That God can even make the emis-That God can even make the emissaries of the Evil one assist in spreading the cause of truth is evidenced by this remarkable document of the Governor. Simple-minded people who have never had an opportunity to associate with minds of large views like Gov. Murray's, are unable to understand why the words marriage relation should follow illegal cohabitation-before he can give his consent to a statute. The clause is to accommodate the clause is to accommodate those who have lady friends, as many have here in the East, who are regarded far higher than wives. This, it seems to me, is the only reasonable construction that can be put upon his action, for he surely can not be such an idiot as to think that the country at large will sustain his action, thereby giving him a further pretext to coil the slimy arms of fraud and deliberate falsehood around an innocent and unoffending people.

It undertakes to convey information from one point to another, and it is its duty to see that it is information, not misinformation, which its agents transmit.

That a lawless and wicked mobbacked by religious fanaticism, did some forty years ago, despoil your people and crive them from their pleasant, hard-earned, honest homes, after de ilberately and brutally murdering in cold-blood your much beloved and noblest men, has become a matter of history that is not now disputed by any one who takes the trouble to look up the fact. The better class of citizens of this city can more fully sympathize with you in the calamity inflicted upon you by the appointment of your present Governor, having but recently passed through scourges of both water and fire, the emembrance of which is kept vividly in our minds by the destruction along our river front and in the wreck of our Court House, with almost all its contents. Full accounts of both have reached you long since no doubt, through the newspapers. ABOUT COUGHS AND COLDS. Coughs and colds are prevalent now, especially among children, too often from the ignorance or carelessness of their guardians. Many mothers appear to accept with resignation the repeated and violent colds from which their children suffer as providential and unavoidable. A cold is by no means always due to exposure. Indigestion, constipation, a lack of scrupulous cleanliness, the unwise habit of sleeping in much of the clothing worn during the day, unaired bed chambers—all or any of these things may have far more to do with your child's tendency to cold than the keenest breath of the bracing winter air. And in great meabracing winter air. And in great measure these things are under your control. Mothers should understand that it is a fact whether they can see how it is or not, that numerous colds and sore throats are directly traceable to indigestion and dietetic errors. Quantities of greasy food, fried meats, pastry and the like, illi-ventilated rooms, and continued constipation have to answer for many cases of croup and putrid sore throats. All these things weaken the system and render it far less able to resist changes of temperature—Give every All these things weaken the system and render it far less able to resist changes of temperature.—Give every bedroom a thorough airing every day, more especially if several children are obliged to sleep together, or with their parents. This is to be avoided if possible: if not, always lower a window slightly from the top—or if this cannot be done, raise it from below. There is frequently bad air enough generated and breathed in the sleeping apartment of a family with small children, to supply them all not only with coids, but with a number of so-called "malarious" disease, to last a year, perhaps longer. Neglect of bathing is another prolific source of colds. A child from three to ten years old should certainly receive an entire bath twice a week in winter. A warm bath at night, taking special care to avoid any chill after, will frequently break up a sudden cold. Keep children from playing in chilly unused rooms in autumn and winter. Let them play out of doors as much as possible, taking care to have their feet warm and dry. A fannel sust and rubber overshoes will often save much cough medicine and doctor's bills. Keep them warmly clad, but do not be content with thick coats and worsted
