fulfilled the saying of Jesus, "I came not to bring peace, but to bring a sword." Some-times the worst enemies of a man who receives the Gospel are those of his own family or kindred. He says this in consequence of the decree he has tion, said he approached the perform. ance of this duty with a degree of remade. There is a promise regarding those who do not fear the enemies of luctance, feeling his own inadequacy for the task. He relied on the Lord, truth, for faith and fear cannot dwell however, for His blessing and guidtogether in the same person. The promise to those who are willing to ance. It is always interesting to conance. It is always interesting to con-template one of the chief purposes of our coming together—that of partak-ing of the scrament, and renewing our covenant to keep the commandments of the Lord. It has tallen to the lot of the Science in all energy to the source his life shall lose it. He who will deny his faith to save him-self shall lose his life eternal. As Joseph Smith said, it will be dis-covenant to the set to be counciled the Saints in all ages to be compelled covered that in the celestial kingdom to follow the Captain of our salvation there be found such opportualties to largely through evil report, for they have display genuine moral courage as are afforded in connection with this Church, against which rearly every hand is menacingly uplifted? What we experience in the shape of trouble been everywhere spoken against. There is a proneness among the people to forget God, and they need to be frequently reminded of their duty.Had is the best thing that could happen not the Sacrament been instituted, we for our advancement. It is the great developer of character. Consequently would probably be more neglectful than we are, and that is certainly unhere are a community of sturdy characters, and those who say they necessary. Not long since I was asked a ques-tion relative to a very important sub ject. How can we increase our faith to that point that will enable us to take hold of eternal life? The leading have no spirit of independence are mistaken. The course our enemies have pursued has been one which tends to make us great. We are yet in our infancy in this regard. There take hold of eternal life? The leading principle in this line is that of sacrifice, which was exemplified in our savior's course. It is therefore profitable to us not ealy to partake of the emblems of His sacrifice, but to understand its application to our lives. He gave Himself a ransom, that as by one man death came into the world, so also by His sacrifice the way was opened to the resurrection and the life. Not only was His arony intense ou the the resurrection and the life. Not only was His agony intense on the cross, but his whole earthly career come. When men professing to be Latter-day Saints say we shall have to lay aside our religion because the great entailed suffering indescribable, for before his view continually was the sacrifice He would have to make, and majority, say we must, they have not much faith in God, or in the divinity sacrince He would nave to make, and which would naturally entail great mental distress, for it is natural for intelligent beings to cling to life. He sacrificed all things to do His Father's will, and it was a constant saying of His that He éaue not to do His own will but the will of the Father mbo and this the the will of the Father of this work. Let us thank God for the trials we have passed through, and acknowl edge his hand in all things; for he who does not acknowledge the hand of God in all things is in dauger of His displeasure. We are far from perfect and need troubles to induce us to fall into line with the truth by rewho sent Him. It should also be the leading object of our lives to do the will of God who sent us; for we also to fall into line with the truth by re-pentance. We have legislation—as in the world—in favor of the rich as against the poor; we have those among us who seek for pleasure rather than the things of God; we have those who seek first mammon, the god of this world, when the true position is to seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness. We had better seek first His kingdom and righteous-ness, even if we have to wait till the resurrection for the other things to be added. We can-not afford to make a mockery of our religion. Injustice cannot be leading object of our lives to do the will of God who sent us; for we also are here because we have been sent. It is our duty to place ourselves on the altar of sacrifice; to say, Father, show us Thy will and give us strength to follow it. To those who do His will its promised that they shall sit is the light of truth; to them it is given to know of the doctrine, dis-pelling all doubt. How necessary it is, then, to seek for the faith once de-livered to the Saints. The character of that faith was such that they could stand unmoved in the face of every danger; they could quench the violence of fire, and do many wonderful things; they could face the fagot and the stake because they knew they were right. It has always seemed to me that is. Was needful for the people of God in this age as well as other ages, to be confronted by every species of dificulty; to be surrounded by those who seek, their, destruction, for where there is no right nor advers-ity there is no education; the lessons of experience are indefinite, and their effects stronger than those reached not afford to make a mockery of our religion. Injustice cannot be done with impunity. Those who con-travene that self-operative principle of justice will find themselves in the grasp of her hand. As has been poet-ically said, the fect of justice are clothed in wool, and you hear not her stealthy tread; but her grasp is iron, and cannot be loosened except by the power of Omnipotence. God has been teaching us to recognize these princi-ples by which He himself is coverned, and we must sconer or later place our-selves and devoting all to the cause of truth and right. We then will need to have no fear of opposition, for the foundation upon which we stand will be impregnable. May God enable us to square our lives with the Gospel of Jesus Christ, that we all may be saved. effects stronger than those reached through other processes. dollars, will have to pay the $100 for connecting pipe, and the great firm, assessed at a hundred thousand dolhars will have to pay for it no more.

These lateral pipes are to run into a main sewer the site of which and the cost of which no man knoweth. The first location, by a direct sewer to the Jordan, was planned at an estimated cost of $25,000, the real cost being computed by many at double that amount. But the first idea was abandoned, and the next notion was to carry it along Fourth South Street a given distance, then turn north and finally westward so as to discharge somewhere near Pettit's on the Jor. dan. The estimated cost of this is put, in round figures, by practical men at not less than $100,000.

Another project is to run the main sewer along a lower street, say Seventh South, and carry it out west over the Jordan to White Lake. To do this, pumping would have to be resorted to; the cost of the sewer would be about $190,000, and of the pumping apparatus nobody knows.

Still another plan is to provide a dumping ground, carry the sewage to it by the most feasible route, and convert the waste matter into fertilizers to be utilized for agriculture. What the cost of this would be has not yet been determined.

The expense of the main sewer and the disposition of the sewage is to come out of the city treasury; in other words, outof the pockets of the taxpayers in every part of the city. That it will be something enormous can be readily perceived by every person who will considered the area covered by this city and the distance, the sewer must be built to be of any service. If the sewerage system is only to include District No. 1, then the whole city will be taxed for its especial benefit. If other districts are formed, then the main sewer will have to be extended farther east, at additional cost to the general taxpayers, added to the special taxes on the districts formed.

These facts must be held in view before just and sensible peepls can come to a rational conclusion as to what ought to be done. To throw out of the question the disposition of the sewage and the construction of the main sewer to conduct it, is to refuse consideration of its most important and most expensive feature. It is not an honest and rational manner of discussing it.

It is said "the people are not called upon to decide the question of .its.disposition." Just so. They are called upon to decide whether they want these lateral pipes to carry sewage-no one knows where and at an Indefinite
